GOOD TIMES AT HAND FOR U. S., CAPITAL FEELS

Everybody's Talking About Change.

Stocks Bound Upward

Stock markets all opened with a bang after being closed nine business days. Leading shares advanced from 2 to 12 points, all groups participating. In indicated market value, stocks on the New York exchange appreciated 3 billion dollars over quoted value on March 3. At the day's close the market was strong.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 15.—[Special.]—The feeling that good times are at hand pervades the atmosphere of the capital and apparently of the whole country. It is the talk of the town. Everybody is commenting on the change in the attitude of the people and of business prospects that has been wrought by ten days of the administration of President Roosevelt.

The transformation is attested not only by what one hears on every side in and out of official circles but by the contents of 10,000 letters and telegrams received at the White House up to date. It is a transformation from despair to hope and confidence.

Zooming Prices Please.

The zooming upward of prices on the reopened stock markets today is regarded as a barometrical indication of the economic weather that is setting in. Believing the bedrock bottom of the depression had been reached from which there was nowhere to go but up and that higher prices are in sight, thousands of investors and speculators rushed forth to get in on the ground floor.

Strength in the bond market today was pleasing to high government officials who watched the advance closely. They were a little less pleased at the bounding stock market which they were afraid might escape into serious excesses, ending "with somebody getting hurt," as one official put it.

Expect Commodity Rise.

Hope was voiced in the administration that the commodity markets which open tomorrow, mainly in Chicago, will prove as strong as the bond market. Advances in commodity prices would pave the way for sound business recovery and the administration was represented as standing ready to step into the economic situation once more to give impetus to a business revival.

Increased commodity prices are confidently expected to materialize, if for no other reason because of the inflation of the currency created by the issue of federal reserve bank notes based on the liquid assets of banks not hitherto eligible to discount. Many business men look for a doubling of present prices in from three to six months.

The outstanding development since March 4 is the universal confidence that the President and his policies have inspired. The hardest shell partisan Republicans hereabouts are confiding privately and some of them publicly that they freely give him full credit for performing a miracle.

Takes Country by Storm.

The courage, determination, and resourcefulness of the new President have apparently taken the country by storm. The reopening of the banks with deposits everywhere exceeding withdrawals crowned with success the first action taken by the administration. The President gives the credit for this accomplishment to Bill Woodin, as he calls his secretary of the treasury, but the prevailing opinion is that the success of the gigantic undertaking is properly attributable in no small degree to the vigor and assurance with which Mr. Roosevelt acted and particularly the confidence he inspired in his Sunday night radio address to his countrymen.

Everybody here is talking about the change at the White House from the cold, dour, forbidding atmosphere of the Hoover régime to the informality and cheerfulness of the Roosevelt establishment. They say it is all because of the engaging Roosevelt personality and that in that radio talk Sunday night it operated at long range as effectually as it does in close up personal contacts.

There is abundant evidence that it is the whole Roosevelt program as it is unfolding itself that is restor-

HALF A BILLION MEASURE GOES BACK TO HOUSE

Only Minor Changes Are Made.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 15.—[Special.]—The half billion dollar economy bill, second legislative ace in the Roosevelt "new deal," was passed by the senate late tonight.

As soon as action has been taken in the house on minor amendments imposed by the senate the measure will go to the White House. By his signature President Roosevelt will vest in himself such power as the executive has seldom had. He will have power virtually to rebuild the top-heavy structure of veterans' benefits and cut its annual billion dollar maintenance bill 400 million dollars.

Power to Cut Salaries.

In addition the President will have authority to cut down federal salaries, bringing them into line with the present cost of living, using the 1928 purchasing power of the dollar as a base. He will have the right to declare a maximum salary cut of 15 per cent. The total salary decrease looked for is 125 million dollars.

There were two votes that were significant as the senate completed its consideration of this, the second major measure to be passed by congress in the brief six days the special session has been running.

One was the vote of 62 to 13 by which the economy bill, riding down all attempts to halt or amend it, finally pushed on to passage.

Mileage Rider Defeated.

The other was the vote of 35 to 42 defeating a rider proposed by Senator William E. Borah [Rad., Idaho] to cut congressional mileage—now 15 cents—to five cents a mile, by which the senators proved that they were willing to impose economy on veterans and employés but would not impose this extra economy on themselves.

On the first vote the Democrats flocked en bloc to support the economy demand of their President. Forty-three of them voted in favor of the bill and only four against it.

The Republicans, though displaying by no means the same overwhelming majority, furnished nineteen votes for the measure and nine against.

Borah Chides Colleagues.

It was prior to the other vote that Senator Borah, opponent of the bill, chided his colleagues with the declaration:

"We cannot justify collecting three or four times as much mileage as we actually have to spend. It is not only a matter of economy but of preserving our own record."

But the senators could not agree to curtailing a prerogative that will cost the taxpayers $169,500 in the next fiscal year. They will have their salaries cut from $10,000 to $8,500 under the economy bill, and though $5 voted for the Borah amendment, 42 senators figured evidently that the $1,500 salary slash was contribution enough.

Some of the newer members, on the other hand, cast their votes with the senator from Idaho.

Legion Head Urges Support.

Passage of the economy bill brought an immediate plea from Louis A. Johnson, national commander of the American Legion, for the veterans to support the President.

The Legion had lobbied and propagandized strenuously throughout consideration of the bill. But Commander Johnson recalled the pledge of loyalty he had given the President on the day following the inauguration.

"The time to render that service has arrived," he said. "Congress has given to the President the authority to put into effect the economies the President believes necessary to restore the financial stability of our country. This new legislation is fraught with grave consequences to the disabled veteran. The President, under the authority given him, has powers of life and death over thousands of men who once gladly offered their lives in a period of national emergency.

Says Legion Has Faith.

"The Legion has every faith in the discretion, fairness, and the justice with which the President will deal with this problem—involving as it does in many instances the need for compassion and mercy.

"The President needs the support of every loyal American and today I

Charges 'Deal' in Conviction of Ruth Judd

State Prison, Florence, Ariz., March 15.—(AP)—An attorney for Winnie Ruth Judd tonight charged before the Arizona board of pardons and paroles that the Superior court jury which convicted her of the murder of Agnes Anne Lerol made "a deal" to impose capital punishment only for the purpose of "making her talk."

The jury was influenced, O. V. Willson of Mrs. Judd's counsel informed the board, by four of its members to believe that the board of pardons and paroles would commute the death penalty and that the threat of death held over the woman would force her to expose others the jurors believed might be involved.

The charges climaxed a hearing at which the board had heard Mrs. Judd's story in detail and for four hours had been closeted with her alone behind locked doors.

Resume Hearing Monday.

At the conclusion of tonight's session arrangements were made to resume the hearing in Phoenix Monday for presentation of evidence by other witnesses.

The brief, fiery session followed the secret sitting from which not only newspaper men but Mrs. Judd's attorneys had been excluded. Mrs. Judd was not present when her counsel made the charges and it was not known whether she also had made the same assertions during the session.

Willson asked that the shorthand reporter's transcript of the four hours of testimony be read for the information of the condemned woman's counsel and requested resumption of the hearing as soon as possible.

Willson requested that he be permitted to bring the four jurors he had mentioned before the board of pardons and paroles.

Decline to Hear Jurors.

After considerable argument the board declined to hear the jurors.

Willson charged that on the first vote, which was taken on the question of "Guilty or not guilty," the jurors decided on a verdict of first degree murder and on the third successive ballot they reached a verdict of capital punishment.

There were six witnesses on the list agreed upon tonight by the board and Mrs. Judd's counsel to be called Monday.

Mrs. Judd is under sentence to hang April 14.

FATHER GIVES 12 REASONS FOR NEEDING RELIEF

The right of a father of twelve children to obtain relief from the state while employed at $25 a week will be tested in the South State street court today. George Papas, 52 years old, 954 West Harrison street, the father, is to be arraigned on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses.

Under relief regulations persons gainfully employed are barred from receiving state aid.

Papas, for twenty years a painter for the surface lines, was arrested last evening at the car barns at 77th street and Vincennes avenue by Sergt. Ray Giesler on a warrant sworn out by Robert Young of the relief station at 515 South Western avenue. The warrant stated Papas had obtained relief for some time, although working under the alias of George Paloukilas.

"That's all true," admitted Papas at the detective bureau. "But I need the relief. I have twelve children to support."

New Jersey Legislature Votes Repeal Convention

Trenton, N. J., March 15.—[Special.]—By a vote of 15 to 3 in the senate and 49 to 0 in the assembly the legislature today passed a bill providing for a state convention to act on ratification of repeal of national prohibition.

Arrest Regains Half Million in Gems in Miami

Miami Beach, Fla., March 15.—[Special.]—An arm of the law which reached out 1,500 miles from police headquarters, New York, to an obscure bungalow near the northern limits of this resort city today trapped Harry Sitamore, 38 year old "Raffles" of Miami Beach, international jewel thief.

In the comfortable home in which Sitamore lived with his wife and 5 year old son, the long sought fugitive yielded up $500,000 of stolen jewelry.

Led by New York Police.

Led by Lieuts. Michael McNamara and Thomas Fitzgerald of the New York detective force, the local police surrounded the bungalow at dawn.

A patrolman rapped on the door, calling for Sitamore. He remained inside, refusing to answer, so several patrolmen crashed the door.

The raiders were greeted by Sitamore's wife, who, with her child crying by her side, tried to detain the policemen while Sitamore was destroying papers.

For seven hours during questioning at the police station Sitamore maintained that his loot was in a safe deposit box. Finally toward noon he agreed to lead the police to it if they would take him home for a change of clothes.

Quickly Produces Gems.

Rummaging through closets, trunks, and furniture, he produced half a dozen bags, each containing a small fortune in precious stones.

Sitamore also produced a collection of keys which, as tools of his trade, he had been gathering for ten years, exhibiting more regret at yielding up those than in turning over his hoard of treasure.

Recent thefts included $81,000 in gems from Grace Moore, New York opera singer; $60,000 from Mrs. Bertha Glemby Keller after having robbed her and her daughter-in-law before. He said he robbed those who could afford it, and he had given away "plenty of money."

Senate Votes Today to Give Yankees Beer

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 15.—Seventy million Americans, representing more than half the population of the nation, will be privileged to quaff foaming real beer within three weeks, and no questions asked, if the Cullen beer bill follows the legislative course charted for it by senate leaders today. Chairman Harrison of the finance committee said tonight the beer bill will be called up for action in the senate tomorrow.

Within a few moments after the senate finance committee had paved the way for senate action on the beer bill, labor's committee on modification of the Volstead act stated that 23 states are now in a position to legalize beer sales as soon as the Volstead act is amended. Action to remove legal shackles now preventing sales in several of the other 25 states now are under way, the committee added.

O. K.'s Mild Wines, Too.

In approving the beer bill passed by the house yesterday, the senate finance committee today added only one amendment. This authorized the manufacture and sale of wines whose alcoholic content did not exceed that of 3.2 per cent. The wine amendment was sponsored by Senator William Gibbs McAdoo [Dem., Cal.]. It was accepted by the committee without a record vote. A move to weaken the alcoholic content to 3.05 per cent was defeated.

Fifteen days after the Roosevelt signature is attached beer of not greater than 3.2 per cent alcoholic content by weight can be sold legally in all states where state dry laws do not conflict. The same will be true for wine if that beverage is retained in the measure.

The size of the revenues accruing to the treasury will be in direct proportion to the number of states which arrange for the sale of beer and such other beverages as are included in the Cullen bill.

Since that time the movement to clear the way for beer sales in the states has gone forward rapidly. Only a few days ago Illinois paved the way for the sale of real beer legally as soon as Uncle Sam removes federal restrictions.

Large Revenue Expected.

Other states are falling into line. Backers of beer legislation were asserting today that with better business conditions in prospect, federal revenues from sales of 3.2 beverages might run close to a quarter of a billion dollars.

Labor's Volstead committee today listed the following states as territory where beer can be sold as soon as the Volstead act is amended by the Cullen bill:

Arizona	Missouri
California	Montana
Colorado	Nevada
Connecticut	Rhode Island
Delaware	Washington
Illinois	Wisconsin
Indiana	New Jersey
Louisiana	New Mexico
Maryland	New York
Massachusetts	Oregon
Minnesota	Pennsylvania
Michigan

The total population of those states exceeds 71 million.

As the measure now stands it permits manufacture and sale of beer in Alaska, Hawaii, Porto Rico, and the District of Columbia. Another bill to authorize sale of beer in the District of Columbia was offered in the senate today by Senator Millard E. Tydings [Dem., Md.].

Senate leaders, it was learned, plan to attach a provision to the beer bill continuing the federal tax of 1 cent a gallon on gasoline. Under the revenue act of 1932 which levied the gasoline tax the impost would expire on July 1 next. Continuation of that tax has been counted upon by President Roosevelt as a part of his budget balancing program. The levy on gasoline, it is estimated, will raise approximately 100 million dollars.

This presented an opportunity for the chronic Cook county opponents to air their views and they went to it with a will. Practically every phase of Chicago's tax problem was dragged out and freshly laundered during the course of the afternoon.

As the afternoon lengthened the vast chamber became smoke-filled and uncomfortably warm. Against this handicap, Chicago proponents of the bill labored to put their point across—that passage of the tax was the only insurance that funds could be raised to care for the idle of the state—particularly those in Cook county.

Explain Relief Situation.

They explained that the Illinois emergency relief commission has estimated that from fifty to fifty-five millions of dollars must be raised to care for the idle during 1933 and reiterated the point made so often by Gov. Horner that in those counties where the tax is not used for relief the returns shall go for the reduction of property taxes.

HOUSE VOTE IS 103-45; MINOR CHANGES MADE

Emergency Clause Is Put in Effect.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 15.—[Special.] — The narrow margin of one excess vote passed the three per cent sales tax bill in the Illinois house of representatives today, completing legislative enactment. Having been approved by the senate, but amended in the house, the bill must now go back to the upper chamber for concurrence in the amendments, thence to Gov. Horner. The vote was 103 to 45.

Until the final vote was cast, after five hours' debate and explanation on roll call, it seemed certain that the bill would be defeated. That it was passed constituted the first major victory of the Horner administration. Downstate opposition was the stumbling block and it proved all but insuperable.

All Cook County for Bill.

All of the Cook county members approved the bill. Miss Josephine Perry, Republican from the Woodlawn district, joined the majority side after 102 votes, the number necessary for immediate effect, had been cast. She had voted "no" on the first roll call, but switched upon the urgings of many proponents of the relief measure.

Representative Sam S. Lorton [Dem., Cowden] cast the deciding vote. On the first roll call he voted "no." This roll was completed with only 100 votes tallied for the bill. Representative Lawrence P. Arnold [Dem., Newton], responding to pleadings from his Cook county colleagues, then arose and changed his vote from "no" to "aye." This left the bill only one vote shy of the two-thirds majority necessary and Lorton quickly put it over by following Arnold's example.

The Democrats said that they had one or two other "aces in the hole" also ready to switch if necessary, but they were not required to make this move. Miss Perry's vote was unnecessary, but it was cheered by her Chicago colleagues, for it placed the city's representatives entirely in the "aye" column.

Long Labored Session.

Thus closed a labored session. The house began work upon senate bill 156 [as the key sales tax measure is identified] at 1 p. m. and for the succeeding two and one-half hours the packed chamber echoed to vigorous debate as the bill was praised and pommeled, acclaimed, and condemned.

At 3:30 o'clock the task of calling the roll of 153 names began. It went along in fits and starts, punctuated by purple patches of oratory, for another two and a half hour period. The big clock on the gallery wall pointed to one minute before six when Speaker Roe finally whacked his gavel upon the sounding block and read from the tally sheet handed him by George Blaeuer, deputy clerk of the house.

"The vote," he announced sharply, "is 103 ayes and 45 noes; having received the necessary two-thirds constitutional majority, the bill is declared passed. The clerk will report the title of the bill."

Oratory from Floor.

The length of the roll call indicates the possibilities for oratory from the floor. Few opportunities were missed. By actual count, 38 members explained their votes during the roll and their speeches followed the addresses of sixteen others who chose to speak for or against the measure before roll call.

This presented an opportunity for the chronic Cook county opponents to air their views and they went to it with a will. Practically every phase of Chicago's tax problem was dragged out and freshly laundered during the course of the afternoon.

GLASGOW, March 15.—(AP)—Glasgow university students today followed those of the Oxford union and Manchester university in voting not to bear arms for king or country. debate today, it has been estimated that a 3 per cent sales tax would provide more than fifty million dollars for the state annually, of which Cook county would receive perhaps thirty-five million.

The most fiery opposition came from R. J. Branson [Rep., Centralia], and Leroy M. Green [Rep., Rockford]. Green included an attack upon Gov. Horner in his address, holding that the governor, being a bachelor, could not appreciate the problems of a family head who would bear the burden of the new tax.

Doyle Supports Governor.

The governor's stanchest supporter was Howard L. Doyle [Dem., Decatur], who praised Mr. Horner's humanitarian work during his term as probate judge of Cook county and predicted that he would go down in the state's history as "one of its greatest governors."

Floor Leader Thomas P. Sinnett [Dem., Rock Island], was another whose word was given weight as was that of John P. Devine [Dem., Dixon] whose explanation of his vote and plea for support of the bill constituted a fervent appeal.

SEES $3,000,000 A MONTH RELIEF IN SALES TAX

The Illinois sales tax should provide about $3,000,000 a month for relief of the needy in Cook county after May 1, Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the Illinois emergency relief commission, estimated last night.

"We cannot collect any of the sales tax money until May," he said, "because the act does not become effective until April 1, and collections for April will not be turned over to the state treasury until May 1. We are hopeful that Cook county's relief requirements can be met after May 1 from the sales tax, but no one can predict what the needs will be at this time. The only reduction in sight is in the cost of fuel as warmer weather comes."

Mr. Reynolds and Edward L. Ryerson Jr., chairman of the commission, said that no provision had been made for relief requirements in Cook county between April 1, when the funds on hand will expire, and May 1, but that some plan of anticipating receipts would be taken up by the commission Friday.

CHASES ROBBER OF EMPLOYERS; SHOT TO DEATH

Daniel Nardi, 24 years old, 1315 Portland avenue, Chicago Heights was shot and killed last evening by a robber when he interrupted a holdup of the office of his employers, the Peterson Oil company.

The bandit entered the office of the company at 1250 McKinley avenue, in the suburb, and held up Joseph Knagge, the manager, and two other employés, Edward Ohrt and Harry Bell. He had taken a sum of money from the cash register and was just leaving when Nardi drove up to the rear of the office with a company truck.

The bandit seeing him fled. Nardi pursued on foot and when he drew close to the fleeing robber the latter turned and fired one shot. The bullet struck Nardi in the heart and he died almost instantly.

ILLINOIS SALES TAX BILL PROVISIONS AS APPROVED BY HOUSE

Springfield, Ill., March 15.—[Special.]—The state-wide sales tax bill passed by the house this afternoon imposes a 3 per cent levy on persons engaged in the business of selling tangible personal property at retail.

This means that every article of value sold in the stores of the state, from a knitting needle to a fishing rod, from a yard of calico to a Paris gown, must bear its impost. Even the meals sold in restaurants will be taxed. The sole exemptions are gasoline, which already is taxed 3 cents a gallon, and farm products actually sold on the farms.

When the senate has concurred in amendments and Gov. Horner has signed it the bill will go immediately into effect. Perhaps these steps will require ten days.

Retailers must collect the tax and make monthly returns of the tax receipts to the state department of finance, designated as the state collection agency.

It is the duty of the state department, once the funds are in its hands, to deduct the costs of collection. It is then provided "the balance shall be apportioned among the counties of the state in proportion to their population, according to the last United States census."

Where needed the counties shall use their portions for relief of the idle. Where not needed for such purposes the counties may use the money received from the tax to reduce property taxes. [At present 65 of the 102 counties have been using funds supplied by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission in caring for the idle.]

No Illinois merchant is permitted, under amendments made in the house, to advertise that he will "absorb the tax." He is, however, permitted to stamp any articles he sells with a designation indicating that the state of Illinois is collecting a tax on the customer's purchase.

GARLIC TASTERS SPEND A DULL DAY IN COURT

A battery of experienced garlic tasters sat gloomily in the courtroom of Judge A. W. Summers yesterday, awaiting their opportunity to testify in the case of Frank Ciminio against the G. H. Hammond Storage company. The gloom developed when the judge ruled again that the delectable pastime of testing the garlic involved—there were twenty-one carloads of it—would be delayed until today.

Ciminio, who raises garlic in California, contends that his shipment of twenty-one cars was not properly stored and that he is entitled to $50,000 damages. Witnesses yesterday declared that fourteen carloads had to be thrown away and that the other seven were sold at a heavy discount. Garlic usually is worth $2,500 a carload, it was said.

The Hammond concern's contention is that the garlic suffered no damage while in its warehouses and was actually improved by its stay there.

REVEAL $31,531 OVERCHARGE ON CHARITY COAL

Audit Figures Given Out by Courtney.

Audits showing that the Illinois Emergency Relief commission was charged $31,531 more than the market price of coal delivered to the idle are in the hands of State's Attorney Courtney, who made them public yesterday. The coal was a cheaper grade than that called for in the contracts.

The audits cover the dealings of four of the seven coal companies which are accused of delivering a cheaper grade of coal than that covered in the contracts. When the substitution was discovered on Dec. 2, 1932, the relief commission canceled its contracts, and since then new agreements have been made under competitive bids.

$9,567 Overcharge Shown.

Soon after the substitution was discovered one audit was submitted to the prosecutor showing that F. Bieschke & Sons had overcharged $9,567. Three more audits were submitted last week and three more are now being prepared by Russell L. Porter, chief auditor of the commission.

State's Attorney Courtney yesterday refused to discuss the findings of the auditors, but it was reported unofficially that the prosecuting staff feels that evidence showing only an overcharge does not give a basis for prosecution on criminal charges. Proof must be forthcoming, the prosecutors contend, that the cheaper grade of coal delivered by the companies was not as good as the more expensive Illinois coal covered in the contracts.

Auditors Give Out Figures.

The figures computed by the commission auditors on the records, as they were able to reconstruct them, follow:

Company—	Contract coal, pounds.	Substitute coal, pounds.	Overcharge.
F. Bieschke & Sons—	3,153,800	14,489,200	$9,567
M. F. Hughes Coal Co.—	16,549,100	9,074,900	10,519
Reiner Coal Co.—	17,434,450	9,163,550	8,564
Reading Coal Co.—	6,551,970	3,127,030	2,880

The companies yet to be reported on by the auditors are the Wisconsin Lime and Cement company, the Murray Coal company, and the Capitol Coal and Coke company.

The auditors report that they found coal was purchased by the various companies from mines in Indiana, and even Kentucky, and that the difference in price for this coal as compared with the Illinois coal was from 20 cents to $1.83 a ton.

HOOVER WILL LEAVE TODAY BY TRAIN FOR HOME IN CALIFORNIA

New York, March 15.—[Special.]—Ending a stay here which began immediately after the inauguration of his successor last March 4, former President Hoover plans to leave tomorrow afternoon by train for his home in Palo Alto, Cal. He will be accompanied by Lawrence Richey, his secretary, and by Allan Hoover, his son, who have been occupying a suite with him at the Waldorf-Astoria.

Mr. Hoover devoted his last full day here today chiefly to attendance of the funeral of his late administrative secretary, French Strother, in Garden City, L. I., and to concluding arrangements for the financing during the coming year of three welfare organizations of which he has served at various times as honorary president, and in whose founding he had played a part.

The former President went to the home of Mrs. George B. Van Sickel on Arthur street, Garden City, where he met Mrs. Strother and voiced his regret and sympathy in the death of her husband.

JOHNSTON MYERS STATIONS FEED 150,000 IN MONTH

Food was given to 150,000 persons during February by the Johnston Myers Food Supply organization, the Rev. Mr. Myers said yesterday. The minister, who has looked after the needs of poor people for 45 years, maintains headquarters for his supply stations in the Immanuel Baptist church, 2320 South Michigan avenue, of which he is pastor.

The Rev. Mr. Myers distributed 72,000 loaves of bread, 13,500 pounds of meat, 12,000 pies, 354 bags of potatoes, and 488 bags of onions during February. Food is supplied where it is most needed, and there is practically no administrative cost, he explained.

"I have personal contact with thousands of the needy every week," the Rev. Mr. Myers said. "I use these opportunities to give these people the right ideas about their country and their duties and responsibilities as American citizens. There have been no riots or disturbances of any kind at these food supply stations."

ROOSEVELT ASKS JUSTICES AND WIVES TO TEA

Washington, D. C., March 15.—(AP)—President Roosevelt has decided upon another innovation. This time it affects the Supreme court.

The court has called each year upon the President to pay its respects. For years the practice has been for the justices to stand in a semicircle while the President shakes hands with each and exchanges a few words of greeting.

The court will call upon President Roosevelt tomorrow afternoon, but this time the President has extended an invitation to the justices to bring their wives and have tea. Never before have the wives or members of the families of the justices been present on such visits.

ing public confidence in the government at Washington and reviving hope of better times. What the country is witnessing is a President doing swiftly and certainly what the overwhelming majority of the people demanded and implored should be done under the Hoover administration but to no avail.

No sooner had he ended the bank panic than Mr. Roosevelt began pushing through congress the bill for a 500 million dollar reduction in the cost of the federal government and the bill to legalize and tax beer.

With the economy bill enacted into law and the authority conferred by the last congress to consolidate and abolish bureaus, boards, and commissions Mr. Roosevelt will possess the power to cut close to 1 billion dollars altogether from the present 4 billions which it costs the taxpayers to support the central government. About 400 millions are to be saved by abolishing nonservice connected disability payments to veterans. Another 100 million will be saved by reduction of the pay of the bureaucracy.

Gigantic Savings Estimated.

It has been estimated that reorganization of the administrative branch of the government would accomplish a reduction of nearly 200 million dollars. Then there are upward of 300 millions that could be saved by lopping off numerous paternalistic, subventionary, and regulatory activities of the central government that are not properly federal functions. In his campaign speeches Mr. Roosevelt declared himself in favor of abolishing such activities.

If the President redeems the pledge of his party to reduce federal expenditures 25 per cent, which would be approximately one billion dollars, and if the beer tax yields as much as 150 millions, he will come close to balancing the budget without the assessment of additional taxes. He has promised a balancing of the budget within a year on this basis.

The revival of brewing will bring about an increased demand for grain and for barrels, bottles, and other products of ancilliary industries representing an expenditure of not less than 500 million dollars, according to estimates of the ways and means committee. This increased business activity will mean an increased yield to the government from corporation and individual income taxes.

May Mean Income Tax Cut.

If and when the repeal of prohibition is ratified it will be possible to reduce income and other federal taxes radically for it is estimated that the yield to the federal government alone of taxes on liquor will touch one billion dollars a year. It is understood that the President contemplates taking action at no distant date to spur the states to ratification in the hope that it might be achieved within the year.

The next measures the President will ask of congress are farm relief and relief for the idle, a message on which may go to congress tomorrow. It was also disclosed that the President intends to open negotiations with the surplus wheat producing countries to reduce acreage as a means of raising wheat prices. This will be an outstanding principle of his domestic farm relief bill, but he thinks it would be still more effective if applied by the other wheat countries—Canada, Australia, Argentina, Russia, and the Balkans.

Before taking office Mr. Roosevelt discussed this project with W. D. Herridge, the Canadian minister. Norman H. Davis is to return to Europe this week with instructions to sound European wheat producers on the subject, which may be placed on the agenda of the world economic conference.

5 ACTORS INJURED, NONE SERIOUSLY, IN STUDIO BOMB BLAST

Hollywood, Cal., March 15.—[Special.]—A premature explosion of a bomb on a set of the war picture, "The Eagle and the Hawk," today brought an entire movie set of planks, wiring, and dirt tumbling about Cary Grant, Fredric March, Sir Guy Standing, Jack Oakie, and Arthur Rankin. None was seriously injured.

A plank struck Grant on the head and bruised and cut the right side of his face from temple to neck. March was bruised. Others suffered from shock. Dr. H. J. Strathearn treated them. Movie work on the set was called off for the day.

Five extras besides the five principal players named escaped with minor bruises.

ATTORNEY'S WIFE ROBBED OF $9,600 IN GEMS; BEATEN

Mrs. Belle Katz, 4509 North Sacramento avenue, was beaten by four armed men in front of 2261 Thomas street last night and was then robbed of jewelry which was valued at $9,600 and a $400 fur coat. She was taken to St. Mary's hospital, suffering from shock and bruises.

Included in the articles taken from Mrs. Katz, who is the wife of Jacob Katz, attorney at 188 West Randolph street, were a diamond set wrist watch, valued at $6,000; four rings listed at $2,500, and a $1,000 platinum pin.

HOUND MOTHERS LAMBS; TAUGHT TO HUNT RABBITS

Augusta, Ga., March 15.—(AP)—Two lambs mothered by a hound and taught to hunt rabbits by the puppies—that's the story a farmer told under oath in applying to federal farm agents for a crop loan.

The narrative came in answer to the agents' routine inquiry as to whether he possessed sheep.

Here's the story as he related it after taking the oath required of all applicants:

"I had an old sheep that presented me with two lambs and then died. I just turned them over to an old mother hound and she raised them with her puppies.

"The puppies soon grew up, as did the lambs, and started hunting rabbits. So did the lambs—they just followed the hounds through the woods chasing rabbits, but they never learned to bark.

"The dogs got jealous one day and killed the two lambs. Otherwise, I would be able to show you I did own sheep."

ONE OF LARGEST FIRMS IN WORLD BOOSTS WAGES

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, March 15.—The Imperial Chemical industries, one of the world's biggest concerns and Britain's largest manufacturer of chemical and war materials, is restoring all wage cuts.

It was announced today that the past year's profits amounted to £6,415,423, compared with £4,668,685 the previous year.

The company's capital is £76,000,000 and it employs about 45,000 persons. The wage cuts were estimated at 5 per cent of the total pay roll.

RECEIVER FIGHTS REVOLT OF GROUP IN MEDINAH CLUB

Court Orders Delinquent Members Barred.

A long standing feud between the receiver of the Medinah Athletic club and a powerful faction of the membership was brought to a head yesterday as a result of an order issued by Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward. The order directs the receiver, Saul P. Optner, to bar from the premises all members refusing to pay $10 monthly dues.

With the board of directors on record in favor of a reduction of dues from $10 to 50 cents a month and with members of the anti-Optner faction vowing to risk exclusion rather than pay more than 50 cents, it appeared last night that control of the forty-four story clubhouse, erected as an $8,000,000 monument to Chicago Masonary in 1928, might soon change hands. Up to now some of the original sponsors of the club have shared at least nominal control with the receiver.

Plan a New Club.

Serving notice of the judge's order on the members, Receiver Optner announced that plans are under way for organizing a new club with a new name, admitting non-Masonic members. Among the names under consideration, he said, are the Michigan Avenue club and the Medinah Club of Chicago. The clubhouse stands at 505 North Michigan avenue.

A group of members, apprised of the court's order, have been holding indignation meetings in the office of John R. Fugard, an architect, at 520 North Michigan avenue, across the street from the clubhouse. Among former officers and directors who have been attending the meetings are Attorney William E. Rodriguez, Thor Madsen, Alfred Walcher, Fred O. Burkholder, Will J. Bell, Otto Schmidt and James Triner. They are incorporated in an organization called the Medinah Athletic association.

March Into Club.

Braving the court decree, Rodriguez, Madsen, and Schmidt, all pledged to the 50 cent dues, marched into the club Tuesday night and defied the doorman to stop them. They were not molested, the receiver explaining that he wished to avoid disorder. It was reported, however, that Mr. Madsen left the club for a moment without his hat and coat and in returning was barred from entering, whereupon he threatened to start a damage suit unless his garments were restored. An attendant brought him his hat and coat, according to the report.

Attorney Rodriguez, former counsel for the club and now attorney for the anti-receiver faction, said the lowering of the dues was prompted by the belief of certain members that their payments were only going to meet Mr. Optner's fees and the further conviction that the members were paying $10 for privileges which the holders of hundreds of "guest cards" were getting for nothing. Under Mr. Optner's management, he maintained, the Medinah Athletic club has been "about as exclusive as the Union station."

Gets $47,500 in Fees.

Records in the receivership show that Mr. Optner has been awarded $47,500 in fees since June 30, 1931, the day he was appointed, and that his counsel, Loucks, Eckert, and Peterson, have drawn $30,000. The record further shows that when confirmation of these fees was sought before Judge Woodward's colleague, Judge James H. Wilkerson, the latter pointed out that the receiver was asking four times a federal judge's salary. In the absence of objections which the judge suggested might be forthcoming from the bondholders' committee represented by a loop bank, the record shows the fee was finally allowed.

Interviewed on the fee question, Mr. Optner offered to open the books to show that the amounts paid him and his lawyers have been saved several times over in economies instituted since he took charge. His defense was supported by George W. Pearson, vice president of the Continental-Illinois company, and chairman of the committee representing holders of $4,200,000 of first mortgage bonds, most of which were sold by his company.

Tells of Old Regime.

"The waste and extravagance prevailing when I took charge were almost unbelievable," said Mr. Optner. "The club was losing money at the rate of $1,000 a day. Pay rolls were $20,000 overdue and two years' taxes were unpaid. Certain officers of the club were occupying expensive suites for one-fourth the scheduled rent and others had run up charge accounts amounting to $5,000 or $6,000. To illustrate the waste in furnishing the club, I discovered $30,000 worth of silverware in the basement which we have never found it necessary to unpack, even though we have increased the occupancy from 28 to 78 per cent."

The amount of his own and his attorneys' fees, he said, has been more than saved by his procurement of a revaluation of the clubhouse, which reduced the taxes $81,000. Other economies, he added, have enabled him to pay in full the $141,000 tax bill for 1928 and 1929, and to pay $25,000 on the 1930 taxes. Opposition to his receivership arose, he said, because of his refusal to continue granting members the same privileges they had hitherto enjoyed.

Requests for Contracts.

"One director wanted me to name a member of the club's legal committee as my counsel," he said. "Another wanted to get the concession for selling memberships. A third wanted a $10,000 contract to put a tile covering on the dome of the building. A fourth wanted a commission to draw plans for transforming the miniature golf course into living rooms. A fifth wanted to put through the installation of a Diesel power plant. When I refused these requests, they turned against me."

The receiver says he was compelled to circulate guest cards for admission of nonmembers of the Shrine only because Shrine members were unable to support the club exclusively. He said he considered it his first duty to get in revenue to meet taxes and operating expenses and build up to a point where something might accrue for the bondholders.

Members of the Medinah Athletic association, with Mr. Bell as president, and Mr. Rodriguez as counsel, have been seeking to negotiate to lease the building from the bondholders. Chairman Pearson of the protective committee has announced that the bondholders will not consider such a lease, preferring to support the receiver's reorganization plan. The plan has the support of Robert J. Virtue, president of the Medinah club and leader of the membership group which is coöperating with the bondholders.

Fifth of Roosevelt Clan Goes Into Navy Post

Forest Jobs for 200,000 Latest Plan of Roosevelt

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 15.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt has completed a message to congress which he may send to the capitol tomorrow proposing a plan for putting 200,000 idle men to work in the national forests.

It was also revealed today that the President proposes to place the granting of relief loans to the states under a "commissioner of relief," a new post to be created. This phase of relief under the plan will be taken from the direct control of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, which will become merely the fiscal agency under which the loans are to be made.

For the present, it was learned, the President will not push his plan for the launching of a 500 million dollar federal bond issue for public works construction. He had intended to ask such a fund for highway and public building construction and power development, but encountered conflict among representatives of organized labor who feared the President's plan to recruit men from the army of idle on these projects would interfere with union scales of wages.

Funds Are Sought.

Although the President had not completed his plans for financing the sending of a great force of men into the forests, he was conferring with his budget director, Lewis Douglas, and with Senator Robert Wagner [Dem., N. Y.] in an effort to discover unexpended appropriations which might be used to this end.

His plan is to create, under the supervision of the secretary of war and the army, numerous camps about the country in which idle men might be quartered and sent to various forestry projects as they are required.

The plan is to pay such men $1 a day beside their board and shelter, and the estimates the President has received are that an additional $2 per day for each man will be required for supplies and lodging. At this rate, if 200,000 men were employed, as the plan contemplates, the expenditures would run to $600,000 per day, or roughly $4,000,000 per week.

Year's Work in Sight.

The President's survey has shown that a year's work can profitably be done in the forests, bringing a total expenditure for this purpose to 200 million dollars. The budget director was reported to be encountering great difficulty in finding such a large sum.

President Roosevelt's reasoning in supporting such a plan is that unless something is done the idle men will stay on the dole, receiving money for food and shelter without any gain being received for the expenditure.

If congress approves the plan work can be commenced within three or four weeks, according to the President's advisers. First steps would be taken, it is believed, in the valleys of the Shenandoah and the Tennessee. Surveys have shown opportunity for the expenditure of $13,488,698 in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Arkansas, and New Mexico, it is said.

DONALD KIMBARK IS SUED BY WIFE OF SEVEN DAYS

Mrs. Virginia Miller Kimbark, 21 years old, former cabaret hostess, first met her husband, Donald R. Kimbark, 40 years old, an executive of the Butler Paper company, in the "100 Club," 100 East Superior street, on the evening of Feb. 23. The following evening they were married in Evanston. After living together only seven days he told her he was going to leave her for another sweetheart.

These were the allegations in a bill for separate maintainance filed in the Superior court yesterday by Mrs. Kimbark. When her husband left her, the bill declared, Mrs. Kimbark took sleeping powders with a suicidal intent. She was nursed back to health after being taken to a hospital.

While there, the bill recites, Kimbark and an attorney came to her bedside and demanded that he be allowed to obtain an annulment of their marriage. The bill stated that Kimbark said his sweetheart, whose identity was not disclosed, had ordered him to leave his wife.

Mrs. Kimbark's suit was filed by Attorney Harry X. Cole. Attorney John A. Swanson entered his appearance as Kimbark's counsel. The lawyers said that negotiations for a settlement are under way.

GOV. ROOSEVELT 'BEST PHILIPPINE FRIEND'—QUEZON

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

MANILA, March 15.—Gov. Gen. Theodore Roosevelt concluded his second and final official farewell party tonight in an exchange of felicitations with Manuel Quezon, president of the senate. Roosevelt praised Philippine coöperation, saying the insular government had achieved a high record in facing the economic emergency. Quezon declared Roosevelt was the best friend the Filipinos had ever had, as he understood perfectly the psychology of the people.

The American community is singularly silent at these demonstrations. Many persons believe the sympathy of Roosevelt for the Filipinos to be excessive and to have caused a lowering in dignity and effectiveness in the administrative office. Nevertheless, Roosevelt has won new confidence among American and other non-Filipinos through his leadership in the banking crisis. He sensed the danger, outlined policies, and made strong statements to Washington which resulted in keeping the banks open in the Philippines.

Subsequent events justified his position and vindicated his leadership since the banks actually improved their cash position.

Henry L. Roosevelt Named Assistant Secretary of Navy

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

Washington, D. C., March 15.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today named Col. Henry Latrobe Roosevelt, his sixth cousin, to be assistant secretary of navy. This brings the fifth of the Roosevelt clan into that office. The other four were Theodore Roosevelt Sr., Franklin D. Roosevelt, Douglas Robinson, and Theodore Roosevelt, who now is governor of the Philippines.

This four of the name of Roosevelt have held the post. Two of them, the famous "T. R." and Franklin D., later became Presidents of the United States.

It is not likely that this latest Roosevelt will tread that path, for he already is 53 years old. His cousins were in young manhood when they found that office a stepping stone to the presidency.

Douglas Robinson is the son of the late Corinne Roosevelt Robinson, sister of "T. R."

The appointment was made, it was stated at the White House, at the suggestion of the secretary of the navy, Claude Swanson.

Parallel Careers Often Cited.

Nevertheless, many of the most cherished memories of the President go back to his service as assistant naval secretary. He never protested when the parallel careers of himself and his fifth cousin, "T. R.," were pointed out.

The narrator of any feature of Roosevelt genealogy, such as the present one, risks much ambiguity. For while all of these assistant secretaries of the navy were cousins, and two of them were Presidents, three of them were colonels, three were Republicans, and two were Democrats.

"Col. Harry," as the new incumbent is known, is a Democrat, and his ancestry, as far as could be learned tonight, goes back to Nicholas Roosevelt, son of Claes Van Roosevelt, first American of the clan and common ancestor of "T. R." and Franklin D.

"Colonel Harry" is the son of the late Nicholas Latrobe Roosevelt, and after graduating at Annapolis entered the marine corps, achieving the rank of lieutenant colonel at the time of the outbreak of the world war. After serving through the war Col. Roosevelt resigned in 1920. He then associated himself with the Radio Corporation of America, serving for a time as its European manager. His family home is at Skaneateles, N. Y., and he also maintains a home in Washington.

T. R. First in Job.

The first Roosevelt to become assistant secretary of the navy was "T. R." and he served under President McKinley during 1897 and part of 1898, resigning to form, with Leonard Wood, the famous "Roosevelt Rough Riders." He was also the first of the "colonels."

Franklin D. was appointed by President Wilson and served throughout the war, taking a most active part in naval operations under Secretary Josephus Daniels, who was named just yesterday as ambassador to Mexico.

Then, on President Harding's inauguration, March 4, 1921, the son of "T. R.," Col. Theodore Roosevelt Jr., was given the job. When he resigned to run for governor of New York in October, 1924, his cousin, Douglas Robinson, was appointed by President Coolidge.

Now comes this second Democrat, Col. Harry Roosevelt, to take the post from the hands of his own cousin.

Originally Democrats.

The politics of the Roosevelt clan was originally Democratic before the civil war, and James Roosevelt, father of "F. D.," used to boast that his line had upheld its regularity. This was disputed by the younger Teddy, who, campaigning against "F. D." when the latter was running for the vice presidency in 1920, brought on a wide schism in the family by branding his cousin Franklin as a "maverick." James Roosevelt used to tell that the "T. R." branch was converted to Republicanism by Abraham Lincoln, but "F. D.," an admirer of Lincoln, doesn't speak of the cause of the rift.

Pope Places Red Hats on Six New Cardinals

VATICAN CITY, March 15.—(AP)—Pope Pius today conferred the red berretta on the six new cardinals created at Monday's consistory. In the presence of numerous diplomats and visiting prelates, he ascended his throne in the consistory hall. The new cardinals knelt three times and the pontiff placed upon their shoulders the red cape and upon their heads the ecclesiastical cap.

THOUSANDS PAY 1931 TAXES AS PENALTY FALLS

Estimate Collections at $36,300,000.

The penalty date on the first installment of 1931 real estate taxes fell at midnight last night and from preliminary estimates of receipts it appeared that Cook county had reached a new low in the percentage of the levy collected.

Due to the tremendous crush of last minute payments, which kept County Treasurer McDonough's office open until midnight last night, the exact amount taken in will not be known until some time next week. Clerks in the office have had little time as yet to record the thousands of payments made by mail.

One-Half Due Now.

It was estimated, however, that the collections up to the penalty date, including those by the thirty country town tax collectors, will be about $36,300,000. The total extensions of real estate taxes are $171,000,000, of which only one-half, or $85,500,000, is due at this time.

The collections are less than half of the amount due, and this does not take into account the fact that thousands of taxpayers have paid their bills in full, although the second installment is not due until July 1. In the country towns collectors estimate that 60 per cent of the payments have been in full. At this rate, only $5,600,000 of the $8,000,000 estimated country town collections would apply on the first installment.

Inside the city of Chicago the percentage of full payments was much lower. Up to yesterday morning collections totaled $13,359,330, and about 25 per cent of the items were paid in full, which would have left about $11,600,000 to apply on first installments. Payments yesterday, the majority by large taxpayers who pay only the first installment at this time in order to save interest, were $15,000,000, it was estimated.

An Optimistic Estimate.

Assuming that all of yesterday's payments were first installments only, this would give an optimistic estimate of $32,200,000 paid in the county at large on the first installment of real estate tax bills. This is only 37.6 per cent of the total installment due.

This 37.6 per cent payment at the penalty date is the best basis for comparison with previous years' collections. The 1930 real estate levy, collected last year, was 48 per cent collected at the penalty date. On May 15, 1931, the penalty date on the 1929 levy, 59 per cent of the real estate tax bills had been paid, and on July 10, 1930, the penalty date on the 1928 levy, 76 per cent of the real estate bills had been paid.

The Chicago Real Estate board addressed a letter to the county board asking its members to extend the penalty date on the first installment of 1931 taxes to April 2.

South Park Board Votes for Bridge at 35th Street

In response to the pleas of spokesmen representing more than a dozen south side business and civic organizations, the south park commissioners yesterday voted to proceed with plans to build a temporary pedestrian bridge at 35th street. The bridge will cross the Illinois Central railroad tracks and the outer drive and will lead into the Century of Progress grounds. The estimated cost of the structure is $18,000.

U. S. Recognizes Tax Waste as Barrier to Trade Recovery

BY SCRUTATOR.

The responsibility of governmental waste for the continuation of the depression has now been recognized at Washington. President Roosevelt, in his message to congress last Friday, declared that "for three long years the federal government has been headed toward bankruptcy." The corner stone of the President's plan for reconstruction is a reduction of national expenditures to balance the budget.

The local governments of this community likewise have been riding the road to bankruptcy. Here are the facts:

For the Year 1931.

Cook county governments spent	$296,438,000
Less tax collections [60% of levy]* and other revenue	212,673,000
Leaving a deficit of	$ 80,766,000

In Cook county, United States tax collections totaled $169,000,000 [year ended June 30]; no emergency relief.

*This assumes that as large a percentage of 1931 taxes will be collected as was collected of 1930 taxes.

For the Year 1932.

Cook county governments spent	$353,555,000
Less tax collections hoped for [60% of levy] and other revenue	197,899,000
Leaving a deficit of	$ 54,656,000

In Cook county the United States hopes to collect as much in 1933 as last year; the Emergency Relief commission wants to spend $80,000,000 to provide gratuitously a livelihood in idleness for a population the size of St. Louis.

The hope for the return of prosperity lies in making it attractive to own property and operate businesses. The strongest inducement to do neither is presented by governments which tax to death those still in business and assure heavy taxes into the future by spending more than is being exacted. The appropriating authorities of the local governments now making up the budgets have had the new path laid out for them by the President of the United States.

For the Year 1933.

Cook county governments plan to spend	$363,335,000
Less tax collections hoped for [60% of probable levy] and other revenue	189,029,000
Leaving a deficit of	$ 74,306,000

JUDGE HAYES' ALIMONY IS CUT TO $100 A MONTH

Court Upholds Right of Family.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

A husband's right to a reduction in alimony payments to his divorced wife when he has remarried and assumed the obligations of a family was upheld yesterday by Judge Philip J. Finnegan in the Circuit court. Judge Finnegan ordered Municipal Judge Howard W. Hayes' alimony to his second wife, Mrs. Grace Houston, reduced from $225 a month to $100, the reduction to date from last Dec. 1.

Mrs. Houston, who lives at 1400 Lake Shore drive, resumed the name of her first divorced husband when she divorced Judge Hayes, her second husband, in 1918, after living with him 15 months. She said yesterday that she considered Judge Finegan's decision "not at all just." She was in court with her son, Robert, when the decision was read. Judge Hayes was there also, sitting in the jury box.

Continue Hearing on Petition.

Mrs. Houston's petition to commit Judge Hayes to jail for being $1,425 in arrears in alimony was continued to June 15, to allow Judge Hayes to pay up.

Citing cases in which the remarriage of one of the parties had altered circumstances and formed a basis for a change in amounts of alimony ordered by courts, Judge Finnegan's decision said:

"In this case we have the remarriage of the defendant [Judge Hayes] since the entry of the decree. We have evidence of an income on the part of the complainant [Mrs. Houston] for many years since the entry of the decree of an amount greatly in excess of the salary of the defendant, which sum should be sufficient for her support."

An aggregate of about $35,000 had been paid to Mrs. Houston in alimony by Judge Hayes since 1918, Judge Finnegan pointed out. Meanwhile, he said, Judge Hayes' income had shrunk and he is now solely dependent on his salary as judge.

Shows Decline in Salary.

The original decree stipulated that so long as Judge Hayes' salary exceeded $9,000 he should pay $225 a month in alimony. Judge Finnegan, reviewing the evidence, said Judge Hayes' salary was reduced to $8,600 last year, and his estimated income for 1933 is $7,800.

Judge Hayes has three minor children by his third wife.

CRUSH RELIEVED BY INCOME TAX DATE EXTENSION

The crowd of taxpayers in the federal building dwindled yesterday with the announcement that the time for filing income tax returns had been extended to March 31. More than 10,000 persons, a record number for one day, appeared Tuesday and paid their taxes, as compared with an estimated 4,000 yesterday.

Gregory T. Van Meter, collector of internal revenue in the Chicago district, said that he believed the record set Tuesday would have been broken yesterday, the original deadline for filing returns, if the extension had not been granted.

Approximately 135,000 persons had filed returns at the close of business yesterday. Those taking advantage of the extension must pay 6 per cent interest on their first quarterly payment from yesterday until the payment is made.

900 Sanitary District Workers Get Pay Today

Checks for their salaries for the first half of December will be distributed to 900 employés of the sanitary district, Ross A. Woodhull, chairman of the district's finance committee, announced yesterday. The pay roll, amounting to $115,000, was obtained through the collection of delinquent taxes for 1928 and 1929. Lincoln park employés were paid $45,000 yesterday for the first half of October.

VETS DEFEND ACCUSED COUNTY RELIEF OFFICIAL

Clash with Commissioners at Board Hearing.

William A. Schlupp, supervisor of county relief to veterans, and his assistant, Paul Gutzmer, appeared yesterday before the public welfare committee of the county board to defend themselves against charges of misuse of relief funds. The hearing was marked by clashes between commissioners and representatives of veterans' organizations, who defended Schlupp and Gutzmer.

On March 2 Commissioner Amelia Sears, chairman of the committee, placed an audit of Schlupp's department before committee members, which listed 39 alleged instances of relief to unknown persons at fictitious addresses, and to other persons without proper investigation.

Carpenter Retracts.

Schlupp was confronted with grocery and coal orders issued to Edward Nelson, a carpenter, in return for 72 hours work at the Schlupp home. Schlupp produced a subsequent statement by Nelson denying the relief was received in return for the work.

Under questioning Schlupp stated he bought and paid for the groceries received by Nelson. The articles were not issued through the relief bureau, he said. Commissioner George A. Miller asked Schlupp to write Nelson's name. He compared the writing with that on an order for supplies issued in Nelson's name at a fictitious address.

Commissioner Miller then announced that the handwriting appeared to him to be similar. He asked that a handwriting expert be employed to give an opinion. Representatives of the Commanders' association, an organization of commanders of American Legion posts, under whose authority Schlupp and Gutzmer are employed, said they had no funds to employ an expert.

Accept Explanation.

Schlupp produced files in four of the 39 cases, which showed supplies had been delivered to the proper persons. His explanation of these cases was accepted by the commissioners. He demanded that he be cleared in the other cases because files could not be found. Commissioner Sears pointed out that if supplies were diverted there would be no files to check.

Gutzmer, who had signed the orders in the 39 cases, said he had done so at the direction of Schlupp. In a number of instances, he said, deliveries were made by himself, and while there may have been an error in the addresses on the orders he made delivery at the proper addresses. He was unable to explain why he had failed to correct the erroneous addresses of the orders.

Plead Small Amount Involved.

Representatives of veterans' organizations pointed out that the amount involved in the 39 instances was only $450, as against $24,000 expended in the period during which the irregularities occurred. They asked in view of this fact public apology be made to Schlupp.

"I cannot understand such a position," said Commissioner Miller. "If a bank cashier steals $450 does the fact that he handled $24,000 excuse him? The veterans should be interested in seeing that not one dollar of relief funds are diverted."

The hearing was adjourned subject to the call of Miss Sears, to enable Schlupp to make a further search for missing records.

TAX LIMIT PLAN LOSES IN SENATE AT SPRINGFIELD

Expect Program Will Be Dropped for Present.

BY PARKE BROWN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 15.—[Special.]—Under present conditions Illinois is clearly opposed to an arbitrary fixed limitation on taxation. The uncertainties of the times make such an effort to fix a maximum on a percentage basis impossible.

That was the verdict of the state senate today when Earl B. Searcy of Springfield sought the passage of his bill to limit to one per cent the maximum tax, that except for state purposes, judgment, and bond purposes, may be levied against property.

Eight Votes Short.

It was when a roll call on the first reading of two bills to accomplish this purpose showed only 18 votes—with at least 26 necessary for the effectiveness of his plan next July that Searcy, conceding defeat in effect, moved that further consideration be postponed. It is not expected that the effort will be renewed at this session.

On the final showdown Chicago joined with downstate in agreeing that under the banking and tax situation at this time there was no hope of estimating the taxes receivable next year for any purpose.

Chicagoan in Debate.

Principal participants in the debate at this time were Senator Francis Loughran of Chicago and Senator Charles M. Thompson of Harrisburg, the latter hailing from the far end of the state.

Under other conditions the bill might have had a chance, it was agreed, but in the present stress there was not an emphatic argument that there could be any possibility of estimating revenue under an arbitrarily fixed percentage of the assessable value of property.

Soap Makers Order Huge Newspaper Ad Program

New York, March 15.—(AP)—A three million line newspaper advertising campaign was started today by Procter & Gamble, Cincinnati soap manufacturers, it was announced here by the company's advertising counsel.

"Newspapers are being used because of speed and mobility," said the announcement.

The campaign was started, it was stated, because of "the way the American public has rallied behind the courage and frankness of the President."

REPORTER LOOKS IN ON HONORABLE ART OF BREWING

Huge Vats Exude Rich, Heady Aroma.

BY WALTER FITZMAURICE.

A group of jobless men stood at the entrance of a towered brick establishment at 2107 Blue Island avenue yesterday, smiling as they sniffed the aroma wafted to them from within.

Some of them carried newspapers announcing the response which congress was making at last to the demand shouted from the Stadium galleries at the political conventions last June, the shout of "We want beer." The amber beverage would be back by April 1, the headlines said, and the jobless ones were flocking to the one place that might have jobs to offer.

Within the clean, cindered yard of the plant there was bustling activity. Golden barley malt poured from the open door of a box car into the mouth of a conveyor which lifted it to grinding mills high in the brewery tower. In various adjacent buildings of the plant 230 men were at work.

Honorable Art of Brewing.

Let us fall in behind the presiding genius of the plant, Charles Ellman, Bavarian brewmaster, and learn something of the ancient and honorable art of making the brew which, according to Mr. Ellman, will quench the thirst, stimulate the appetite and warm the heart. The brewmaster goes to the tower room, points out the batteries of grinding mills, and descends to the floor below.

Here is the heart of the brewery. In great copper kettles ten feet tall a fragrant mixture of malt and processed water is simmering for three hours. Thoroughly cooked, it is drawn off and strained into a second group of kettles where it steams another three hours while Brewmaster Ellman weighs out and adds the quantities of sugar, salt, and the native and Bohemian hops which will make it stout and tasty.

Once more the cooking kettles are drained and the clear, amber fluid is piped upstairs to the cooling room where the boiling liquid trickles down over pipes of graduated temperature until it reaches a trough, gently cooled to 38 degrees. Beer is a robust but sensitive beverage and must be treated with care.

A Sample Is Tested.

The product is ready for fermentation. Brewmaster Ellman siphons a sample of the liquid out of the pipes for testing in his laboratory as the brew flows on to the fermentation room where it cascades into great steel tanks with glass lining, there to stand quiet for three weeks after the carefully cultured yeast is added to give it life. Thence it goes to mighty oaken casks holding 200 barrels each, to age for three months or more before being bottled or barreled.

Pleasant are these fermenting and ageing rooms in any season, but a paradise in summer. The rich, heady aroma fills the nostrils. The atmosphere is dark and cool and the quiet is unbroken, save for the occasional passing of a rubber booted and aproned workman with a hose, who flushes the floor, the walls, the casks, for all must be sweet and clean in beer making.

Forty thousand barrels of real beer, testing 4 per cent alcohol by volume, are ageing in this brewery now, waiting the day when the government shall proclaim the lifting of the ban which restricted the product to less than ½ of 1 per cent of alcoholic content. Some of this great supply is being siphoned off to pass through a dealcoholizing distillery for making near beer, but the quantity is small.

"It's only for the states which will remain dry after the beer bill goes through," Mr. Ellman explains. "In Illinois, Wisconsin, and other states we'll have the real thing. We will distribute on our own routes to homes, stores, restaurants and hotels, by barrel or in bottles. We expect to add 250 men to the force.

"Prosit!" Brewmaster Ellman concluded. "Here's your health. Happy days."

Crowd of Idle Seeks Employment in Brewery

Scene yesterday outside brewery at Archer avenue and Throop street as several hundred idle sought employment in making of beverage which is expected soon to become a legal drink. Enactment of the beer bill by congress will provide thousands of new jobs. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

AKRON RIDES OVER CARIBBEAN STORM; EXPLORES PANAMA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BALBOA HEIGHTS, C. Z., March 15.—The United States navy dirigible Akron arrived over France field from Miami this morning after weathering a Caribbean rain squall. It covered about 1,000 miles in 22 hours 25 minutes.

After maneuvers over the canal's Atlantic entrance, the airship launched two special scouting land planes in which Lieutenant Commander H. V. Wiley, the ship's executive; Commander Garland Fitton of the bureau of aeronautics construction corps, and Lieutenant Commander Robert E. Thomas landed. After crossing the isthmus another plane was launched, landing Lieut. R. W. Lawson and Lieut. F. N. Kivette, the pilot.

In a plane, Rear Admiral C. H. Woodward, commanding the special service squadron, hooked on to the Akron over Balboa and accompanied it on a flight over Panama and then over the canal. Admiral Woodward discussed with Commander F. C. McCord of the Akron a suitable site for a landing mast. Later Admiral Woodward returned to land, the visiting officers returned to the Akron, and the dirigible left for Miami.

Dealer in Old Gold Found Shot to Death in Cicero

William Beiner, 54 years old, 2101 South 48th court, Cicero, an appraiser and dealer in old gold, was found shot to death yesterday in a room in the Western hotel, 4823 West 22d street, Cicero. A revolver was found near the body and Police Chief Arthur Wentzel of Cicero said Beiner probably had ended his own life. Mrs. Louise Beiner, the widow, said that she last saw her husband three weeks ago.

CAFETERIA CHAIN ASKS LICENSING FOR BEER SALES

Loop Hotels and Cafes Await "the Day."

Five applications were made yesterday by Harmony cafeterias for licenses which will enable them to sell beer. Edward J. Kaindl, city collector, estimated that at least 100 places in the loop would be selling beer as soon as it is legalized by congress. The estimate includes all the large hotels, night clubs, and many of the downtown restaurants.

Contingent upon passage by congress and the President's signature and the elapse of fifteen days for the law to become effective, preparations were under way for the dispensing of 250,000 barrels of good, aged beer now ready for distribution. This is the equivalent of 100,000,000 steins.

Seven Breweries Ready Here.

Joseph Dubin, editor of the Brewery Age, said the 3.2 beer is 0.2 per cent stronger than the average pre-Volstead beer. He said seven breweries in Chicago are now equipped to turn out 1,500,000 barrels a year, and twelve other breweries are being rehabilitated or constructed, presaging for Chicago an annual output of 3,000,000 barrels ($5 tax per barrel), as compared to 2,000,000 barrels brewing capacity before the war.

At the offices of the Illinois Manufacturers' association it was said the seven breweries in Chicago and the two now in operation downstate employ 1,500 persons. When these breweries and the new ones are going full blast 10,000 persons will be employed and 35,000 additional workers will be needed in allied industries, the association said.

Hotels Make Preparations.

Frank Bering, manager of the Hotel Sherman, said beer would be placed on sale in the hotel dining rooms as soon as the law becomes effective.

Harry L. Kauffman, owner of the Congress hotel, said a bar is to be put back in the coffee shop, now on the Congress street side of the hotel. A merry-go-round bar is being put in the grill room—mainly for World's Fair entertainment.

Loop establishments which either have beverage licenses now or have applied for them, and will be authorized to sell beer at the moment it becomes legal, include the following:

John P. Harding's restaurant, 131 North Clark street; Berghoff's, 15 West Adams street (which has license No. 1); Edelstein's, 111 North Dearborn street; North American restaurant, State and Monroe streets; Bollard & Frazier's, 20 West Lake street; Illinois Athletic club, 112 South Michigan avenue; W. & R. Sandwich Shop, 78 West Randolph street; Marshall Field & Co.'s grill for men; Machinists' Society of Chicago, 113 South Ashland avenue; the Palmer house, the Atlantic hotel, and Hotel La Salle.

ASK INDIANA DEALERS TO FILE REQUESTS FOR WHISKY PERMITS

Indianapolis, Ind., March 15.—[Special.]—Application blanks for permission to sell medicinal whisky in Indiana were mailed to prospective wholesalers and retailers, it was announced tonight by Al Feeney, temporary excise director of the state's new liquor control law.

Feeney said the blank forms had been approved by the attorney general and are being sent to the wholesalers and retailers who already have notified him they desire to handle liquor.

Feeney said he did not know when medicinal whisky will be available in Indiana. It was forbidden from 1925 until now because of the Indiana dry law which was recently repealed.

Convict Husband as Killer; Romance of Bonus March

Reading, Pa., March 15.—(AP)—Chief Running Wolf, one of the leaders of the bonus expeditionary army in Washington, was convicted of voluntary manslaughter tonight in the shooting to death of his wife, Etta, whom he met at the Anacostia camp. The penalty for voluntary manslaughter is six to twelve years. The Indian will be sentenced later. The jury's decision came after four and a half hours of deliberation.

Captive Confesses 40 North Side Burglaries

Gerald Lucas, 20 years old, 5438 Winthrop avenue, under arrest at the Rogers Park police station, confessed to Capt. Patrick Harding last night that he had committed more than forty burglaries on the north side in recent months. He climbed over transoms to enter, he said. Lucas and a confederate, John Rita, were caught as they were looting the home of I. A. Richey, 1630 Farwell avenue.

CHICAGO AWAITS SPECIAL LAWS ON DE FACTO MAYOR

Officials Hope Assembly Will Pass Program.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Politics on the mayoralty situation remained in status quo yesterday while the Democratic party leaders sought to formulate a program for emergency legislation at Springfield.

With Frank J. Corr now in Mayor Cermak's vacant chair as mayor de facto, party chiefs regarded the situation as exerting pressure on the state legislators to pass measures to clothe him with powers to sign bonds, warrants, and other documents, and to deal with the matter of a special election or otherwise for the filling of the rest of the unexpired term, which runs to April, 1935.

Situation Is Complicated.

The Democrats propose to hold an election June 5 at the time of the judicial election and to dispense with primaries, making the nominations by conventions. This would require the two-thirds vote needed for emergency legislation and would mean that aid would have to come from the Republicans if the Democrats meanwhile should keep their forces together on a vote.

In case a two-thirds vote is not forthcoming at Springfield, the prevailing idea at headquarters is to hold an election in July, as ordinary legislation would take effect July 1.

At headquarters yesterday and at the city hall, comment centered upon the smoothness with which the Democratic organization operated in the election of Alderman Corr as de facto acting mayor. As new leader of the local Democracy, County Chairman Patrick A. Nash, who succeeds Mayor Cermak in that post, was regarded as having put both the question of leadership and organization to an unusual sort of test. After consulting with the Democratic office holders and committeemen, Leader Nash simply announced that his recommendation was Mr. Corr, and laid it on the lap of the organization to show whether it was actually in control.

Analyzing Tuesday night's balloting in the city council on the two candidates for acting mayor, Ald. Corr and Ald. John S. Clark, the prevailing opinion among the politicians that it has not occasioned much of a break in the organization. On the balloting, the organization had 26 Democratic aldermen, a majority of the council for Ald. Corr, in addition to enough Republican votes to give him a total of 33.

On the other hand, the insurgent Democrats who made the fight against Mr. Corr, got only five Democratic aldermen among the 16 who supported the movement to select Ald. John S Clark. Of the five two were "lame ducks" who have lost their seats and two were the leaders in the revolt, Ald. Clark and Ald. James B. Bowler.

"Doc" Schireson Appeals Order Revoking License

Henry J. Schireson, so-called plastic surgeon, yesterday appealed to the Supreme court at Springfield to reverse the order of the state department of registration and education, which revoked his license to practice in Illinois. The Supreme court granted a hearing and Schireson was given additional time to file the record in the case. The Superior court of Cook county has affirmed the order of revocation.

FOUND DEAD IN OFFICE.

William Feisen, 50 years old, 364 Wisconsin street, a machinist, was found dead yesterday in the offices of Schwab & Co., shoe manufacturers, 40 South Market street. A heart attack was believed to have been the cause of his death.

Corr Presides Over Council on First Day as Acting Mayor

Acting Mayor Frank J. Corr yesterday put in his first day in his new position and presided over his first council meeting, which proved to be a stormy one at times.

Among the matters before the council were charges that the business of bonding proprietors of soft drink parlors is being diverted to Albert J. Horan, bailiff of the Municipal court. The charges followed an attempt by Ald. Thomas J. O'Grady [14th] to have the bond section in the city's retail beverage license ordinance repealed.

O'Grady's repeal bill was opposed by Ald. Thomas J. Terrell of the 29th ward, the Democratic committeeman of which is Martin J. O'Brien, a partner of Bailiff Horan in the bonding business. Horan also lives in the ward.

Repeal Move Fails.

The two aldermen quieted down after an altercation in the meeting but the controversy was resumed as they filed from the council chambers later.

"You know," O'Grady shouted at Terrell, "that your boss, Al Horan, gets the $20 fee from each $2,000 bond, and that one of your precinct captains works in a La Salle street office where applicants for licenses are directed."

"That's your last shot," Terrell replied, referring to the defeat of O'Grady on Feb. 28, which will take him out of the council in April.

In moving for repeal, O'Grady contended, as did a number of other aldermen, that inasmuch as the bond is a character bond the applicants should be permitted to substitute for it an affidavit as to character signed by two reputable citizens. On a viva voce vote Acting Mayor Corr ruled against O'Grady. The ruling was criticized by a number of aldermen who heard the vote.

The acting mayor took the gavel as soon as the council had approved his bond. The session started with a discussion which arose when Ald. John J. Hoellen [47th] introduced a resolution, later referred to the committee on police, requesting the corporation counsel to seek dissolution of all injunctions protecting slot machines from police gambling raids.

Name Street Cermak Road.

The council adopted the resolution of Ald. John Toman [23d] to change the name of 22d street to Cermak road. Ald. Toman said that Cicero, Berwyn and North Riverside also are ready to change the name of 22d street to Cermak road within their limits.

The next council meeting will be held next Monday. If by that time the legislature has not passed a bill authorizing the city to postpone completion of its budget to June 15, the aldermen expect to pass some sort of a makeshift budget to comply with the existing law.

As soon as he arrived at his office in the city hall yesterday Acting Mayor Corr called Corporation Counsel Sexton, Commissioner of Public Works Hewitt and Controller Szymczak to a conference at which he assured them of his determination to carry out the policies of the late Mayor Cermak, and that he would consult with them to that end.

AUTHOR TO WED HIS BOYHOOD SWEETHEART

Del Monte, Cal., March 15.—(AP)—Culminating a romance which started when they were children, Miss Maude Hill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hill of St. Paul, Minn., and Laurence Holmes Dorcy, San Francisco writer, will be married at St. John's Episcopal chapel tomorrow.

The wedding will be attended by intimate friends and relatives. A reception at the Hill home at Pebble Beach will follow the ceremony.

Miss Hill is an ardent sportswoman. She attended the Westover school in Connecticut. Both she and her fiancé are well known in California cities.

Dorcy has written several fiction stories and some scenarios.

Kearns Wears Shamrock Brought from Ireland

A real shamrock, straight from Ireland, blossomed in the coat lapel of City Treasurer James A. Kearns yesterday, although St. Patrick's day was two days distant. Mr. Kearns explained that the shamrock is one of several thousand which will be distributed to guests at the 30th Celtic ball at White City on St. Patrick's night. The shamrocks were imported by the United Celtic-American societies of Chicago which are sponsoring the ball.

STATE AT JACKSON

DEPOSITS HERE GAIN AS MORE BANKS REOPEN

Others Will Resume Full Operation Today.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Stimulated by the reopenings of the stock exchanges and hundreds of banks throughout the middle west, Chicago banks yesterday reported another increase in deposits. The return of hoarded gold to the Federal Reserve bank continued unabated.

The reopening of a score of suburban banks and three more institutions within the Chicago city limits added to the volume of business in the metropolitan area. Approximately 600 banks in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin, and Michigan reopened yesterday. Chicago banks reopened by the state auditor yesterday were Pioneer Trust and Savings bank, 4000 West North avenue; Pullman Trust and Savings bank, 400 East 111th street, and University State bank, 1354 East 55th street.

25 More to Reopen Today.

Twenty-five more banks in Illinois, two of them in Chicago, were authorized last night by State Auditor Edward J. Barrett to reopen today. All of them will open on an unrestricted basis. Mr. Barrett said that others would be given consideration as fast as the work in connection with them can be done and a continued operation assured. The Chicago banks to reopen today are the Edison Park State Savings bank, 6733 Olmsted avenue, and the Drexel State bank, 3944 Cottage Grove avenue. The latter bank also was granted a membership in the federal reserve system and authorized to reopen under provisions governing federal reserve members.

The Western State bank, 5600 West 22d street, Cicero, also was authorized by the state auditor to reopen today.

The Chicago Federal Reserve bank remained open during the night in the expectation of receiving from Washington a new list of more federal reserve member banks in this district which would be permitted to reopen, but at an early hour this morning no such authorization had been received.

Bank Deposits Mount.

Officials at State Auditor Barrett's office last night reported that bank deposits are increasing.

"Without exception banks that have reopened have enjoyed increased deposits," one official said. "This is also true downstate. Everywhere there is renewed public confidence."

With banks aggregating approximately 98 per cent of the city's banking resources resuming normal and unrestricted operations, Chicago appeared to have come through the nationwide bank holiday in better shape than any other large city.

The Chicago banks which were doing business yesterday had an aggregate of one billion 699 million dollars of deposits at the close of last year. The eighteen Chicago banks which up to yesterday had not yet reopened after the moratorium had only 37 million dollars of deposits at the close of last year. State banking officials point out that there are some additional banks which will be reopened within the next few days.

Soaring prices for stocks of Chicago banks yesterday formed a feature of one of the most active days La Salle street has seen in months. Northern Trust stock gained 70 points on the day's trading. Harris Trust was up 15 points.

The more active issues registered similar gains. Continental Illinois National, which at opening time yesterday morning stood at 54 bid, closed at 76 bid, 78 asked, a gain of $22 per share for the day. First National stock opened at 90 bid, but there were no sales below 100 and by closing time it had shot up to $137 per share bid.

New York Bank Stocks Gain.

New York bank stocks were active but made less spectacular gains. Leaders were Guaranty Trust, with a gain of $24 a share, and Central Hanover, with a $17 advance.

Brokers' offices here were jammed all day yesterday with excited traders and onlookers who frequently cheered as board markers chalked up substantial gains. The Chicago Stock exchange had a turnover of 87,000 shares, the largest in 7 weeks.

Elgin residents celebrated the resumption of normal banking business in the community yesterday with a confidence parade in which thousands participated.

More Hoarded Gold Returned.

While the "street" was enjoying a rising active market, hoarders continued to bring gold back to the banks. Federal reserve officials yesterday reported that 7½ million dollars had been returned to the reserve bank here on Tuesday, bringing the total since March 7 to 50½ million dollars. This, however, did not include Tuesday's receipts by Chicago banks.

Yesterday's gold receipts were estimated to be as heavy as Tuesday's. Loop banks took in several millions more.

Postal savings deposits continued to exceed withdrawals. Postmaster Arthur C. Lueder yesterday reported that Tuesday's withdrawals had been $102,949, against deposits of $396,437.

Interest Rates Increased.

Commercial depositors yesterday received notice from the banks that the clearing house had increased the interest rate on demand deposits from ¼ of 1 per cent to 1 per cent and the interest rates on commercial time deposits from ⅛ of 1 per cent to 1½ per cent. This was in line with the trend toward tighter money conditions and higher interest rates, which began before the holiday.

Higher interest rates mean better earnings for banks. Short term government bonds can now be bought by banks to yield more than 4 per cent. Only a few weeks ago banks were receiving less than ½ of 1 per cent on the money they had invested in short term government paper.

There was a heavy demand for bankers' acceptances yesterday, with few offerings. No longer pressed by withdrawing depositors, banks are now able to retain investments instead of dumping them over at loss to obtain cash to pay off depositors.

AUDITOR PERMITS 22 MORE BANKS TO OPEN DOWNSTATE

State Auditor Edward J. Barrett last night authorized the following additional list of 22 state banks outside the Chicago metropolitan area to open for business today:

ANNA—Anna State bank.
DIX—First State Bank of Dix.
EVANSVILLE—Bank of Evansville.
OPDYKE—Security State Bank of Opdyke.

MOMENCE—Parish Bank and Trust company.
MATTOON—Central Illinois Trust and Savings bank.
POPLAR GROVE—Poplar Grove bank.
HILLSDALE—Old Farmers and Merchants State bank.
TAYLORVILLE—First Trust and Savings bank.

U. S. MAY SOON LIFT ITS BAN ON GOLD PAYMENTS

Hinges on Continued Flow of Metal from Hiding.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 15.—[Special.]—Tidal waves of gold returning from hoarding are about to sweep the United States squarely back onto a basis of unrestricted gold payments, it was said at the treasury department today.

Without revealing the actual amounts of gold which are coming out of hiding, treasury officials said that it was returning "in truckloads." If this attitude continues to prevail among the people the ban on domestic gold payments may soon be lifted.

See Early Return to Gold Basis.

At present the prohibition against gold payments which President Roosevelt laid down in his original proclamation still stands in the way of the discharge of any debt contract demanding payment in gold. Railroad bonds, government securities, and many other private debt contracts specifically require payment in gold.

To permit the discharge of such debts and to maintain the fiction of the gold standard the treasury has been considering the establishment of a licensed system of gold dealers. They alone would be allowed to handle the precious metal, and debtors could buy gold from them for the discharge of obligations.

Plans for this system will go into the junk heap, however, if gold continues to flow out of hoarding at the present great rate, treasury officials said. If there is no disposition to hoard gold or if effective anti-hoarding regulations can be put into effect there is no reason why America should not promptly return to an unrestricted basis of domestic gold payments.

May Lift International Ban.

International gold payments present another question. Prevailing strength of the dollar on foreign markets and the prevailing payments which must be made to this country, however, may furnish grounds for removal of international restrictions, too.

Handling of the gold and foreign exchange problem is one of the two tasks remaining in the treasury's hands from the banking collapse of last week. The other problem is the appointment of conservators for the banks which did not open. This work was going on rapidly in the office of the controller of the currency today, and when it is completed the national government will have also completely remanded the banking questions to the states and communities.

U. S. EXPLAINS DELAYS

Washington, D. C., March 15.—[Special.]—Although the program for reopening banks was to have been completed today, Secretary of the Treasury Woodin announced this afternoon that his department had found it impossible to get licenses to all sound banks of the country.

Mr. Woodin appealed to the people to remember that banks may be licensed later and that they will be "regarded in the same way as if it had been possible to issue the license today." In many cases banks are now taking steps which will permit the granting of a license in the near future, he said.

"While every possible effort has been made to act upon all applications, delay in some cases had been found inevitable," Mr. Woodin explained.

DETROIT MAYOR FIRES BANKERS ON CITY BOARDS

2 Banks in Charge of U. S. Conservators.

Detroit, Mich., March 15.—[Special.]—Mayor Frank Murphy announced today that all bankers or former bankers now holding positions on city commissions will be fired unless they resign at once.

The mayor today took the initial step in carrying out his plan when he informed Walter G. Toepel that his services as president of the house of correction commission were no longer required. Toepel was in the banking business 35 years.

"I propose to have no bankers in my administration," Toepel quoted the mayor as saying. "The banking business used to be an honorable profession, but it has now become the curse of the country. I do not propose to allow bankers to sink my ship."

Conservators for Two Banks.

It was made plain today by Conservators Keyes and Schram of the First National bank and the Guardian National Bank of Commerce, that the placing of those financial institutions under government control does not mean that 100 per cent liquidation of the two banks must be carried out and plans here for a new bank abandoned.

This, therefore, leaves the way open for formation of a bank that would take over the liquid assets of the two banks named above, but whether or not R. F. C. funds would still be available in the formation of a new bank the conservators could not say. Under the plan proposed by the government several days ago, the R. F. C. would have provided $20,000,000 in preferred stock, if $5,000,000 ordinary stock was subscribed for locally.

U. S. Working on Problem.

Disputches from Washington state that, following a conference with President Roosevelt, Secretary of the Treasury William H. Woodin announced that the government had taken hold of the Detroit bank problem and will settle the issue within a few days. The secretary refused to discuss details, but left no doubt that he is thoroughly alive to banking conditions in Michigan.

Conservators now in charge of the two Detroit banks announced today that they are not committed to any plan of liquidation at this time, and will gladly consider any plan proposed which will give a maximum return to depositors. Their present chief interest is to obtain as much for the depositors as possible. They have removed all officials of the two banks above the rank of assistant cashier.

FOUND DEAD IN ALLEY.

An unidentified man, about 55 years old, died of a heart attack last night in an alley at 92d street and Commercial avenue.

GRAND JURORS STUDY DEALS OF J. W. HARRIMAN

Firemen's Widows' Pensions Are Affected.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 13.—[Special.]—Widows of firemen and other dependents upon the city fire department pension fund were today revealed as having been cut off from more than $200,000, due out of the fund, by the failure of the Harriman National Bank and Trust company to reopen.

Fire Commissioner John J. Dorman appealed to Washington for special regulations to permit the payment of pension checks.

Other Accounts Are Affected.

Meanwhile, Assistant United States Attorney Arthur Schwartz continued delving into the affairs of the bank. He discovered, he said, that two more accounts, those of John McEntee Bowman, deceased head of the Biltmore hotel chain, and Frank C. Buckhout, had been tapped for $139,000 each in April, 1932, for the purchase of stock of the bank. This total was in addition to the amounts of about $100,000 each shown to have been withdrawn from the accounts in the bank at about the same time for the same purpose by Joseph W. Harriman, former president of the bank. Mr. Harriman on Tuesday was arrested at his home.

Grand Jury Views Activities.

Mr. Harriman continued too ill to be approached as Mr. Schwartz and a federal grand jury carried on an investigation into his conduct of the bank. Meanwhile Henry E. Cooper, president of the bank and conservator under an appointment of the treasury department, declared that he had no statement to make.

Further testimony binding Mr. Harriman to the deals was given to the grand jury by Frederick T. Mueller, whose special account was tapped to the extent of $110,500. Mr. Mueller is said to have told the grand jurors he had known nothing of the withdrawal from his account until some time afterward. He said Mr. Harriman, it was asserted, suggested that he, Mueller, lend the bank $110,500 from his special account for the purchase of stock and he refused.

Another witness was Leo Bondy, counsel and a director for the National Exhibition company, operators of the New York Giants' baseball team. He was declared to have testified that the withdrawal of $108,500 from the Giants' account had not appeared on any papers that he had received from the bank.

FLOODED RIVERS HIT BOATS AT PITTSBURGH, WEST VIRGINIA POINTS

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 16.—(AP)—Battered river craft were strewn along the banks of rain swollen rivers tonight as the Allegheny, Monongahela, and Ohio, at flood stage, flowed seaward.

Approximately 1,000 school children were dismissed today after water backed up in the basement of two school buildings, damaging heating equipment.

Counting their losses at several hundred dollars, rivermen stood guard over their vessels. They watched the Allegheny and Monongahela fuse their muddy overflow at "The Point," where they unite to form the Ohio. Meanwhile West Virginia cities reported the Ohio was "rising steadily."

Wheeling, W. Va., made preparations for the worst, flood in recent years as the waters rose inch by inch on "The Island," Wheeling's 7th ward.

Traction service in some sections of that city was cut off and train communications in and out of Wheeling temporarily suspended.

FOUR OFFICIALS OF CLOSED HOME BANK INDICTED

Four officials of the defunct Home Bank and Trust company were reported yesterday to have been named by the grand jury in true bills charging them with making false reports to the state auditor to cover up the overdrafts of an investment affiliate of the institution.

Those reported named in the true bills are Peter L. Evans, who was president of the bank; Fred W. Georges and L. H. Prybylski, vice presidents, and Martin Johnson, cashier. The bank, which was at 1200 North Ashland avenue, closed on July 1, 1930, but was reorganized as the United American Trust and Savings bank. The latter institution failed a year later.

The specific charges in the two true bills are that in the statement to the state auditor on March 27, 1930, the bank listed its overdrafts at $10,878, whereas they were really $88,429, and that in its statement of June 30, 1930, it listed overdrafts of $19,192, when they were really $61,421.

The overdrafts, it is charged, were incurred by the Home Mortgage and Investment company, investment affiliate of the bank.

Scarlet Fever Closes Schools at Roberts, Ill.

Roberts, Ill., March 15.—(AP)—High and grade schools were closed here today for one week because of an outbreak of scarlet fever in the community.

TORNADO DEATH TOLL MOUNTS TO 34; 200 INJURED

Property Damage Put at $1,000,000.

Nashville, Tenn., March 15.—(AP)—The trail of atornado from one end of Tennessee to the other was marked tonight by 34 dead, about 200 injured, and piles of wreckage.

The storm arose last night along the western banks of the Mississippi river in Arkansas and Missouri. It swept eastward until the Cumberland mountains were reached.

At least ten persons were killed in Nashville; seven in Pruden, a mining town near the Tennessee-Kentucky border; four in Lebanon; six in Kingsport, near the base of the Cumberlands; one in Bellwood; two in Harrogate; two in Rogersville; and one each in Oswego and Millpoint.

400 Homes Destroyed.

At Pruden 400 homes were destroyed and the water works pumping station was damaged, making it necessary to haul drinking water from a distance.

Other Tennessee cities and towns stricken were Jellico, with damage estimated at $100,000; Holton, Antras, Eagan, Clairfield, Valley Creek, Fonde, Newcomb, Woolridge, Proctor and Clear Fork Valley, where the destruction was placed at $500,000.

State Troops n Guard.

National Guardsmen were placed on duty throughout the area. Red Cross workers went into action, and doctors and nurses made their way through the debris to care for the injured.

In Nashville police and firemen were put to work clearing the streets of debris and aiding the homeless.

The storm struck early last night after toying with communities in northeastern Arkansas and southeastern Missouri. Nashville got the full force of the blow that bowled over homes, damaged public buildings, uprooted trees, and littered the streets.

BAIN PRESENTS 25,000 PAGE BILL OF EXCEPTIONS

Judge John M. O'Connor yesterday signed a 25,000 page bill of exceptions presented to him on behalf of John Bain, under sentence of five years' imprisonment for transactions which led to the collapse of his bank chain. The bill of exceptions, first step in the appeal from the trial court verdict, also applies to Bain's sons and son-in-law, who were convicted with him.

Attorney Harry Olson presented the bill for Judge O'Connor's signature. Today he will go before the Appellate court to seek a writ of supersedeas, saving Bain from prison until the court passes on the appeal.

CONSIDER NAMES OF EDUCATORS FOR TOBIN POST

Whealan Says Politician Won't Get the Job.

Reports that a political appointee might be named by the county board to fill the post of county superintendent of schools, left vacant by the death of Edward J. Tobin, were denied yesterday by Emmett Whealan, president of the board.

"We are considering a number of educators for the job," Mr. Whealan said. "Political considerations will have nothing to do with the choice. We want a man in there who has a practical knowledge of the problems confronting the county superintendent and who can carry on the policies that were so successful under Mr. Tobin. No one who has not had teaching experience will be considered. No politician is going to get the position."

Among the names being considered are those of Floyd Goodier, superintendent of schools, Chicago Heights; W. J. Hamilton, superintendent of schools, Oak Park; J. R. Skiles, superintendent of schools, district 75, Evanston, and E. E. Bratcher, superintendent of schools, Harvey. These names were submitted to the board in a report compiled by Mrs. Robert T. Echols of Flossmoor, who said the educators had been endorsed by the University of Chicago and Northwestern university.

De Paul university, through Dr. William M. Murphy of its department of education, was also asked by Mrs. Echols to make some recommendations and the following names were suggested: Frederick G. Livingood, Washington college, Maryland; Edward L. Curran, Fordham university; Thomas W. Sheehan, superintendent of schools, Peabody, Mass.

Building Owner's 'Bank' in Trunk; Robbed of $250

Two men posing as prospective lessees of apartments, and a third who pretended to be a fur salesman, entered the home of Mrs. Kaliope Sminote at 6600 Roosevelt road, Oak Park, yesterday afternoon and robbed her of $250. Mrs. Sminote and her husband own the building and the money included rent collections which were hidden in a trunk.

RAILROAD SWITCHMAN KILLED.

Fred Smith, 53 years old, 7648 Coles avenue, a switchman for the Chicago, West Pullman and Southern railroad, was crushed to death last night between freight cars in the railroad yards at East 106th street and Torrence avenue.

HITLER ORDERS NAZIS HELD IN JAIL RELEASED

Decrees German Press Is "Tool of Government."

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 15.—Chancellor Hitler today ordered a general revision of all criminal charges pending against Nazis and of all sentences passed against them in recent years for acts committed "in the course of the national revolution." Officials have been instructed to consider the "patriotic motives" underlying the actions of the sentenced men or of the men awaiting trial.

Immediately after the revision was ordered, six Nazis who were sentenced to death or to long terms in jail for participating in the murder of a communist were released. Two others still being tried for the same crime were also released. Hundreds of others are expected to benefit by the new rule. In numerous towns Nazi storm troopers took the matters into their own hands and released imprisoned friends.

Tighten Gag on Press.

Joseph Goebbels, who has been appointed minister of propaganda by Hitler in order to "win the support of the remaining 48 per cent of Germany which does not yet belong to the national front," today explained to the press the methods he will use in controlling Germany's entire broadcasting and wireless systems, newspapers, theaters, and education.

"The press must be the keyboard on which the government can play," he said. "Criticism will be allowed, but it must be expressed so that no enemy of the government, at home or abroad, shall be enabled to use such criticism to the government's detriment. You will be given information, but also instructions.

"The press is an important and influential instrument for swaying the masses which the government intends to use to further its work."

Raid "Parlor Pinks."

Berlin's Greenwich Village, Suedwestkorso, was raided today in a search for parlor pinks. Four hundred policemen with rifles slung over their shoulders searched hundreds of flats in the district, which is occupied mostly by artists, musicians and writers. Fourteen persons were arrested when communist propaganda was found in their possession. A number of flats owned by Jewish writers and newspaper men were broken into. The occupants had deemed it wiser to leave Germany several weeks ago.

Tonight thousands of uniformed Nazis tramped the streets with torchlights and banners. It was the grand windup of a three day celebration over the raising of the imperial black, white and red and the Nazi swastika flags in place of the republican colors. President von Hindenburg closed the day with a decree eliminating the republic's black, red and gold inset in the corners of the military and naval flags.

Hitler conferred today with Hans Luther, president of the reichsbank. It is reported that Luther will resign soon and that Hjalmar Schacht, former president of the bank, will be named to the post.

Paul von Gontard, former director of the Berlin-Karlsruhe industry works, an ammunition plant, was arrested here today. He is charged with violation of foreign currency regulations and tax default. Von Gontard is a grandson of the late Adolphus Busch, noted St. Louis brewer.

Appoint Princess of Savoy to Fascist Women's Office

ROME, March 15. — (AP) — Princess Bianca Pio di Savoia, a distant relative of King Victor Emmanuel, was appointed today secretary of the women's section of the Fascist party in Rome and the province of Latium. The princess is a noted social service worker and directed Fascist women of the Garbatella workers' section of Rome.

ANTI-JEWISH RIOTS SPREAD TO POLAND; ONE SLAIN, 10 HURT

WARSAW, March 15.—(AP)—While Jewish deputies in the Polish parliament adopted a resolution of protest against the persecution of Jews in Germany, the National Democrats today started an anti-Jewish propaganda campaign aimed at halting the influx of Jews fleeing from Germany.

There were serious anti-Jewish troubles in a number of villages in the county of Zywiec, in Cracow rovince, where the police quelled crowds storming shops. The police killed one person, injured 10, and arrested 80. There were attempts to start anti-Semitic disturbances in Warsaw last night, but they were thwarted.

The newspaper Kurjer Poranny today said 1,500 Jewish refugees have arrived from Germany in the last two days. Two hundred Russian Jews were expelled from Germany, but because they passed the Polish frontier illegally, they were sent back by the Polish authorities.

PARLIAMENT OF AUSTRIA SEIZED; MEETING HALTED

Dictator Will Increase Power of Police.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, March 15.—Austrian police today forcibly frustrated any attempt to hold a rump session of the diet in defiance of Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss' week-old dictatorship. The diet was dissolved a week ago Saturday when its three ranking officers resigned in a dispute over a railway issue, but since the dictatorship was proclaimed it has been trying desperately to resuscitate itself.

With this in mind, leaders of the opposition announced this morning that the parliament would meet at 3 p. m. When that hour arrived, however, it was found that strong police squads had taken possession of the session hall, and one burly officer filled the speaker's chair.

Win "Moral Victory."

Members of the opposition who appeared at the hall went into a fast huddle upon sizing up the situation and determined to win a moral victory, anyway. Accordingly, they hastily declared themselves met and in the next breath declared themselves adjourned before the police could swing into action and chase them from the hall.

Meanwhile Vienna was stirred by a combination of threats and rumors. Foremost was a report that the Fascist heimwehr is to be given authority to act as an emergency police force similar to that held by Chancellor Adolf Hitler's Nazi storm troops in Germany. A concentration of heimwehr members in a building formerly used by the ministry of agriculture lent credence to this report.

Threaten General Strike.

Socialist leaders today again voiced the threat of a general strike to fight the dictatorship, which they suspect is leading to a coalition of the Christian Social government and Austrian Nazi elements.

Fearing outbreaks of violence, the police have mounted machine guns on the big gate leading from the Reingstrasse to Heldenplatz.

Troops tonight raided the Socialist Labor union headquarters at Innsbruck. Several casualties were reported in a riot when the troops carted away two truckloads of munitions and documents.

Czech Army "Ready."

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, March 15.—(AP)—Asked during a meeting tonight of the parliamentary military committee whether, "in view of the uncertain situation abroad," the Czechoslovakian army was ready for action Defense Minister Bradac said he "had full confidence in the army's power of resistance."

THE RETREAT FROM VOLSTEAD.

The return of beer as a legal beverage in American states which will permit its use must be regarded by most of the American people as an escape from a wilderness of irrationality and a return to sanity. The conservative estimates of the beneficial effects of this legislation may easily be exceeded by the consequences, social and economic alike.

The event not only restores the adult to his right to use a beverage which it now seems inconceivable that any self-governing people could have taken from themselves, but in restoring that right it reaffirms one of the principles theoretically inalienable in such a people. It hardly need be reiterated that a people who base their political and social structure upon the doctrine that they are self-governing cannot have their personal judgment so interfered with unless they are willing to accept the many ill consequences which must flow from this. A prohibition of such a nature, so childish in its assumptions, will lead, and we think it did, to an impairment of the citizenship stature, operating in many directions to make the citizen incapable of the duties imperatively his.

It may be noted that when the United States had committed itself to this doctrine, and as it persisted in it, the dependence of both states as political units and of citizens as complaining and begging children increased year by year.

When a doctrine of immaturity was written into the government of the United States the federal supervisor and the federal alms dispenser went farther abroad in the land and deeper into the homes and the business enterprise of people who were supposed before to be able to govern themselves because they were able to discipline themselves.

A retreat is now to be made from this devastating theory of a juvenile republic, incapable of making the decisions by which it lives. The country can be grateful to the administration and congress which make the retreat possible and which restore a sanity of living to the American people. Much has been said about the psychological effect of such a restoration in these times, and it is probable that most of the predictions will be found to be true. Some of the retreat from Volstead admittedly goes into as yet uncharted regions. The sincere and considerate opponents of national prohibition will do their best to see to it that in the rebound from repression excesses are avoided. A released people sometimes indulges in them, but it can be believed that the release finds Americans in a sober and not irresponsible mood. The occasion is not one for revels, but for thoughtful consideration of the fact that the nation has turned a dangerous corner and is on its way out of a bad period in its national history.

THE BABE'S PRICE.

Babe Ruth and Col. Ruppert of the Yankees are, at this writing, still $10,000 apart. The Colonel offers $50,000 a year, the Babe will take $60,000. The Babe's price would be a $15,000 cut, the Colonel's $25,000. The negotiations and their continuing publicity do not injure the Yankee batsman's market value and even may be worth the $10,000 extra if the Colonel decides that it is up to him to weaken.

The Babe's dogs are way past their prime and about the only things this once versatile all round (on second thought "round" may stand) baseball player has left are his eyes and his wallop. The same day that the story was printed of Ruth's refusal of $50,000 a paragraph appeared to the effect that Fritzi Scheff, once the queen of the light opera stage as well as a star of some dimensions in the heavier opera organization, was broke, had lost her Connecticut home on foreclosure, had her electric light cut off in her New York apartment and, although smiling, was down and out. Fritzi is only one of the popular favorites in what may be called art or what is called sport who lived in a golden shower of easy money and found it gone when the comparatively early disabilities of such exceptional gifts took the bread ticket away from the performer who once discovered life so brilliantly satisfactory and so easy. Old age comes quickly in many cases when physical qualities make up the sum of genius.

Ruth is obviously reaching the end of his usefulness on the baseball field. If he isn't careful with what he has or if some unforeseen misfortunes get to him he may be in luck later to have a job as a movie palace doorman or as night watchman on a dock. That's where you look for the stars of ten and fifteen years ago.

Nevertheless, there are some hundred millions of us or more, including some who are not able yet to say what they will later think, who know $50,000 is a lot of money these days, and it is particularly a lot of money to give up just because it doesn't happen to be $60,000. At the same time, Babe Ruth is a lot of baseball player to give up in these same days, in which baseball must put forth its best attractions if it is to hold up its gate receipts. Therefore the baseball world may expect a reasonable adjustment by the time the training season is over.

SHAKY DEMOCRACIES.

In Hitler's celebration of his latest electoral victory the flag of the German republic was sent to the closet and the Nazi flag shared the honors with the old imperial colors. The republic under the constitution of Weimar survived the first terrible days of reconstruction under the treaty, but apparently is now so enfeebled from the blows of the new enemies, the Hitlerites, that its days may be plainly numbered. It has been frequently said that a democratic electorate so dividing into numerous parties, wholly antagonistic in purpose and principle, cannot sustain a representative form of government. The German character contains compensations for such disintegrating political tendencies, but even such protections may be insufficient to produce government based upon acceptance of popular elections.

Where the final jump will land can only be conjectured at this distance, but that it should be back to monarchical form is the natural supposition. It has been so elsewhere in the past and history would prescribe it as the course about to be taken in Germany. Hitler may be Monk and the Hohenzollerns may come back just as the Stuarts were brought back by the inability of the Puritan generals and their fanatic followings to agree upon a form of order which could endure. When republican undertakings cannot bring the great mass of people to see and act within reasonable limitations of political conflict, representative government yields considerable if not most of its authority to autocracy. The monarchy returns or the dictator arrives.

No part of the occidental world shows democracy in its healthiest form. That peoples of continental Europe, plunging suddenly into republicanism after the war, should be shaky on their feet is not astonishing. Some of them undertook things for which they were not prepared. The roots of a self-governing people usually are found deep in the soil of their development, but even deeply rooted peoples are permitting or accepting of necessity some profound modifications of their theories, which may be expedient and temporary, but which might be permanent and conclusive. The optimistic guess, if not the best one, is that they are temporary. The British ministry is now vested with powers which parliament may later recover for the representatives of the British electorate, but occasionally a governmental device accepted in extremity becomes fixed for future use.

Here in the United States there is the paradox of an extension of federal administrative jurisdiction over the states and over the federal legislative function, ostensibly to simplify the now overstuffed activities and to bring the states back as self-governing, if not self-respecting, sovereign units.

Power is being given the federal executive to dispense with congress in order that federal government may be reclaimed from its overgrowth and expansion and in order that the social structure in the states may be restored to a stable condition. If we are working through a temporary suspension of the ordinary procedure in order that we may get a restoration of our old principles and practices we may not regret the great necessity which forced unusual action.

ANOTHER PRESS GAG.

Is that outstanding liberal, Gov. Gifford Pinchot, going Fascist and about to become the Mussolini of Pennsylvania?

The question is raised by the discovery of a clause in the pending administrative code bill, modestly tucked away, a shrinking violet of legislation, promising results far from violet-like. The clause reads:

"No department, board or commission shall be permitted to collect, compile, prepare or furnish statistics relating to the financial transactions of the state government, except to the governor, the auditor general and the general assembly."

The power to keep facts from the press and public or to present them in a form least revealing is something to be prized by any autocrat. It may be unconstitutional. We hope it is. But meanwhile the Pennsylvania legislature has its own duty and responsibility to deal with it, and so has Gov. Pinchot if it reaches him in due time. Press gags have become a favorite experiment in several states in recent years. They are interesting phenomena. It will be enlightening to know what the progressive governor of Pennsylvania thinks or does about this latest invention.

Editorial of the Day

GETTING LICKED A HABIT.

[Jefferson County Union, Fort Atkinson, Wis.]

The foreign relations committee of the senate has approved the St. Lawrence seaway treaty. THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE very properly says:

"Lake Michigan belongs to the United States by right of conquest from the British. It is as much an American lake as is the Great Salt lake. The right to use its waters is an American right, to be exercised in its discretion by our government acting in the interest of all the people of the United States. Elihu Root was alive to the issue and refused, point blank, to compromise our position in previous negotiations. It remained for Mr. Stimson, with his preoccupation with Asiatic problems and his fondness for shooting on the Scotch moors, to sacrifice our rights as if they were of no consequence or value."

The interests of the Rock river and Wisconsin river valleys are linked strongly with the lake to the gulf bargeway. Rock river already has a connecting canal, 28 miles long, joining it with the Illinois river. Some day this canal will be deepened and Mississippi barges will dock in Fort Atkinson. Our west border is the Mississippi river.

We should at least protest against the St. Lawrence seaway robbing our gulfway of needed water. There is enough for both, if the Canadians were not so greedy and our diplomats not so gullible. In every diplomatic fight with Europe Uncle Sam has gotten licked—stripped to his shirt. We did not expect he would have to give up his rights to Lake Michigan's water to such a weak nation as Canada. This matter of getting diplomatically licked has become a national habit. Our two United States senators have been all for the east edge of this state—Blaine while governor and La Follette as a member of the foreign relations committee. The west two-thirds has no senator.

The Liverpool market is closed to United States wheat and closed to Canadian wheat if in United States ships—penalized 6 cents a bushel. The committee forgot that, but the senate should remember it and insist on more Lake Michigan water for our gulf bargeway. Foreign ports are fast being closed to United States products of every kind. By the time the St. Lawrence is completed our surpluses will have nowhere to go. Why knuckle down to Canada and say, "Lake Michigan is yours—take it!"?

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

WE'VE GOT TO GO into training for it, that's all. What hootch and synthetic gin have done to our sense of taste is simply nobody's business and three per cent beer is going to impress our overstrained palates as nothing but rainwater and prune juice—one teaspoonful of prune juice to a barrel of rainwater. We've got to train down, that's all. Otherwise the descent from alky and hootch would be impossible. A course of treatment is advisable, something like this—first day—lay off hootch and instead sip gently a teaspoonful of hair oil and anti-freezing mixture; second day—cod liver oil flavored with lemon extract; third day—red pepper and furniture polish; fourth day—labels off of four tin cans; fifth day—bay rum and gasoline. By this time the patient should have lost his taste for straight hootch and can cautiously taste the three per cent legal beer. He won't like it at first, but by abstaining from hootch and all other bootleg drinks his sense of taste will gradually come back and some day he will be surprised to discover he can drink a whole stein of three per cent beer without being put under an anesthetic.

To bare my heart, I cannot,
To tell my grief is vain.
The world will turn, forgetting
Nor wish to hear again.

Yet oft a wound is bettered,
Exposed to sun and air,
But such is not for heart wounds,
Yet they are everywhere.

If I have joy to tell of
The world will stop awhile,
But best I hear the hidden hurt
And try at times to smile.

FARMER ABE DISCUSSES THE ECONOMIC SITUATION.

"Yes," said my farmer friend, "my son, Abe, Junior, who had a job making automobiles in Detroit, is wintering here on the farm, and he is thinking of springing and summering with us, too. He praises his ma's cooking more than he ever did, and doesn't mind helping with the chores at all. And my daughter, Felicia, who had a swell position as cashier to a mortician in Chicago, has come home to help her ma with the housework. It's surprising how many of the neighbors' grownup children who had gone to the city have done the same—some of them bringing their families along. It looks like we'd have plenty of help with the harvesting this year. We aim to put out more garden and set more hens. And we're going to junk the partial payment tractor and put our horses to work. And raise mules. I bet you haven't seen a mule colt in ten years, now, have you?" (I really hadn't.)

"We're going to work to raise things, like we've always done, and go right on living. Yes, sir, I approve of the bank holiday. What the country needs is more holidays for the bankers and not so many for other people. It's been pretty hard on our bankers, shoveling and sacking up gold for the hoarders. I've never shoveled much gold, but I know how tiresome it is to sack and ship wheat out."

"But how about inflation?" I asked.

"Well, it looks this way to me," he said. "If city folks can turn their clocks up an hour every spring and save daylight for golfing by make-believing, I don't see why we can't accept inflated money. Money is just as good as people think it is. I bet you and me have taken in and paid out more than one counterfeit bill, without ever knowing it, and it served its purpose as well as the real thing. A medium of exchange—that's all money is. Somehow, I'd rather exchange a bushel of wheat for a cheap dollar than an expensive fifty cents. Maybe we can't alter values, no more than the number of hours in a day. But we can kid ourselves into getting up at six because the clock strikes seven; and a nation that can do that has sure got imagination enough to handle inflated dollars and lots of them. Technocracy? No, I don't believe our imaginations are equal to that." EOLUS.

How to Keep Well By Dr. W. A. Evans

MARCH AND PNEUMONIA.

THE late winter and early spring is the sickly season. There is more illness in the worst three months of this period than in the six months of the healthier part of the year. In this season all the forms of acute contagious disease are at their peaks, except typhoid fever, malaria, and infantile paralysis. But the great menace is the common cold and the diseases that are related thereto. Of these the pneumonias are much the most serious. Even babies under one year of age now find this season the one in which they are most in danger and diarrheal diseases are less harmful to them than pneumonia and bronchitis.

Dr. Osler termed pneumonia the "friend of the aged." He said that, more than any other disease, it eased them out of life and with no pain and very little discomfort. The diseases reaps its harvest at every age period. Not only do the aged and the very young succumb but it is especially prevalent among young, hardy, previously healthy men and women. Vigor, physical strength, and unimpaired organs are not protective against it. When people of this type get it they are apt to start in with a chill and a pain in the side, the fever rises high and stays up. Breathing is rapid and the face is flushed. In from three to seven days—usually five—the battle is lost. Weaker people and those with crippled organs are apt to have less fever and to hold out longer. However, heavy drinkers generally go under more rapidly.

Of those who have one of the usual type of pneumonias about one-fourth succumb and the remainder recover and usually without after-effects. In some instances a pneumonic pleurisy follows, but that is the exception. The rule is that the person who conquers in the battle against pneumonia regains his strength with reasonable promptness and in a few weeks is well, free from cough and any other after-effect.

In the general run of cases the behavior of a pneumonia patient suggests that the pneumococcus acts as does the diphtheria bacillus and, therefore, there should be a curative antitoxin equal to that we have to cure diphtheria with. This may be and probably is true, but no laboratory has ever been able to find it or to develop a method of producing it.

The part of the pneumonia story that particularly interests lay readers is that pneumonia so often gives warning. If a man will heed the signs he may succeed in evading the disease. Not infrequently pneumonia is preceded by what appears to be a cold with fever and aching. After a few days, in which there is no spitting of blood, possibly no cough, and no evidence that the lungs are involved, a chill suddenly appears and high fever and cough indicate that pneumonia has developed. If such colds were treated by quiet rest in bed and very light diet the pneumonia stage would not be reached.

Babies, old people, and people with heart troubles should be especially well protected against inclemencies of the weather during the pneumonia season.

DIABETES.

M. M. writes: I am a married man of 48, 5 feet 9 inches tall, and weigh 245 pounds.

1. My physician tells me I have had diabetes for two years, and one-third of the blood has turned to a sugar substance.
3. What is the cause of diabetes?
3. Can one be cured?
4. Is sugar diabetes contagious?
5. Will it cause untimely death?
6. What foods shall I avoid?

REPLY.

1. You misunderstood your physician as to the amount of blood sugar.
2. Obesity and overeating are among the many causes.
3. If you have true diabetes you probably will not be cured, but if you will learn how to live, and follow directions, you should have many useful years.
4. No.
5. It often does. Diabetes is becoming a leading cause of death.
6. Your education began when you were told you had diabetes. You are in the kindergarten class. You need to learn much more than you do now or else you will die because of ignorance. Have your physician lay down detailed instructions for you. Carry them out without any modification. If you can, join a diabetes class. Learn to prepare diabetic foods and to diet yourself to fit your capacities. Buy some books on diabetes. Study them. Apply what you learn. That is the price you must pay for life.

INFECTION THE CAUSE.

E. H. writes:

1. What is the cause of ischiorectal abscess?
2. How long does it take to get well?

REPLY.

1. Infection with tubercle bacilli is generally thought to be the principal cause. Infection with pus cocci is a close second, at least. Probably it stands first.
2. If properly treated simple cases should heal within a month. Some cases continue for years.

YEAST TABLETS.

E. M. A. writes: Are yeast tablets just as good as yeast cakes?

REPLY.

Yes.

EXECUTION SALE.

Burlington, Wis., March 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—If a real estate man attaches our property in Chicago for his commission and gets judgment [1] can he sell our property at once and [2] collect the rents or [3] must he wait a certain length of time before he can collect rents? 4. I thought he had only a lien on the building. M. L. B.

1. The execution sale can be held practically at once, but 15 months are allowed for redemption and the deed under which the judgment creditor takes possession will not be issued until the end of such time.
2. Not unless a receiver is appointed.
3. Yes. See 1.
4. Correct, but enforcing the lien by execution sale is something like enforcing a mortgage by foreclosure.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

DEATH CLAIM.

Chicago, March 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Can a legal claim be made and collection enforced against a company for death compensation of an employé after a period of fifteen years? The person was killed in action in the state of Alabama. The relatives filed one claim about a year after the accident and then became discouraged and dropped the case. M. L. H.

If the case is still pending it might be brought to life, thus avoiding the defense of the statute of limitations. Otherwise the claim would be barred unless you can show that the statutory period has been extended by special facts such as absence of the debtor from the state. The attorney who handled the initial litigation is in a better position to advise you than we are.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

IMMIGRATION STATUS.

Chicago, March 12.—[Friend of the People.]—A young man of British birth emigrated to Canada at the age of one year with his parents. He resided in Canada until he was sixteen years old. At that time, in April, 1924, he entered the United States on a visit, depositing the $8 head tax. He has never applied for a refund. He has resided here continuously since then, is of good moral character and a law abiding resident. 1. May he file a declaration of intention? Is he eligible for citizenship? 2. What fee is charged? A. W. J.

1. The subject of the letter should call at room 1019 Manhattan building, 431 South Dearborn street, Chicago, with a view to determine whether his entry in 1924 is now regarded as legal and to obtain advice as to how his immigration status may be adjusted. When his immigration status has been adjusted he may apply for naturalization by filing a declaration of intention [first papers] and two years later filing a petition for citizenship.
2. The cost of a declaration of intention is $5 for a certificate of arrival and $5 filing fee of the clerk of the court.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 16, 1917.

PETROGRAD.—Czar Nicholas of Russia has abdicated and the Grand Duke Michael Alexandrovitch, his younger brother, has been named as regent of the empire. Nothing official regarding the dynasty's future has been given out, but it is understood the Grand Duke Alexis, heir apparent, is to be recognized formally when conditions become settled. The Russian ministry, charged with corruption and incompetence, has been swept out of office. One minister, Alexander Protopopoff, head of the interior department, is reported to have been killed, and the other ministers, as well as the president of the imperial council, is under arrest. A new national cabinet is announced, with Prince Lvoff as president of the council and premier, and the other offices held by the men who are close to the Russian people. The duma joined hands in the revolt which aimed at the reactionary conduct of the war and the ineffective distribution of food. Its success means a more aggressive part in the war and is said to put an end to German hopes for a separate peace with Russia.

LONDON.—The Times' Petrograd correspondent described the sacking of the residence of Count Fredericks, aid de camp to the emperor, as a deplorable incident. His house was set on fire. His aged wife was carried out fainting. His daughter was ill treated. "During the revolution," says a Reuter dispatch from Petrograd, "the hated Kreaty prison was seized by the revolutionists after a short resistance by its guards. All the political prisoners held there were liberated. Among those arrested were Bishop Pitrim, the metropolitan of Petrograd; M. Kurloff, and Gen. Soukhomlinoff, former minister of war." A Petrograd dispatch to the Daily Chronicle says the empress of Russia has been placed under guard.

NEW YORK.—The railway officials and the representatives of their employés parted last evening with both compromise offers refused and settlement by direct conference hopelessly removed from possibility. To all appearances nothing can avert a strike. In fact, the orders for the preliminary walkouts are already issued and three-quarters of the trainmen of four eastern roads and in the great yards of Chicago and St. Louis have instructions to leave their levers at 6 p. m. Saturday, March 17. The roads, their backs planted firmly against the wall, insist that they ask nothing whatever except respect for the supreme law of the land. They profess to believe that President Wilson will refuse to ignore that law. They declare that if the strike is averted it will be averted because the men are forced to change their minds. The plain fact is that Mr. Wilson is in a position to avert the tieup of equipment and industry. The men, it is asserted, on all sides, will yield rather than face the wrath of a vast majority of their fellow citizens. The roads, it is declared with equal conviction, will yield rather than plunge the nation into industrial chaos on the eve of war.

WAR SUMMARY.—Paris reports successful raids between the Avre and the Oise on the western front. In the Canny-sur-Matz sector the French penetrated the woods to a depth of half a mile. Berlin reports defeat of the French at Hill 185 in the Champagne. Petrograd reports continued pursuit of the Turks after the capture of Kermanshah. Constantinople says Hamadam was evacuated according to plans adopted by army chiefs. Two British merchant ships and four Russian transports were sunk by submarines. Berlin reports that six steamers and eight sailing vessels were sunk in the Mediterranean.

LONDON—The news that "Great Russia" has joined the democracies of the world and that one of the three great absolutist rulers of the world had resigned his throne in accordance with the demands of his people was received here with unmixed joy. There has been no illusion here about Russia. Particularly in the last year it has been well understood that the situation there has been the people against the throne. "The people and the army are all for the war against Germany," have been the word which came from Russian channels repeatedly.

CHICAGO.—In memory of Joseph Medill, late editor of THE TRIBUNE, the committee of the Old Time Printers' association having in charge the Medill Memorial window will meet today in the Press club to hold a service and also to hear the report of the progress made by the committee. It has been practically decided to submit the commission to Thomas Augustin O'Shaughnessey.

THE MANLY ART.

Chicago, March 10.—In a scathing arraignment of boxers, entitled "Some Find It Hard to Tell Pug from Thug," the Hon. Westbrook Pegler, self-styled the Great Disillusioner, again places the boxing game on the griddle.

I speak with the authority of an ex-fighter, a manager, trainer, referee, and instructor, and hasten to say that I have forgotten more about boxing, in all its phases, than this fishwoman will ever know.

After years of association with boxers, professional and amateur, I am absolutely sure that the cleanest thinking, cleanest living class of men it has ever been my honor to know are boxers.

It stands to reason that a sport which exacts such perfection in physical condition as boxing does leaves no room for late hours, connivance, or mental uncleanliness. There have been cases, no doubt, where boxers have not been paragons of all that is fine or effete—as there have been cases in the legal profession, the world of music, art, business—yea, even in the syndicate writing province; but one apple doesn't make an orchard.

I would rather have ten boxers for pals than ten syndicate writers, let it be known. As to the boxing managers, that is a horse from a different garage, at least in Mr. Pegler's bailiwick, the east, and I hold no brief for them.

THE TRIBUNE, in sponsoring the Golden Gloves, in which the cream of fine young manhood competes, nor the Catholic Youth Organization, in its great annual tournament, certainly does not foster the promotion of thuggery, and there is no mysterious blight which attacks a boy when he leaves the amateur ranks and becomes a professional, Pegler's insinuation to the contrary notwithstanding.

THE ORIGIN OF SECOND CLASS MAIL.

Warrenville, Ill., March 2.—I don't believe you are being fair to periodicals in your editorials on second class mail rates.

The second class rate was originally a subsidy to subscribers (not publishers). Subscribers had been paying it locally, I think each three months, and no doubt it was a dreadful nuisance. So the change to prepayment by publishers was a subsidy to subscribers, the expense of which was divided between the postoffice and the publishers. Now the postoffice servants are claiming mastery and wish to levy all this farmers' subsidy on publishers. E. M. MOORE,
The Pony Barn Press.

SEATS IN THE BUSES.

Chicago, March 11.—Can anybody tell me why the upper deck seats on the inclosed top buses slant toward the aisle? The angle is so steep that we have to brace ourselves with feet and back to keep from sliding out onto the floor. I suggest the installation of safety belts such as are used in airplanes, or saddles, preferably of western type with a horn to hang on to. BROKEN BACK.

THE OLD SPIRIT.

Chicago, March 8.—It has been a long while since I have heard our national flag cheered as it was last night when it floated out over the heads of the great throng at the Golden Gloves fights. Not just polite hand clapping, but cheers and yells with the old battling spirit in them. And when that really awakens we know we are saved. E. THORNE.

POOR RELIEF IN DANVILLE.

Danville, Ill., March 10.—Some time last week a prominent officeholder of Vermilion county printed a statement under the Voice of the People of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE stating how he saved money for the taxpayers of Vermilion county and asking other counties to do the same. This officeholder, Mr. Frank T. Dettman, says the county advertised for bids to clean up the courthouse here, but he failed to state whether they were for washing or a complete decorating job. And I, as a citizen of Vermilion county and secretary of painters' local union in Danville, wish to contradict Mr. Dettman when he says it was not done against the wishes of organized labor, for a committee of painters waited on Mr. Dettman in protest to working men at so low a rate of wages.

And I further want to state that the walls of our courthouse are not washed as skilled men would do them, but are all washed off in some places and some places they are all smeary. And furthermore, I am sure Mr. Dettman exaggerated when he says he saved taxpayers $10,700. I am sure our contractors would jump at the chance to decorate our courthouse for a sum not to exceed $4,000.

Now, then, if he, as he claims, worked 700 men on our courthouse and each one received a $3 order for his day's work, this would total $2,100 instead of $500, as he stated. And furthermore, that does not include scaffolding and material used and a foreman at $18 per week. Where is the big saving?

WILLIAM L. WATSON.

FROM A STORE OWNER.

Chicago, March 10.—There is something the public ought to know in regard to a small candy store business as compared with a public school's. I have a little candy store next door to a school and I barely make a living, but now this school practically has robbed me of my living, as it sells candy, ice cream, lunches, and leaves nothing for the small business. It is unjust to leave me to starve that way, because the school store's sales per day are my sales per week. I'd rather sell the store to the school and try to find a job of any sort.

CERMAK STREET.

Chicago, March 10.—The memory of as brave and popular a man as Mayor Cermak is one that should linger long in our minds. Therefore I propose that some street in Chicago be named for him. RALPH CANTRELL.

THE GOLD CLAUSE.

Chicago, March 11.—Arthur Sears Henning says that many senators and representatives are urging legislation abrogating the gold clause in mortgages and other obligations, although lawyers say such action would be an unconstitutional impairment of contracts. Why additional legislation? Section 2 of the act of March 9, 1933, empowers the secretary of the treasury to require owners of gold to pay it to the treasurer of the United States in exchange for other forms of coin or currency. If this section be constitutional, it seems the problem is solved. The secretary could permit the withdrawal of gold for the sole purpose of paying obligations containing the gold clause and when it had served its purpose compel its return to the treasury.

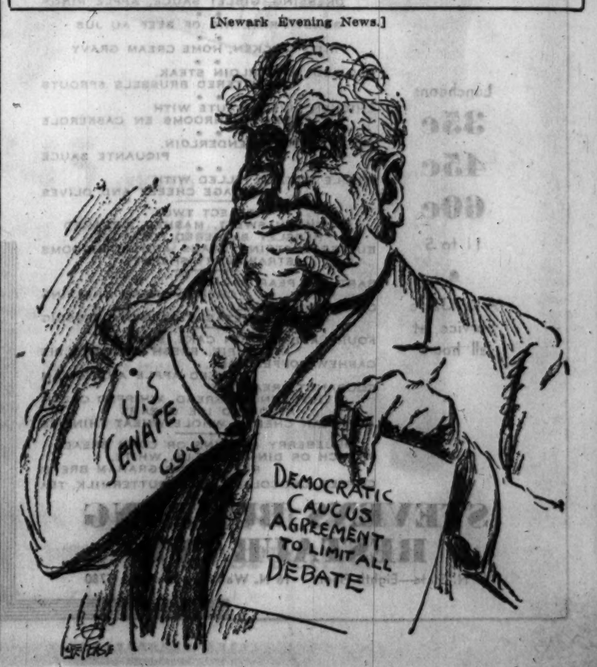
HISTORIC SACRIFICE

[Newark Evening News.]



R. W. BINGHAM UNDER ATTACK OF KENTUCKIAN

Too Pro-British, Asserts Rep. A. J. May.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 15.—[Special.]—Robert Worth Bingham, Louisville, Ky., publisher, whose nomination as ambassador to England is now pending before the senate, was bitterly attacked today in the house of representatives as an Anglophile.

Incensed by an editorial in a Louisville paper conducted by Mr. Bingham, Representative Andrew J. May [Dem., Ky.], condemned the Roosevelt diplomatic nominee as being so pro-English that the United States should be grateful for his riddance.

The editorial which occasioned Mr. May's indignation attacked the representative and three other Kentucky congressmen for voting against the Roosevelt economy bill. Mr. May contended that the tone of the article maligned him and his colleagues. Mr. May insisted that they were privileged to vote as they chose on any issue.

Bingham Hotly Assailed.

Throughout his address Mr. May repeatedly exclaimed: "From the police court of the city of Louisville to the court of St. James." Entering into personalities, charged the publisher with having been "condemned by the supreme court of the state as a fraud perpetrator."

"Who is Robert Worth Bingham?" Mr. May asked. "He is the man who by filthy lucre acquired the ownership and control of the Courier Journal and the Louisville Times, that has been against every Democratic nominee from the state since then. And yet he goes from the Louisville police court to the court of St. James."

Representative Edward W. Goss [Rep., Conn.], interrupted.

Republican Joins Attack.

"Is this the man, the Col. Robert Worth Bingham, who has been appointed minister to the court of St. James?"

"Yes," replied Mr. May, "and I am going to come to that later."

"When that distinguished police court lawyer takes his seat on one side of the table, a seat once occupied by the immortal Ben Franklin, and when Lloyd George and Ramsay MacDonald take their seats on the other side of the table, we will have just about as much chance in that crowd as a wax cat would have in a battle with an asbestos dog in the bottomless pits of hell."

The house laughed and applauded at his vehemence.

"Is it true," asked Representative McFarland, "that this gentleman you are speaking of is very pro-English in all of the expressions he has uttered?"

"Well," was the reply, "he has a big villa in England and God help him to occupy it for the balance of his life. We don't need him in Kentucky."

SABOTAGE IS REPORTED IN THE QUAKE REGION

Long Beach, Cal., March 15.—[Special.]—After every ambulance of the Long Beach police department had stalled in attempting to answer quick relief calls last night, and in each case steel and brass filings had been found in the gasoline tank of the car, Police Lieutenant C. E. Peterson declared that the sabotage evidently had been part of a deliberate and extensive plan to cripple relief operations. Twelve machines were disabled.

The police department organized a special squad as a result. Two cases of looting quake damaged premises and one holdup in the damage zone reported during the night.

Meanwhile, relief agencies were feeding 80,000 victims of the quake. The death toll reached 116 today with the death of J. E. Brusted of Long Beach.

An investigation is also under way into the responsibility for the poor construction of a large number of schools which suffered damage in the quake zone.

RED CROSS HERE WELCOMES AID FOR QUAKE AREA

The Chicago chapter of the American Red Cross yesterday announced that contributions for relief of sufferers in the California earthquake will be welcomed by the local office. The Chicago chapter also made arrangements to send Miss Helen Caldwell, a member of the local staff, to the disaster area as a casework supervisor.

"It is not probable that additional personnel from Chicago will be needed," James T. Nicholson, manager of the Chicago chapter said, "because workers are available on the Pacific coast. It is estimated that 7,500 families will require assistance not obtainable from governmental sources. The Red Cross has been named the official relief and rehabilitation agency by Gov. Rolph of California."

5 FACTORY GIRLS BURNED TO DEATH BY MATCH BLAST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MELL, Que., March 15. — Five French-Canadian factory girls were burned to death and 22 other employés were seriously injured here today. A box of matches dropped from the hands of a chemist in the Canada Match factory exploded and instantly turned the building into a raging inferno of matchwood and sulphur. A score of girls escaped death by plunging through main floor windows twelve feet from the ground. Steve Hulquist, chemist, and Emile Paquette, forman, repeatedly risked their lives in piloting groups of girls through the flames to exits. Paquette may die from his burns.

FORMER PARK HEAD DEAD.

Evansville, Ind., March 15.—[Special.]—Edward P. Kramer, 50, superintendent of city parks here during Mayor Herbert Males administration, dropped dead at his farm home near New Harmony today. He was a brother of Frank Kramer of East Orange, N. J., who held the world's bicycle riding championship for eighteen years.

SORORITY SENDS $50 TO HELP FEED HUNGRY PUPILS

Gifts Received During Day Total $135.95.

Gifts poured into the Hungry School Children's fund yesterday, giving a total of $135.95 for the day. These gifts will go a long way toward making up some of the expenses incurred last week when merchants extended credit so that the needy children in the public schools need not go hungry during the bank holiday.

A $50 check from the Delta Sigma Pi sorority led the day's gifts. Among others was $3, the receipts of a charity show given by three pupils of the Lowell school. They were Marriet Klapman, 10 years old; Eunice Fox, 10, and Ruth Lauber, 11. The Sakowi patrol of Girl Scouts, troop No. 138, sent $1.50, and $1 came as the proceeds from the first lesson of the Harriette Link Rhythm club, 910 Waveland avenue. Fees of ten cents charged the children are given to the fund.

The gifts, in full, which helped bring the grand total to $22,196.28, are acknowledged below:

$10—In memory of Junior; Clara S. Barnhart; in memory of Dr. C. S. Williamson, per CLD; Mrs. Phil Morris; Frieda Friedman Aid.
$6—The Bookhouse for Children.
$5—E. A. Johnston.
$3—Receipts of a charity show given by three girls of the Lowell school.
$2.50—J. C. Kaufman.
$2—Just a Friend; W. B. Bridge club; A. H. S.; Elsie Weimann.
$1.50—Anonymous; Sakowi patrol, Girl Scout troop No. 138.
$1—Tau Beta Phi sorority; O.; stenographic department, Illinois inspection bureau; ladies of the Bon Villa Bridge club; Harriette Link Rhythm club, 910 Waveland avenue; Mrs. John Grafund; V. H.; anonymous.
25 cents—O. P. B.
10 cents—Anonymous; F. W. Virden.

Total	$ 135.95
Previously acknowledged	22,060.33
Grand total	$22,196.28

Contributions should be sent to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower.

Peggy Joyce Burns Face, Has to Halt Studio Work

Hollywood, Cal., March 15.—[Special.]—Peggy Hopkins Joyce was incapacitated for appearances before the film camera today because she burned her left cheek with a curling iron, and not only was there a temporary scar but the nurse at the studio, Lillian Rock, wouldn't permit her to apply grease paint for fear of poisoning herself.

STRIKE OF UNION WORKERS AT 1933 FAIR THREATENED

A strike of 1,200 union employes of A Century of Progress has been threatened because 11 nonunion technicians are at work on two exhibits on the exposition grounds, it was revealed yesterday. R. J. Randolph, director of operations for the fair, told State's Attorney Courtney that Michael Boyle, business agent of the Electrical Workers' union, and Patrick Sullivan, president of the Building Trades' council, threatened the strike unless the 11 jobs are given to Chicago union men.

Boyle asked that eight men engaged in installing the exhibit of the American Telephone and Telegraph company be replaced by members of the Chicago Electrical Workers' union, Randolph said. He charged that Sullivan demanded that three local carpenters be given the work of placing artificial bark on trees in the California tree exhibit.

Representatives of the American Telephone and Telegraph company said that the men employed on their exhibit had been specially trained, and that no Chicago workmen were capable of doing the work. They announced that they would withdraw the exhibit rather than grant the request of Boyle. State's Attorney Courtney said he would make an investigation, and summoned Boyle and Sullivan to appear at his office today.

HENRY A. PFISTER OF LAKE COUNTY NEW MILK CHIEF

Henry A. Pfister, dairy farmer of Prairie View, Lake county, Illinois, yesterday was elected president of the Pure Milk association, bargaining agency of 18,000 dairymen supplying milk and cream to Chicago.

Pfister was named by the association's board of directors to succeed W. C. McQueen of Elgin, for seven years head of the farm coöperative. McQueen was eliminated as the result of the election of Arthur Hartman as director of Kane county, at the annual meting of the association on Tuesday.

Pfister has been treasurer of the coöperative for four years. He is succeeded in that office by John Case of Naperville. Charles W. Schmaling of Delavan, Wis., was reelected first vice president and Glenn Morgan of Westville, Ind., second vice president. The majority control of the directorate and the officers remains with Illinois dairymen, who outnumber those in Indiana and Wisconsin in the Pure Milk association membership.

PASTOR ACCUSED BY GIRL ON TRIAL BY CHURCH JURY

Public Is Excluded from Hearing.

Muncie, Ind., March 15.—[Special.]—Behind closed doors in the little suburban Normal City Methodist Episcopal church here the Rev. G. Lemuel Conway, suspended pastor of the Madison Street M. E. church, today went on trial. The hearing was conducted by Bishop Edgar Blake of Detroit as presiding judge and a jury of twelve Methodist ministers.

Conway was indicted on charges of assault with intent to rape Helen Huffman, 18, high school girl and a member of his congregation, and assault and battery on Willard Aurand, choirmaster of his church. The church charges are based upon the same counts.

Only witnesses, members of the ministerial jury, and ministers acting as counsel for the defendant and for the church were permitted in the assembly. Newspaper men were told none of the testimony would be given out.

The Rev. Manford Wright, Kendallville, and the Rev. John Edwards, Huntington, are counsel for Conway and the Rev. W. B. Freeland, Muncie, and the Rev. H. A. P. Homer, Hartford City, are appearing for the church.

Miss Huffman charges that several weeks ago, while she was on her way to the business district from her home, she was invited by Conway to ride up town in his automobile, but that, instead, he drove into the country. On a lonely road he attempted to rape her, but desisted when an automobile approached, she asserts.

Conway was suspended and was cited to appear March 15 for formal hearing. After the suspension Aurand appeared in the choir loft to direct singing, although ordered not to do so by Conway. Subsequently the pastor is reported to have struck or pushed Aurand over the chancel rail in the presence of his congregation. Aurand's supposed activity in prosecuting Conway was said to have been the reason for this attack.

Soon afterward Conway, who is about 55 years old and the father of a family, was indicted by the Delaware county grand jury. He pleaded not guilty and said he was the victim of a "frameup" by disgruntled members of his congregation.

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Charges Plot to Effect Dictatorship in Spain

BARCELONA, Spain, March 15.—(AP)—The newspaper L'Humanitat said today that extremists were preparing simultaneous uprisings throughout Spain for the purpose of causing alarm and giving rise to a dictatorship. It added that huge stocks of munitions and arms were being distributed among anarchists.

BOGAN TO URGE DIPLOMA BAN IN GRADE SCHOOLS

A recommendation for elimination of the expense of grade school graduations and diplomas will be made to the board of education within the next few weeks, Supt. William J. Bogan announced yesterday. A $4,000 order for diplomas for all the school graduations, including grade schools, was placed before the board Monday, but action was deferred.

The suggestion that Chicago has many useless graduations was made recently by Ernst Buehler, a member of the school board, who conferred with Mr. Bogan. Trustee Buehler said that, aside from the costs, the diplomas and exercises give pupils a false feeling of having reached a stage of perfection by receiving a document upon graduation from grade school.

"Many years ago a diploma might have been a good thing for a pupil completing eight grades of education," said Mr. Bogan, "but now most of the students continue on in school."

ECONOMY BILL PASSES SENATE; BACK TO HOUSE

Only Minor Changes Are Made in Measure.

am calling upon the 10,709 Legion posts and our one million members throughout our great organization to uphold the pledge that I have made as the national commander of the American Legion. I am asking that special meetings be held by every Legion post where it will officially express by resolution such loyalty and utmost help."

The Legion would devote its services to helping in drawing up a new system that would be just and equitable.

"There is no question of Legion loyalty," the Legion commander went on. "The patriotism of every member has been proved in his war service and in his peace time devotion to the welfare of our country as evidenced by his membership in the Legion.

Ready to Take Orders.

"In this hour of emergency we are but eager to serve the Stars and Stripes again under whatever orders our new commander in chief may give. Many may disagree with the new law, but now in this crisis we must take his orders."

As at the afternoon session, the evening's consideration of the economy bill saw the offer of amendment after amendment and the rejection of all but a few of minor importance.

Senator L. J. Dickinson [Rep., Ia.] attempted to persuade the senate to accept as a substitute for the veterans' provisions an amendment which would have included recommendations agreed on by a former economy committee to save some 50 millions and then to apply the same cost of living basis as in the employes' section in order to bring the total saving to some 200 millions.

But the senate would have no other bill but the one before them.

Senator Robert M. La Follette [Rad., Wis.], with an impassioned plea for kindness attempted to cushion the effects of the employés' cuts. He, too, talked to deaf ears.

An attempt to prohibit the cutting of salaries below $1,000—last of a series of amendments—failed of adoption, 32 to 41.

Paired for the bill—Coolidge, Glass, Kendrick, McAdoo, Democrats. Paired against the bill—Cutting and La Follette, Republicans; Overton, Democrat, and Shipstead, Farmer-Labor. It was announced that King, Costigan and Logan, Democrats, would have supported the bill had they been present.

Senate Is Defended.

The debate rose to heights strange to the senate, as proponents of the measure answered the arguments of the bill's opponents.

The opponents sought to show that it was not necessary to delegate the power to make economies to the President. They defended congress and the congressional record of thrift.

Such tactics drove the sponsors of the bill to denounce themselves and their own record.

"The sole reason assigned for passage of the bill," said Senator Borah, "is that congress has broken down. On the contrary, the opposition to economy has come from the executive department. Congress has appropriated less than the budget during the past fifteen years."

But the senator was reminded that both Presidents Harding and Coolidge had vetoed bonus bills, and that the bonus act did not become law until congress passed it over the Coolidge veto.

Senator Simeon D. Fess [Rep., O.] recalled the fate of the economy bill in the session before last and described how the economy program during its passage through congress had been whittled down to a "bagatelle."

Cites Democrats' Records.

Senator Daniel O. Hastings [Rep., Del.] went back to the records of two years and pointed out the names of Democrats, now loud economy advocates, who failed to support President Hoover's veto of the bill for immediate payment of the bonus. He said he would vote for the bill because it was essential that the President be given dictatorial power.

"It takes courage to cut appropriations," said the Delaware senator.

"I am going along with this bill because if it is left to us, we won't do it," he said. "It is a humiliating confession, but if we leave it to the members of this body to make retrenchments, there won't be any."

"And if we have a President with courage to do it we ought to give him the power."

Other Republicans joined in.

Senator Felix Hebert [Rep., R. I.] declared:

"This is no time for political discussion but for immediate action."

And Senator Arthur Capper [Rep., Kas.] said that to refuse to give the President the powers he asked at this time would be "unpatriotic."

DICK TRACY—Do Drop In

ATHLETE SLAIN; IS TORTURED IN Y. M. C. A. ROOM

Dies in a Straitjacket; Brother Held.

Rochester, N. Y., March 15.—(AP)—Strangled in a strange straightjacket, Erich Baumann, 27 year old gymnast, died in agony before dawn today and authorities tonight were baffled as to who killed him and why.

Detective Captain John P. MacDonald called it "the most brutal murder" in his 50 years on the force.

Baumann died of slow strangulation, Dr. Floyd Winslow said after an autopsy. A chamber maid feund his body, clad in shorts and socks, face down on his bed in the Y. M. C. A. dormitory.

Noose Drawn Tight.

The straightjacket had been improvised from a camper's sleeping bag identified as Baumann's. Straps and ropes were fastened tightly about his ankles, knees, thighs, chest, and neck. Another rope with a slip knot was tied around his neck and attached to his ankles in such a way that any attempt to relax from his strained position drew the noose tight.

Baumann came to this country from Germany in 1927 and had no known enemies. His friends had planned a party for tonight to celebrate the recent issuance of his final citizenship papers.

Rope Found in Room.

Lacking a motive or promising clews, the police held his brother, Conrad, 25, who works in an optical company and sleeps in another room in the same wing of the Y. M. C. A. In his room police said they found a 10 foot length of rope similar to that which bound the dead man.

TIME FOR FILING APPEAL DELAYED IN SANITARY CASE

The time for filing an appeal in the so-called sanitary district graft case in which Timothy J. Crowe, Democratic leader was the principal defendant, was delayed again yesterday when it was revealed that some of the state's exhibits are missing. An extension of time to March 23 was granted by Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court on a motion agreed to by attorneys for both sides.

When State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney was asked about the case yesterday he said he had no knowledge of the status of the Crowe appeal and referred the inquiry to his first assistant, Grover C. Niemeyer. The latter said he understood the extension had been granted because some of the exhibits were misplaced.

Assistant State's Attorney Henry Seyfarth, who is handling the appeal for the state, told Judge Prystalski that he hoped to find the missing exhibits shortly.

The conviction of Crowe and other officials of the "whoopee board" occurred more than a year ago and during the intervening months appeals have blocked the execution of the sentence.

A CAR OF FISH IS A CAR OF FISH, DRY AGENTS FIND

A week ago a refrigerator car, consigned in bond for customs inspection, arrived in Chicago. Eight prohibition agents, dressed as laborers, made a midnight sortie and surrounded the car. The leader attacked the door with a crowbar and two railroad detectives appeared on the scene to demand an explanation.

After a flashing of government badges the drys' leader whispered the information that they were government men confiscating a carload of smuggled liquor. The railroad men pointed to two seals. One was a customs seal. The second was marked "Fish."

The agents, however, went ahead and broke the customs seal, an act which makes ordinary citizens liable to a prison sentence and a fine. They then discovered that the consignment was just what it was labeled—merely fish.

The dry agents' blunder became known yesterday when they wrote long explanations to the commissioner of customs in Washington.

DENTIST LOCKED OUT BY HIS WIFE; POLICE NAB HIM

Police were called this morning to 436 Roslyn place on complaint of Mrs. Adeline Printz that a man was trying to break into the Printz home. They found her husband, Dr. Merle Mayor Printz, 50 years old, a dentist with offices at 30 North Michigan avenue, battering on the door. She had locked the door to keep him out, it developed.

Police were told that following a quarrel two days ago Dr. Printz had left his home. His wife said she had the lock on the apartment changed and when he returned for his clothes she refused to admit him. He will be arraigned in Town Hall court today on a disorderly conduct charge.

TRAIN HITS AUTO; TWO LA GRANGE RESIDENTS DIE

Charles H. Brown, 35 years old, 33 West Calendar avenue, La Grange, and another man about 40 years old, believed to have been D. S. McEvers of La Grange, were fatally injured last night when their automobile crashed through lowered gates at the Calumet avenue crossing of the South Shore line in Hammond and was struck by a Chicago bound passenger train. Both men died at St. Margaret's hospital, Hammond.

Two Chicagoans and three others were injured yesterday near Michigan City, Ind., when a bus carrying ten passengers struck a parked truck. Amos F. Mattis, 72 years old, 2700 North Mozart avenue, suffered a broken nose and lost his front teeth, and John Wellman, 743 North Michigan avenue, the bus driver, incurred leg injuries.

Mrs. Annie Rutherford, 70 years old, a widow, of 3928 Oak avenue, Brookfield, was fatally injured by an automobile last night at Harlem and Ogden avenues, Berwyn. The car was driven by Rudolph Smirickl, 19 years old, of 5805 West 16th street, Cicero, a student.

This death increased the Cook county motor toll for 1933 to 164.

(Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.)

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, March 15.—The Free State senate made a last effort today to frustrate President De Valera's move to have the oath of allegiance to King George removed from the constitution. It refused to pass the second reading of the oath removal bill recommitted to it from the dail and adopted an amendment refusing to consider the bill until it was made the subject of negotiations between the Free State executive council and the British government.

The matter is now finished before the senate, as under a constitutional provision the oath will now automatically disappear on May 3 on a formal motion by the dail.

In the senate debate on the motion, Senator John Milroy declared the removal of the oath was a breach of treaty. De Valera denied this. He added that he would "welcome any evidence that the British wish to be on friendly terms with our people, but that is only possible on a basis of completely free relations between both countries. The only way to secure real peace is by insisting on our rights."

DR. R. S. MICHEL, PHYSICIAN FOR 57 YEARS, DIES AT 81

Dr. Ralph Sherman Michel, 81 years old, one of the organizers of the old West Side hospital, died yesterday at the University hospital. He had been ill four weeks.

Dr. Michel was a practicing physician for fifty-seven years. He was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania, and after practicing in Ohio he came to Chicago in 1897. When the old West Side hospital passed into other hands Dr. Michel joined the University hospital as an original staff member. He maintained active practice, despite his age, until last month.

Surviving are his widow, Jennie, and four children, Hugh A. Michel, Mrs. Ruth M. Langdon, Mrs. Louise M. Pedersen of New York City, and Mrs. Florence M. Strohm of Portland, Ore. Services will be held in the chapel at 2410 North avenue at 2 p. m. tomorrow. Burial will be at Springboro, O. Dr. Michel's home was at 2835 Logan boulevard.

SAVAGE URGES THE LEGION TO BACK ECONOMY

Support of the reduction of public expenditures was urged by Past National Commander Howard P. Savage at a meeting celebrating the fourteenth anniversary of the founding of the American Legion at the Hotel La Salle last night. "I hope a result of this meeting will be the calling of the state executive committee to support a program for the reduction of public expenditures in accordance with President Roosevelt's plans," he said.

RITES TODAY FOR JOHN D. RILEY, CITY MAP CHIEF

Funeral services for John D. Riley, city superintendent of maps, will be held at 1:30 o'clock in St. Paul's Episcopal church, Estes and Ashland avenues. Burial will be in Oak Ridge cemetery.

Mr. Riley, who was 62 years old, died Tuesday at his home, 4540 Magnolia avenue. He came to Chicago from England as a youth and went to work as a draftsman for the old town of Lake. When that district was annexed to the city in 1889 young Riley was sent to deliver the town records at the city hall. He demanded a receipt, which city officials were unwilling to give, and as a compromise he went to work for the city as a "living receipt" for the town records.

Mr. Riley became superintendent of maps in 1905. One of his first duties was the preparation of the uniform house numbering system of the city which was adopted by the council in 1908. As ex-officio examiner of subdivisions Mr. Riley had much to do with the platting of the newer parts of Chicago. The bureau of maps and plats, as he has organized it, is considered a model for other cities.

Mr. Riley is survived by his widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Riley, and two daughters, Mrs. J. B. Lawrence and Mrs. Kenneth Williams.

Dismiss Contempt Case Against Paul Morton

Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward yesterday dismissed contempt of court proceedings against Paul Morton, convicted bootlegger and brother of the late "Nails" Morton, pioneer Chicago booze hoodlum. The charge was made after Morton had tried to get into Leavenworth penitentiary to serve a sentence of 18 months without commitment papers. He had gone direct to the penitentiary instead of surrendering to federal officials in Chicago. Morton will be taken to Leavenworth with other prisoners Saturday night.

John Richardson, Evanston Real Estate Broker, Dies

John Richardson, 60 years old, a real estate broker in Evanston for the last ten years, died of a heart attack this morning in his home at 2022 Colfax street, Evanston. He came to Chicago from Scotland in 1909 and moved to Evanston in 1923. Surviving are his widow, Georgiana; two sons, Dr. David D. Richardson and Joseph Richardson, and a daughter, Alice.

Northwestern Boy Prodigy Elected to Phi Beta Kappa

Harold M. Finlay, who entered Northwestern university as a 13 year old prodigy, was yesterday included among sixteen students elected to Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholastic fraternity. Young Finlay is now 17 and will be graduated in June. He headed his high school class at McConnelsville, O., and because of his youth his application for entrance was closely scrutinized by Northwestern officials. His grades at Northwestern have averaged 95. He intends to continue his studies in economics, in which he has specialized, after his graduation.

3 Marshall Field & Co. Old Employes Honored

Three employés of Marshall Field & Co. were honored yesterday at a luncheon in the store in celebration of the 50th anniversary of their employment. They are August John Olson, 83, of 5632 Keystone avenue; Frank H. Sherwood, 79, of 5838 Carpenter street, and William R. Garner, 72, of 3715 North Kilpatrick avenue. Olson and Sherwood are merchandise collectors and Garner is employed in the carpet workroom.

Turkeys Surrender Gold! Find Metal in Their Crops

Council, Idaho, March 15.—(AP)—Gold hoarding of a flock of turkeys at the Wisdom ranch on Squaw creek has stirred up excitement hereabouts. One turkey marketed in Boise was found to have $2.50 worth of gold dust in its crop. Two others yielded $5.10 additional and a fourth delivered a little more.

F. N. Simmons, Church Lecturer, Is Dead at 69

Francis N. Simmons, 69 years old, church lecturer and religious writer, died yesterday at his home at 5326 Hyde Park boulevard. He had been ill four months. Mr. Simmons, the son of a Methodist clergyman, was known for his work among Methodist church people. His widow survives.

John Quincy Adams, Noted Painter, Dies in Vienna

VIENNA, Austria, March 15.—(AP)—The Austrian painter, John Quincy Adams, 58, a descendant of the famous American Adams family, died here tonight. Adams was in the United States in 1930 to paint a portrait of President Hoover for the National gallery of Vienna.

J. W. EMBREE WILL FILED; CHARITY IS GIVEN $50,000

Charitable bequests totaling $50,000 were made by John W. Embree, retired lumberman, whose will was admitted to probate yesterday by Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to Probate Judge Taylor. Mr. Embree, whose home was at 3314 Lake Shore drive, died March 6, at the age of 71. His estate is estimated to be worth $550,000.

He left a $30,000 trust fund for the Embree Park association of Pennsville, O., the income to defray expenses of an annual picnic "in honor of my family." Bequests of $5,000 to the Chicago Lying-in hospital and of $15,000 to the Children's Home and Aid society also were made.

After setting up trust funds and outright bequests totaling $110,000 to other relatives, Mr. Embree left the remainder of his estate to his widow, Mrs. Carrie Embree, and two sons, John William Embree Jr. and Henry Stevens Embree, all of Chicago.

Economical tips for week-end food shoppers—a Saturday morning radio feature—will be presented Saturday by Mary Meade over station W-G-N. Tune in at 9:45 for Miss Meade's market chat.

BY MARY MEADE.

Feeding folk at five and twenty-five and satisfying their needs at fifty have some things in common—and a great many extremely important differences. The trouble is that those differences are too little heeded or understood. In the last decade, for instance, we've done a good deal of learning about the needs of growing youngsters. But to a large extent we're someway taking it for granted that once a husky American citizen comes of age, his needs are stabilized and will remain thus for the rest of his natural life.

But this doesn't happen to be so. In general, of course, the foods that suit children will suit elderly folk, at the same table. Yet little warnings and danger signals along the way advise that after fifty, diet in most cases should be somewhat modified to meet the requirements of advanced years which usually are accompanied by a general slowing down of muscular work and play and of internal processes. The big danger, as we're being told—and seeing—constantly, is the accumulation of too much fat and the heart troubles and other threats to life and health that overweight is likely to precede.

And this putting on of pounds comes most frequently because we are not accompanying this natural slowing down of activities with a moderating of the energy foods we eat. These foods, if they are not used up in muscular activity are bound to store themselves up in fat to our discomfort and danger. And since strenuous activity is also a body regulator, in advanced years changes in the diet—the avoidance of less digestible foods and the addition of plenty of natural bulk foods to assist in keeping the system clean—are wise and essential to good, hardy health.

First about the amount of food best for less active adults. Probably through a good many years on the go a habit of generous eating has been established which hangs on persistently even after the need for it is over. If this is resulting in adding poundage beyond the safety point, then a bit of self determined cutting down on amounts is to be advised. Add to this a generous supply of vitamin and mineral rich foods—fresh vegetables and fruits particularly, and much of the danger is taken care of.

Fats, as I've mentioned somewhere before, somewhat retard digestion, and this in elderly folk may cause upsets. Butter, cream, bacon, and vegetable oils are the most easily digested of the fats and so are perhaps the best sources.

Warm foods, especially warm liquid broths stimulate digestion, keep the body comfortably warm and [if liquid] help in sweeping out waste from the system. A warm beverage taken just before going to bed is generally admitted to be a good promoter of quick sleep.

Even when, as is sometimes necessary due to imperfect teeth, soft foods are an essential in the diet, fresh fruit juices and pulp or the pulp of stewed dried fruits or of vegetables are good promoters of health and pep folks out of that "all tired out" feeling.

Usually, since there's less need for muscle building in the years after fifty than before, there also is less need for the chief muscle builder and repairer—protein. What building does need to be done can a good deal of it be taken care of by protein supplied foods, such as milk, gelatin, soft cooked eggs, and cereals. It seems likely that for elderly people, the proteins in these foods are a little more easily taken care of than is meat protein.

Especially in chilly weather folks after fifty still have a definite need for carbohydrates—energy and heat producing foods—though these are the ones it is also necessary to guard against in considering overweight. Thoroughly cooked cereals and baked potatoes make good sources. Some elderly folks are also able to eat considerable amount of sweets without being bothered by indigestion.

Paris Opera Comique Will Present Talkies One Night Each Week

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 15.—The Opera Comique, one of Paris' two famous operas, and particularly known to Chicagoans as the stage where Mary Garden has appeared in recent years, has become cinema-minded.

Mondays, on which heretofore the theater has been dark, it will be given over to talkie programs. Talkies of high quality will be offered. Also films specially made for the Opera Comique of operatic material. Furthermore, cinema effects and backgrounds will be experimented with for use in the regular opera productions. The author of the innovations is M. Rabaud, the new director.

Cotton Clothes Lead the Parade of Paris Styles

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—We saw considerable cotton in fashions last summer, but we shall see much more this year. Sports clothes make cotton king of fabrics, and lead off with long cotton sports coats and cotton sports suits. The materials are woven to look like woolen, silk, or velvet: In fact anything but the cotton which they are.

The Lyolene sports ensemble, shown today, gets fashion's right of way on two counts in the most exclusive circles. It is made of cotton masquerading as wool, and it has a light coat and dark dress.

The coat is white cotton that looks identically like ribbed wool, and the frock is brown cotton corduroy. The coat is simple and narrow in line with a belt of self-material at the waistline closed on brown wooden loops. The white collar has scalloped edges and buttons over a brown cotton corduroy collar. The cuffs are made in exactly the same way, and the pockets that are set in at the sides just below the waistline have double buttoned, brown and white flaps.

The brown frock has a white and brown buttoned and scalloped double collar and cuffs, and scalloped white bands on the set-in hip pockets. It has a four gore straight skirt and short sleeves.

Young Artist Series Opens; Two Praised

BY EDWARD MOORE.

It is a sign of approaching spring when a new Young American Artists series begins, and the seventeenth season thereof started operations at Curtiss hall last night. The musicians appearing in this course are described by the title of the series, young singers and players who thus enter into the professional activity of displaying their musical wares to the public. Such debuts are usually accomplished late in the season.

The pair electing to burgeon last night were Jennings Fawcett, bass-baritone, and Jeanette Albert, pianist. Mr. Fawcett has an excellent asset in the voice given him by a beneficent nature, even though that voice will require considerable technical development before it becomes evenly scaled at its two extremities, and therefore before he can put it to its most serviceable use as a medium of interpretation. It is, however, resonant and of good quality and he understands quite a bit about the art of singing English.

Miss Albert has been developed into a good technician, playing accurately if at times with a somewhat hard tone. She would seem to be equally at ease in works of both the elder and modern schools, and she played specimens of both in a way to win the high favor of her audience.

A new singing organization, the Fort Dearborn chorus, gave a concert at Kimball hall last night under the direction of Harriet Hebert. It has a personnel of about forty, so arranged and trained that its male and female sections may appear separately or together, and with the additional advantage of possessing at least half a dozen soloists to be called out of its own ranks whenever needed.

Classical and modern works were on the program, excerpts from oratorios alternated with arrangements of works by living composers, and accompanied solos with purely choral writings. Accompaniments were by Dorothy Siemon, pianist, and Else Passott, organist, with an occasional violin obbligato by Harold Paschke.

Emil Zettler to Design Medal for World's Fair

Emil Robert Zettler, professor of design and head of the industrial art section of the Art institute and associate professor of Armour institute, will design the official model for A Century of Progress, it was announced yesterday. Prof. Zettler was born in Karlsruhe, Germany, in 1878, and has lived in Chicago since he was 4 years old. He exhibited in the Paris salon in 1910 and at the San Francisco exposition in 1915.

Clever Girls Making Their Own Costumes

New Spring Fabrics Win Wise Buyers.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Somebody has been whispering loudly about the increasing number of clever, nimble fingered gals who are getting a big kick out of making their own clothes . . . . and most of the gossip is authentic. If you see an exceptionally swanky frock on the well dieted anatomy of your best friend these days you pause to wonder whether the frock has a Paris label or whether the bright gal has fashioned it from a few yards of new spring material, a very new pattern, and lots of daring originality supplied by the female herself. It's a good guesser who can tell the difference, if any!

Even a lazy soul will suddenly become ambitious after a shopping trip through the stores that flaunt all the stunning new spring materials. Though you cautiously begin with a simple blouse pattern you will have a wild time among the clouds of new organdy, featured for such beginning sewing bees. Look for the new dotted stuff, fifty-four inch wide organdy, brightened with white and colored dots as big as a 50 cent piece, or the blazing plaids, the stripes and checks that are as new and colorful as anything you have seen in weeks.

Soft ginghams in every conceivable color are unpacked for early spring sewing . . . good looking plain colors, pastel tints for small children, bold, breezy plaids and checks for the schoolgirl, and all the flowered cotton prints that can be used for anything from curtains and chair covers to fresh crisp house dresses.

Printed handkerchief linens are lovelier than ever before . . . tiny designs against white or colored and black backgrounds. They are immensely effective prints for dark suit blouses, or the puffed sleeved blouses to be worn under suspender or jumper dresses.

Dotted Swisses are abundant as well as colorful. Tucked blouses of this feminine material have the vertical tucks outlined with narrow ric-rac braid, the same color as the dot. For instance, one navy blue silk suit has a silk skirt attached to a navy blue and white dotted Swiss blouse. The dots are deep blue and the ric-rac braid that zooms up the outside edge of the tucks is a matching deep blue. Other similar combinations can be planned to contrast other suit shades.

New cottons are exciting . . . you will find some that look exactly like tweeds, others made to look like soft suedes, and others that are as thick as wool velour. Some are copied from bath towels, others look like puffy waffles, still some more yardage resembles wide wale-d corduroy.

Plain, unassuming cottons are parading around as everything in the fabric way but smooth cotton itself. . . . fuzzy, fringy cottons, meshed cotton, drop stitched cotton, cotton that looks like rough crash, and novelty weaves unlike anything any cotton collector has ever been tempted to buy. The variety of weaves is excelled only by the choice of color and amazingly low prices.

Art Institute School Exhibit Arouses Critic

Writer Says Works Lack Color and Beauty.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The annual Art institute school exhibit opens today in the east wing galleries of the museum. Customarily this show is held in June, but the Century of Progress exposition is upsetting the usual schedule in matters both large and small. The school exhibit is fortunate in that it takes place at all; the other exhibits are canceled entirely and nothing will be as one expects it before next January.

Meanwhile the school exhibit is on for what it may be worth. The students lack two months and a half of completing their courses, so possibly on that score some grace should be granted them. On the other hand would two and a half months be enough time in which to teach them the many things they obviously at present are blind to?

The school term is now a four year course. One looks at the nudes and still life compositions in dismay at how little can be imbibed in that length of time.

Color, grace, beauty are entirely lacking. The obvious is accented. Where, here, is there any delicacy or sensitiveness of line? Where any play of the imaginative tuned to things less commonplace than an abrupt and awkward perspective? What are the Art institute teachers giving their students? The result as the exhibit gives it is a meager fare.

A few gleams light the darkness. Now and again a really sound note is struck. Once in many pieces mediocrity is supplanted by craft. There are a few etchings, a few drawings, several illustrations and some modeling that rise like timid oases from the overwhelming desert where the unbridled foibles of the third rate run loose.

The large painting that fronts you in the first gallery was accomplished in two days. The figure studies, many nudes, probably took longer. It is possibly, a typical school show, yet one dares think none as weak has yet been offered. The personnel of the teaching staff has been changing and probably here is the harvest. It is a pity.

Greets Friends

None of her friends paid any attention to Mrs. Stephen G. Browning's request that they send no flowers nor presents for her 96th birthday and the French room at the Drake hotel was filled yesterday with lovely blossoms, American beauties predominating.

Mrs. Browning received seated on a dais, with vases of the gorgeous red roses on the table and floor beside her, a spray of sweet peas fastened to the back of a chair, and an old fashioned nosegay of violets and gardenias in her hand. Her portrait flanked by American flags was the background for this lovely picture, and as her friends greeted her, many of them said, "how like an empress you look." Mrs. Browning wore a black lace gown and on her hands were black lace mitts.

The birthday cake was tremendous, a whole yard across, oval and double-decked and surrounded by 96 candles. On it was a picture of the "birthday child" with a candy frame. Golden candy roses and spun sugar foliage ornamented the cake and pink icing spelled out the words "1837 Happy Birthday to Mrs. Charlotte Prentiss Browning 1933."

Assisting Mrs. Browning were her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Loesch, Mrs. Loesch charming gown of powder blue. Among the guests who signed their names in the guest book were Charles F. Loesch, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Yager, Burton Holmes, Mrs. Chauncey B. Borland, Frederick B. Tuttle, Mrs. George W. Meeker, Mr. and Mrs. Edward G. Pauling, Miss Anna Morgan, Mrs. Philo Adams Otis, Mrs. Eugene Wheeler, Mrs. Frederick T. Haskell, Mrs. Paul Shorey, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin E. Sunny, Mrs. Clair E. More Dean, Mrs. John H. Wigmore, and Miss Kate Buckingham.

Mrs. Browning had received many telegrams of congratulations, among them ones from the Tracy Drakes, the E. Parmalee Prentices, Dr. William Lyon Phelps, the Rev. Dr. P. S. M. Bird of Cleveland, Mr. and Mrs. Finley J. Shepard [Helen Gould], Col. Henry W. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis R. Morris, cousins of Mrs. Browning; the Spencer Kelloggs of Utica, N. Y., and Mrs. William Borden.

Mrs. Roosevelt Spurns Guard on N. Y. Trip

Insists on Dismissal of Police Detail.

New York, March 15.—[Special.]—Finding herself constantly surrounded by policemen during her trip about the city today, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt took active steps this afternoon to get rid of the body guard with which an anxious police department had supplied her.

Among the various items on her program today was a luncheon at the Women's Trade Union league, of which she has been an active member for many years. When she arrived there, shortly before 1 p. m., there were four policemen standing on guard in front of the canteen maintained by the league.

Mrs. Roosevelt stepped from the taxicab she had been traveling in all morning and walked across the street to one of the policemen.

"What are you doing here?" she said.

"We've been sent here to guard you," said the policeman.

"I don't want a guard," said Mrs. Roosevelt. "I don't need a guard. I want you to go away."

"I'm sorry, but I'm not allowed to go away," said the policeman. "I am one of a number of policemen who are under orders to guard you here. You'll find them all over, wherever you go today."

"Please go away," said Mrs. Roosevelt. "I don't need a guard. No one is going to hurt me."

"I'm sorry, Mrs. Roosevelt, but I really can't. The captain told me to stay here," said the policeman.

Unable to make any headway against such adamant instruction, Mrs. Roosevelt entered the building and telephoned Louis McHenry Howe, secretary and adviser to President Roosevelt. Mr. Howe communicated with Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney and Commissioner Mulrooney communicated with Capt. Edward F. Byrne.

Capt. Byrne rushed to the league headquarters. He advanced toward Mrs. Roosevelt, and when he got near enough asked her what she wanted. Mrs. Roosevelt thanked him graciously for his gratuitous bodyguard, but said she didn't want it.

"Thank you very much for your trouble, Capt. Byrne," she said, "but please take these policemen away. Their presence just attracts attention, and no one is going to hurt me."

So finally the policemen went away and Mrs. Roosevelt went on with her program.

Lord Marley Tells How Ort Helps Jews in Russia, Poland

How the People's Ort federation promotes trade among the Jews in Poland and Russia was told yesterday by Lord Dudley Marley, a former lord in waiting to King George, now chairman of the parliamentary advisory committee of the federation and deputy speaker of the house of lords. He arrived early yesterday on the Century to address a mass meeting in the Covenant club last night.

"The Ort is teaching Jewish people in those countries who were put out of their small shops and off their small farms when the cooperative method was imposed how to adapt themselves to their new environment. We teach them how to be skilled laborers and farmers," Lord Marley explained.

Among other speakers at the Covenant club meeting were Rabbi Solomon Goldman, Clarence Darrow, and Gerson Zybert, a representative of the Ort in Warsaw, Poland.

Chicagoans in Large Numbers to Visit Ranches This Summer

Early Birds Make Plans for Vacations in West; Talk of Pack Trips and Picnics.

BY JUDITH CASS.

With spring only five days ahead, the "ranching" members of society are dreaming of getting back into the saddle, of spending long days cutting through mountain foothills and spectacular canyons, and long nights buried deep in the "feathers." From present indications the exodus west is to be greater than ever this summer.

Yesterday the Robert J. Grafs announced intentions of packing up their riding breeches and flannel shirts as soon as school is over in June. They will spend the summer at the H F Bar ranch in Wyoming and so will their near-neighbors, the George T. Hortons of Woodlawn avenue. Two better horsemen are seldom found than "Buddy" Horton and "Bob" Graf. Mr. Graf is one of the few non-cowboy young men who dares to ride a bucking horse.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester F. Ericson, with Jean and Johnny, are going ranching this summer, and so are the Junior George W. Blossoms, who deserted Lake Forest this winter for a house in Pasadena. With the four little Blossoms they will go direct from California to Wyoming in June.

Others Plan Pack Trips.

Others who are already making plans for pack trips and picnics are the Francis N. Bards of Highland Park, the George T. Frenches of Winnetka, the John W. Leslie family of Evanston, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin M. Stark, and Harry B. Wyeth. When John Gordon returns from his studies at Cornell he will join his mother, Mrs. Miriam Gordon of Evanston and continue out to Wyoming.

It was on Frank O. Horton's ranch—the H F Bar—that Hobart Young courted Isabel Chandler, who later became his bride, and they will return there this year for at least a six weeks' vacation. Mr. Horton has been at the Stevens for a couple of days visiting his Chicago friends. He took his college degree at the University of Chicago and played on the Midway football team.

If Miss Edith Cummings doesn't prolong her Jamaica holiday beyond May she may be making plans for another ranch vacation. The famous Wyoming foursome used to be composed of Miss Cummings, the two Letts sisters, Courtney and Hollis, now Mrs. John Borden and Mrs. George F. McLaughlin, and Mrs. William H. Mitchell when she was Ginevra King. And then there were James and Donald Douglas and Hermon Dunlap Smith, who always saved several weeks out of every summer for western ranching. They will never forget the time they arrived just in time to help fight a forest fire. This was in 1919. The government later sent them checks for their assistance, but to this day, from all reports, they're still carrying the checks—uncashed.

Edgar J. Uihlein, with his daughter, Paula, will return to his ranch at Laramie, Wyo., this summer, and Mrs. Pardee Erdman (the former Eleanor Donnelley) will have several parties at her ranch house in Wyoming. Mrs. Erdman is now living in California. Last summer the Rosecrans Baldwins and the John R. Winterbothams were among those who chose this kind of vacation.

Winter ranchers expected home within the next few days from Castle Hot Springs are the Junior Joseph T. Bowens and Mrs. Seymour T. Wheeler with her two daughters, Christobel and Eleanor. Miss Eleanor Wheeler will be back some time next week in time to take part in the wedding of Miss Florence Carr to Edgar L. Marston II. on March 25.

Parties for Lord Gorell.

Lord Ronald Gorell, who has spent several days in the Grand canyon on his way from the west, will arrive in Chicago this morning. William Nelson Pelouze will entertain at luncheon today at the Chicago club for the English writer and publisher and tonight the Association of Arts and Industries and the American Institute of Interior Decorations will give a dinner for him at the Congress hotel.

Lord Gorell will talk on "The Future of Art in Industry" at the dinner, at which Mr. Pelouze, president of the association, will preside. William R. Moore, president of the institute, will entertain about thirty at a cocktail party for Lord Gorell before the dinner at his residence on Bellevue place.

Although the spring style show that is to be presented by the Young Business Women's club of the Lake Forest Y. W. C. A. tonight at the Lake Forest "Y" is called "Smart Economies for Small Incomes," the feature of the entertainment will be the number contributed by the patronesses, for they are to appear in styles of other days, rather recent days, too, in some cases, but long enough ago to make us smile now at the "absurd fashions we wore then."

Mrs. Kingman Douglass will wear the gown the late Mrs. Byron Smith wore in 1900 to the wedding of her son, Solomon A. Smith, and Fredrika Shumway, the "Sol" Smiths' daughter, Mrs. Scott Bromwell, having loaned it for the occasion. Mrs. Woodbury S. Ober will wear a bridal gown made in 1906 for a member of her family [she was Jane McLennan] and her younger sister, Margaret, will wear one of her mother's afternoon gowns of the vintage of 1912.

Mrs. Hermon Dunlap Smith will wear the dress she wore when, as Ellen Thorne, she made her debut on Nov. 11, 1922; Mrs. Edison Dick will appear in a gown of Mrs. T. Philip Swift's that the latter considered her best dress as short a time ago as 1927; Mrs. Phelps Kelley will wear an 1850 model that belonged to Mrs. Ronald Boardman's grandmother; Mrs. Calvin D. Trowbridge will be a bicycling girl of the gay '90s, and Mrs. Charles Garland will wear a 1925 creation.

There will be a number of early dinners before the show, which will start at 8:15 o'clock.

Tavern Party for Irish Players.

"Alanna, caed mille failthe," will be the greeting the members of the Tavern who know their Gaelic will give to the Irish players tonight when the latter appear after the theater for the supper and dance the club is giving them, for those are the Gaelic words for "Dear, a hundred thousand welcomes."

The dramatic critics who are members of the Tavern are all giving parties, and so are the Alfred P. Shaws, the John Roots, the Horatio B. Hacketts, the Roger Fahertys, and Walter Frazier.

Egandale heads the procession! This is the interesting item that came yesterday as an aftermath of our story the other day about Mrs. Vibe K. Spicer's and Mrs. Langdon Pearse's March snowdrops. Mrs. William C. Egan, who presides over lovely Egandale, writes: "Highland Park, though farther to the north than Kenilworth or Winnetka, leads the procession. We have been enjoying snowdrops at Egandale since Jan. 20. That was the date they first stuck their small white heads through the snow."

Another interesting exhibit for the Illinois Garden club's flower show, the first week of April out on Navy pier! From her Lake Forest estate Mrs. James Norris is to contribute a formal garden semi-modernistic in design. There will be a pool and statue, replics of those on the Norris estate, and lilies and primroses among the flowers.

Mrs. Ketting Back in City.

The former Elinor Farwell, Mrs. E. Ogden Ketting, is back in town for the first time since she was married last June, and in between seeing her old friends she is busy looking for an

'WindblownTulip' Pattern Calls for Brilliant Colors

Windblown Tulip.

By NANCY CABOT.

Uncommon grace, beauty, and life have been achieved by the artistic designer of the "Windblown Tulip" pattern. And artistic needleworkers can transfer these qualities to their quilt blocks, with the added feature of brilliant color. Even the name seems to have been inspired, it is so descriptive of swaying, nodding, animated tulips.

For a pattern of this quilt design, send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn Street.

The Changeling Bride

By Martha Ostenso

SYNOPSIS.

The Hendersons—Meryl and Margaret, sisters, Flint, their older brother, and Andrew, the father—have lived for twelve years in poverty in a fishing settlement on the shores of Lake Superior after losing their fortune in Chicago. Andrew went to pieces after the death of his wife. Great-Aunt Letitia is the liaison between the Hendersons and a cultured past. Flint and his friend, Ned Bremner, hope to build up a great export business. Ned is in love with Meryl, but she dreams of a better future. Flint and Meryl are out in a fishing boat when they become aware of a forest fire spreading over the countryside.

INSTALLMENT IV.

A STRANGER GIVEN AID.

In less than five minutes more Flint was tying the dory to the crude pier a hundred yards from the house. Meryl scrambled out of the boat to meet Aunt Letty, who was struggling down the path with a babble of unintelligible words running before her.

Aunt Letty's face was gray, and in the blue light her slender, helpless hands fumbled at her white apron like silver claws.

"My darling!" she quavered as Meryl met her. "I thought you'd never get here! Isn't it frightful!"

Meryl put her arms quickly about her aunt's shoulders and patted her encouragingly as she glanced up at the glowing headlands less than a mile away.

"Is dad out with the men?" she asked in a tone that was resolutely brisk.

"Yes. He and Ned went out together. All the men in the cove are up there now. They've been back firing, and Margaret says they've got it under control now that the wind has gone down. But Merry—I've been frightened to death!"

Flint strode up from the beach and went directly to the small tool shed beside the boathouse.

"Flinty!" Aunt Letty called. "You've got to eat before you go and help!"

He made only a brief and unintelligible reply and vanished into the shed, to emerge a moment later with an ax. Then, running, he disappeared into the thickening shadow toward the mainland.

"Do you feel better now?" she asked him.

In the low ceilinged, whitewashed living room which Aunt Letitia, twelve years ago, with an eye to the quaint and a hand guided by the need for economy, had designed after a pattern seen in a peasant home in Brittany once upon a better time, Meryl ate a hasty supper of cold beef, squash, and potatoes from the frugally cultivated garden plot and a light bread pudding which was Margaret's specialty. Tim, the aged black spaniel, lay beside the fireplace, from which he scarcely ever stirred nowadays. Aunt Letty, nervously exhausted and persuaded that the danger was past, had gone to bed—to Meryl's intense relief. Margaret was with the younger Benoits somewhere up the hill watching the labors of the men from Singing Cove. Except for herself and Aunt Letty, there was not another soul on the point.

Meryl took her reefer down from its oak peg by the door, turned the lamp wick low until the square white room was ghostly with its dark stained, homemade pine table and chairs, its small upright piano which Aunt Letty had insisted upon bringing with her from Ohio, and the deep, sullen maw of the fireplace. Then she tiptoed to the half closed door leading into one of the wings. She listened until she was assured by the light drone from within that Aunt Letty was asleep as only Aunt Letty, "completely played out," could be.

With a paper parcel which contained a sandwich for Flint tucked into the deep pocket of her coat, Meryl slipped out into the darkness. She sped lightly along the familiar path that was strewn with pine needles and almost shut away by the evergreens from the channel of stars overhead.

It was just as she was turning to the right on the open highway to go north that she was arrested by a curious sound at her left. Startled, she looked quickly about and discovered that the sound had come from a shepherd dog who was limping toward her, panting hoarsely and whimpering in a pitiful, almost human fashion. While she stooped to examine the dog swift intuition prompted her to look beyond him down the road to the southward. The dark figure of a man came stumbling toward her lurching uncertainly like a materialization of the shadows. The dog, with a frenzied, raucous barking, ran back to the man, who seemed to stop suddenly at the side of the road. Meryl, standing still in uneasiness and curiosity, saw him sway for a moment, seach out gropingly, then sink in a heap amidst the shrubs which led down to the lake shore.

In a moment she was kneeling beside him and had grasped him by the arms and shoulders so that he leaned heavily against her. He was not, as she had first thought, one of the men from Singing Cove. She had never seen him before. The dog whined and circled about him, then placed his front paws on the man's chest, and licked his face. The stranger's clothes were heavy with the raw smell of wood smoke.

She shook him gently and felt his clothing, his face, and his hair. As far as she could discover, he was suffering not so much from burns as from suffocation and exhaustion. The dog had rushed down to the shore and was noisily lapping water. Meryl thrust her hand quickly into the man's rough tweed coat pocket, found a handkerchief, and hurried down to the rocky beach. With the saturated square of linen, she returned and began gently mopping the stranger's face and throat.

She could discern his features only very dimly. He seemed young, and he had crisp, short cropped hair. Now he was leaning heavily against her breast and sighing, almost—she thought with a qualm—luxuriously.

She hurried once more to the shore and returned to bathe his face and head. Then she stiffened and sat upright as he showed signs of returning consciousness. Still slumped against her, the stranger turned his head slowly and his lips brushed her throat. The touch may have been accidental.

"You're here," he muttered. "You . . ."

She shook him vigorously and life seemed to flow back into him with startling suddenness. He pushed her away from him so that she was forced to brace herself with hands upon the ground to keep her balance. Then he sank forward and passed a hand uncertainly over his eyes.

"Where in hell am I?" he asked, in a voice that struggled out on a desperate breath. His dog, lying stretched out and panting at his feet, lifted his muzzle and whined.

"Don!" the man said. "Good old Don!"

Then he seemed to see Meryl for the first time.

"Do you feel better now?" she asked him.

"Where am I?" he asked again.

"You're a quarter of a mile from Singing Cove," she told him.

The man groaned and, turning over on his face, lay stretched to his full length.

Meryl realized that he was in no condition to travel farther tonight. She continued to douse his head and the back of his neck with cold water from the lake. In a little while he stirred again weakly.

"If you can hold on to me," Meryl said softly, "I'll help you to our house. It's only a little way from here."

"Who are you?" he asked.

"I am Meryl Henderson," she replied patiently. "You ought to go to bed."

GASOLINE ALLEY—PAGE UNCLE JOHN

LOOK, UNCLE JOHN—A LETTER FOR YOU
FOR ME?
LOOKS TO ME LIKE IT'S FROM EBEN, JOHN.
SEE HERE, HATTIE! IT'S A CHECK FOR $100 ON WHAT EBEN OWES ME. I WROTE AND TOLD HIM WE WEREN'T GETTIN' ON SO WELL.
LAND SAKES WHERE DID YOUR BROTHER EBEN GET $100?
I'VE ALWAYS SAID YOU COULD DEPEND ON EBEN, HATTIE, WE'RE ON EASY STREET!
WELL IT'S ABOUT TIME HE SENT IT. HE'S OWED IT TO YOU FOR THREE YEARS.
I CONGRATULATE YOU, UNCLE JOHN YOU'RE THE WEALTHIEST MAN I KNOW.
TO TELL YOU THE TRUTH WALT, I NEVER EXPECTED TO SEE $100 ALL IN ONE PIECE AGAIN.

Here's a View of Costly Set for Musical

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., March 15.—[Special.]—The last musical which Warners will make for some time, "Gold Diggers of 1933," is consuming a great deal of attention and money.

None of the principals except Ruby Keeler, who sings and dances in one of the main rôles, and Aileen McMahon were on the set when I visited it, but a stage covering the equivalent of a city block seemed overflowing with beautiful girls. They were there to be trained for a difficult chorus effect by Bus Berkeley, who is one of the two directors handling the film, the other being Mervyn Leroy.

Berkeley had 13 girls carrying golden violins, bodies browned and bare save for breast plates, metallic looking narrow girdles, and odd and graceful gauze skirts, rehearsing a complicated scene in which each girl stands on a step of a high and eccentrically looped stairway and bends her violin bow in time with soft off stage music.

The girls' gauze skirts stood away out because they were hemmed to strips of metal, and the narrow topmost circle of the skirt fluttered gracefully above the knee while the lowermost rim stood out umbrellalike above the ankle. The girls were taking a lession from a professional musician in how to move their fiddle bows in unison with music. The chorus girls' violins were outlined in Neon lights, and for one number, played in darkness, this effect was very striking. Pat Wing, sister of Toby Wing, one of the beauties developed in Eddie Cantor's recent film choruses, was one arresting looking girl. Most of them seemed 18 or 19 years old, and besides the 13 with gold fiddles several score similar beauties were waiting, most of them clad in slacks, for a signal to trip into their other dancing and ensemble acts.

Besides Miss Keeler, Dick Cromwell and Ginger Rogers are featured in the musical and dance sequences, while the players who carry most of the dramatic sequences include Warren William, Joan Blondell, Miss McMahon, and Guy Kibbee.

The floor of the set is jet and shining black, and the mop boys, who have to keep all scratches and bits of débris from dimming its glittering reflections, wear pads of cloth and regular mops instead of shoes as they skate around.

Jack Montgomery, father of Baby Peggy Montgomery, now 14, sets the estimate of half a million dollars on the girl actress' career in a suit for damages which he has filed here against Norman Sper, promoter of independent films, and Sper's associates. He claims a contract for nine short reel features was not carried out.

"The Tough Guy," a dramatic comedy which starts in Chicago's stock yards and ends in Lake Shore drive drawing rooms, is the setting for Jimmy Dunn in a next film at Fox.

Fox studio was the only one of those which closed production last week, which didn't resume shooting yesterday, and it is announced that Fox will start cameras grinding again next Monday.

Spain Appoints Council to Rule Film Industry

MADRID, March 15.—(AP)—The Official Gazette today published a government order creating a council of cinematography which, under the supervision of the ministry of agriculture and commerce, will handle all matters concerning the making and distribution of motion pictures, including stimulation of the Spanish industry and regulation of imported films.

MINUTE MYSTERY CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

BY H. A. RIDLEY

[Copyright; 1933; By The Chicago Tribune.]

FORDNEY CLIMBS TO A CLEW.

At 2:30 a. m., Bernard Wilson, failing to get a response from his brother's bedroom and finding the door locked had called the police. Unable to force it, Prof. Fordney was first to ascend the hastily secured ladder. Groping his way through the darkness of Gus Wilson's room he turned on the lights and saw a man slumped over a desk. Inspector Kelley pulling his bulk over the window sill asked, "What have we got here, Joe?"

"Poison case," returned Fordney "He's been dead about an hour."

"Humph," snorted Kelley as he bent forward to read the paper under the dead man's hand.

"Wasn't leaving any doubt about his death," continued the inspector. "He relates here all the effects of the poison! The first part of the message is written on the lines, clearly and distinctly. Doesn't begin to run off until towards the end."

Fordney took a hasty glance over his friend's shoulder and rushed down the steps. Kelley next heard his voice below the window.

"What in blazes are you doing down there?" he bellowed.

"Looking for another set of ladder impressions!"

"In heaven's name why? You don't think he climbed in his room to commit suicide, do you?"

"He was murdered!" faintly reached Kelley as the professor hastily rounded the house.

WHAT HAD KELLEY OVERLOOKED?

apartment, for she and Mr. Ketting hope to have a "pied a terre" of their own early this spring.

At present they are in the house of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Farwell, on Ritchie court. The Farwells are spending the winter in Charleston, as is their custom, and they will not be at home until the end of April. Mrs. Ketting has visited them there since she and Mr. Ketting returned from England, and she says it is particularly lovely there now, with the azaleas in full bloom and the magnolias beginning to blossom.

Mrs. William McCormick Blair and Mrs. Louise de Koven Phelps will return about April 1 from a visit with their mother, Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen, in Phoenix. Miss Jane Addams and Miss Mary Rozet Smith also are the guests of Mrs. Bowen in the Arizona city, where Mrs. Bowen has a cottage on the grounds in the Biltmore for the winter. Mrs. Bowen will be back at home around the same time as her daughters are.

The Oren E. Tafts, who have been in Phoenix for six or eight weeks, are expected back the last of this week.

Mrs. Robert H. Ripley has returned from Pinehurst, N. C., to spend a few days in her Indian Hill home. She will leave Monday to go back to Pinehurst, where she has rented a cottage, to remain until June. Wilder Ripley, her son, who is studying at Duke university, will spend the Easter vacation with his mother. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Baker [Beatrice Ripley], who have been living in Mrs. Ripley's house, have taken the cottage on its grounds for their home for the spring and summer.

Mrs. James F. Porter is back in her Winnetka home after a visit in Washington, D. C., with her daughter, Mrs. Michael Straus.

On her way to take up housekeeping in Rye, N. Y., Mrs. Albert Carleton Simmons [Mary Harding] stopped off to visit her parents, the Victor M. Hardings, in Hubbard Woods. The Simmonses have been living in Houston, Tex., for the last four months. Mrs. Simmons will leave the end of this week or the first of next week to join her husband in New York.

More Interesting Travel News.

Travel addenda: Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne and her cousins, Otto and William Madlener, have gone to Florida to enjoy the sunshine until April 1. . . . The Albert A. Spragues have returned from an extended stay in Charleston. . . . Mrs. John D. C. Towne is leaving a week from Sunday for New York after a two months' visit in Chicago. . . . Mrs. Donald R. Wegg has returned from a visit with her son-in-law and daughter, the Samuel Frothinghams, in Bedford Hills, N. Y. The former Mary Wegg and her husband will motor to Chicago around the first of June, sans children, to spend their vacation with the Weggs. Talbot Wegg, who has been deep sea fishing off the coast of Florida, will arrive home Sunday.

Mrs. J. Russell Forgan and her daughter, Florence, who has recovered from the chicken pox, are leaving tomorrow or the next day to visit Mrs. Forgan's mother, Mrs. Jackson Johnson of St. Louis, at her winter place at Daytona Beach. The other two Forgan children already are there. The Forgans will return to Chicago in three weeks.

Mrs. Roswell B. Mason and Mrs. William Elliott will return the end of this week from a brief vacation in Gulfport, Miss. . . . Mrs. Dexter Fairbank will arrive at home around the first of April from Washington, where she went for the inauguration. . . . The Cornelius B. Watsons of Winnetka, who are just home from a fortnight's vacation in Florida, expect their daughter, Chloe, to arrive for her spring vacation from Smith about April 22.

At the Woman's Athletic club this morning at 11 o'clock Miss Alice Van Leer Carrick will give an illustrated lecture on "Shades of Our Ancestors."

Mrs. Allan C. Howes and Mrs. I. C. Elston, assisted by Mrs. Katherine Knowles Robbins, Miss Ellen Truax, and Miss Elizabeth Hoffman, will be hostesses this afternoon at the causerie of the Alliance Française. Mme. Rachel Descoubes will finish reading "Le Chenineau."

Saturday at noon, in the rooms of the Alliance Française, Roger Cros, professor at Northwestern university, will lecture on "L'Anglomanie en France."

AVOID UGLY PIMPLES

Does a pimply face embarrass you? Get a package of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights, if you are like thousands of others.

Help cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

Thousands who take Olive Tablets are never cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition, pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound; known by their olive color. Dr. Edwards spent years among patients, afflicted with liver and bowel complaints, and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take nightly for a week. See how much better you look and look. 15c, 30c, 60c.

Shirred Puffed Sleeves Are New Spring Note on Dress That Buttons in Front

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

Shirred puffed sleeves are used in this smart little dress, which, for all its smartness, is simply cut. Tucks fit the dress in at the waistline, and the buttoning at the front makes putting on and taking it off a joy. Hyacinth blue crinkled crêpe, carrot-red, spring green, gray, or mustard color might be effectively used.

The pattern, No. 3401, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 36 and 38 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 2¾ yards of 35 inch material with ⅞ yard of 39 inch contrasting.

THE STAGE

The Abbey theater company of Dublin, now in its third week at the Harris theater, will extend its engagement for another week and possibly longer. The Sunday night performance will be omitted in order to give the players a rest. A new play, Sean O'Casey's "The Shadow of a Gunman," is announced for next Monday night.

The repertory for next week will be as follows:

Monday night—"The Shadow of a Gunman," by Sean O'Casey, preceded by Lady Gregory's "Spreading the News."

Tuesday night—"The Playboy of the Western World," by J. M. Synge, preceded by Lady Gregory's "The Workhouse Ward."

Wednesday matinée—"The Far-Off Hills," by Lennox Robinson.

Wednesday night—"Juno and the Paycock," by Sean O'Casey.

Thursday night—"The New Gossoon," by George Shiels.

Friday night—Repetition of "The Playboy of the Western World," preceded by W. B. Yeats' "Cathleen ni Houlihan."

Saturday matinée—"The Whiteheaded Boy," by Lennox Robinson.

Saturday night—Repetition of "The New Gossoon."

"The Red Robin," the musical show recently staged at the Grand Opera house by J. J. Shubert, will end its engagement next Saturday night. The company will return to New York and disband. Mr. Shubert's plans for other spring productions in Chicago have been postponed.

Elmer Rice's latest play, "We, the People," recently acted in New York, will be produced by the little theater organization of the Jewish People's institute late in April. The early performances will be given in the Goodman theater; then the company will move to its own theater at 3500 Douglas boulevard. Charles Freeman, director of this group, seeks to enlist professionals or talented amateurs in his cast, which requires the services of fifty people.

The Garrick theater will reopen tomorrow afternoon with a program of continuous entertainment in which the first showing of a "giant television" device will be featured. Henry Santrey's band will provide the musical background of the show, and the leader will also serve as master of ceremonies for the vaudeville acts. Announced as probable contributors to the television demonstrations are Wini Shaw, Texas Guinan, Tom, Dick and Harry, Myrt and Marge, Jack Dempsey, and Fifi d'Orsay.

Mae West will be the feature of the new program of stage entertainment at the Chicago theater, beginning tomorrow afternoon. She will sing a few songs and appear in a playlet written by herself.

"The Family Upstairs," at the Cort theater, has canceled its announcement of a St. Patrick's day matinée to permit its players to attend the special performance of the Abbey company ["The Far-Off Hills"] that afternoon. Tonight the visitors from Dublin will add a new item to their Chicago repertory—Synge's "The Shadow of the Glen," which will precede "The Playboy of the Western World." C. C.

Follow Simple Rules to Gain Peppy Carriage of Army Men

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

West Point cadets, whose posture, carriage, fine physical fitness, is the inspiration of this exercise series, are told that the shoulder blades are like two barn doors. Sometimes the doors need new springs, new hinges. They get rusty or they're left swinging half open. Wide open, it would seem, in some cases. Closing these barn doors becomes part of the physical seasoning at the well known military academy.

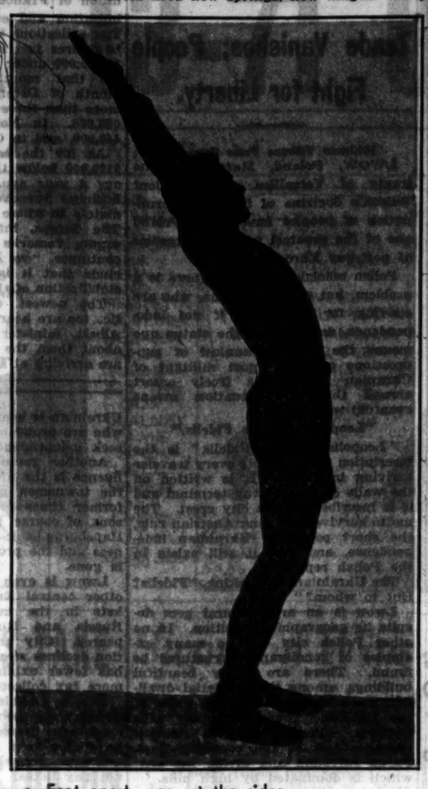
We'd better take a look and see how our own barn doors are behaving. If they couldn't stand a new spring or two; if they flap or hang by a rusty hinge. Here's where a lot of our poor posture begins. The trick is not to force the doors shut. Contrary to a possible suspicion, ramrod stiffness is not tolerated in this army school. On the contrary, all physical training is directed toward suppleness and coordination, ease of muscle.

And, contrary to an oft expressed suspicion that these handsome young specimens of manhood at West Point wear corsets, nothing could be further from the truth. That enviable waistline of theirs is lean, hard muscle, and the long streamline from hip to shoulder nothing but the cadet's reward for faithful observance of physical training rules.

But I wanted today to give you a tip, a simple, simple trick that will make a great difference in your "barn doors." Maj. Rayner tells me that some of the schools abroad make the men walk this way to straighten their shoulders. While we haven't got to the shoulder corrective work yet, you might be performing this little trick right now, along with your stretching exercises:

Simply stand up, or while you're walking, turn the palms of your hands face out. The movement will turn the arms and bring arms and hands back a little. Don't force the shoulders at all. Do this in front of a mirror [profile view] and see how the "doors" click shut.

Now for today's exercise. Note the slightly bent knee and the STRETCHING instruction.



a. Feet apart, arms at the sides.
b. Raise the arms to the front horizontally.
c. Raise the arms through vertical to rearward position, bending the knees slightly, stretching the front leg, abdominal, chest and arm muscles.
d. Recover starting position slowly, stretching throughout.

Group to Give Play.

St. Gabriel's Dramatic club will present "A Full House," a comedy in three acts, at the parish auditorium, 45th and Wallace streets, tomorrow, Saturday, and Sunday evenings. In addition to the play there will be several specialties each evening.

Common Sense Avoids Trouble at Mealtimes

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Did you ever go upstairs in the dark and raise one foot up high to clear the next step—only to find there wasn't any? Do you remember the funny feeling it gave you to make the effort, which proved so unnecessary.

Sometimes I think parents go through some such process about the formation of children's habits. Take this matter of eating habits. Mothers get all wrought up—and so do children, in a different way—over something they think requires great effort, over something they look upon as an obstacle. If they would take it in an easier, more normal way I'm sure it would be more like walking than like climbing stairs.

One young mother was asked why she had been so successful with her little boy's eating habits.

"I guess I didn't know they might become a problem," she said. "I just mulled along, built him a low table and chair myself, gave him as delicious food as I knew how to prepare, acted about his meals as we did about our own, and he just ate.

"If he disliked something I avoided serving it unless I thought his body needed it. And then I'd try it every now and then and ask him to take just one mouthful. I'd prepare it in different ways, too. It took years to get him to really like eggs, for instance."

"Didn't you expect him always to eat everything on his plate and drink every drop of milk?" some one asked.

"No, of course not," came the surprised answer. "Do you always feel like eating and drinking all of everything that's served to you? I suppose what I did was to apply a sort of grownup psychology to him. And I never used his dessert as a reward or punishment, either. I think that's silly."

I do, too. In fact, what I think would keep a lot of mothers out of meal time troubles would be to start with a simpler feeling about it all.

Doris Tells Girl, Aged 17, to Mind Parent

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Connie" met a boy at a party and liked him. Her first experience with the opposite sex, she tells. They set a date then and there. Made another, and another. Suddenly mother discovered her "Connie" was running around with the boy instead of spending the evenings with one of her girl friends, as "Connie" allbied her absences.

Mother gave her 17 year old a good scolding. Told her she was too young to keep company with boys. "Connie" doesn't think it fair. Mother has no heart. Mother is old fashioned, behind the times. Mother is just all wrong, according to the willful young girl.

We think what "Connie" needs is just the old fashioned parent she reports having. One who'll let her understand that a mother's duty is to see that her daughter isn't running around nights with a boy she, the mother, knows nothing about.

Some of you young girls who complain of parental tyranny talk and act as if you hadn't a brain in your heads. Why shouldn't mother resent your sneaking out nights, lying about where and with whom you spend your time? And why shouldn't she clamp down on you with treatment due a young rebel?

Don't you think that it grieves that female parent of yours sorely to be put in the position of having to tyrannize over you, when she would infinitely prefer to be your friend and confidante?

The easiest way to keep a toilet clean

EASY? It's almost like magic! No scrubbing or scouring. No smelly disinfectants. Sani-Flush keeps the toilet as bright and pure as a china plate. Sani-Flush cleans the hidden trap that no brush can reach.

Sprinkle a little of this powder in the toilet bowl (follow directions on can)—then flush. Streaks and stains vanish. Odors go. Germs are killed. The porcelain glistens as never before! And Sani-Flush can't harm plumbing.

M'DONALD TO SEE DUCE; SEEK 'NEW DEAL' IN EUROPE

Hitler May Also Attend Parley in Rome.

ROME, March 15.—(AP)—Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain and Sir John Simon, his foreign secretary, will meet Premier Mussolini in Rome Saturday to discuss means of salvaging the disarmament conference. This was officially announced tonight.

A statement issued at the foreign office said the British statesmen were coming at the express invitation of Premier Mussolini. They are to leave Geneva, where they are at present, Friday night. Their stay in Rome is expected to be limited to the week-end. One conference will be held on Saturday and perhaps another on Sunday.

The official statement merely said that the presence of the British statesmen in Geneva suggested to Premier Mussolini an opportunity for a meeting before their return to England.

Seek Quick Disarmament.

The communique did not enter into any detail of the subject of the conversations, but it is expected Premier Mussolini, in line with his insistent policy, will urge combined backing for a demand for quick and effective disarmament or at least a prolonged truce.

During a discussion of the military budget in the chamber of deputies today a parliamentary broadside was delivered against the alleged "mad arming" of Jugo-Slavia and Rumania.

Deputies charged that France and Czechoslovakia are aiding in this "aggressive preparation," which not only is a threat to the disarmament conference, they said, but also to the peace of Europe.

Others May Attend.

Before the official communique was issued it was reported that the meeting of the statesmen this week-end would be secret, with MacDonald, Premier Mussolini, Premier Daladier of France, and possibly Chancellor Hitler of Germany attending.

France has agreed to be present, it was reported, but she desires to have the little entente, composed of Czechoslovakia, Jugo-Slavia, and Rumania, represented. Italy objects to this as enlarging the circle too much.

This would be the first time Premier Mussolini had taken part in an international conference since the Locarno pact was negotiated in 1925.

Presents New Arms Plan Today.

GENEVA, March 15.—(AP)—Prime Minister MacDonald at a public meeting of the general commission of the world disarmament conference tomorrow will present a new British scheme to save the parley from failure.

After private conversations for five days with the leading delegations Mr. MacDonald has evolved the draft of a convention which he will offer as the basis for agreement on reduction in armaments.

Advance reports indicate the convention will seek French support by a concerted declaration denouncing resort to force, and will bid for German endorsement by advocating that Germany be permitted to have some of the weapons now forbidden her. These two ideas were found in the British plan advanced last autumn.

In addition to this effort to conciliate the Franco-German differences, MacDonald's project will incorporate measures for both qualitative and quantitative disarmament involving tanks, heavy mobile land guns, gas, and military aircraft. There also will be provision for international supervision of disarmament.

Daladier Rushes to Geneva.

PARIS, March 15.—(AP)—Premier Daladier will see Prime Minister MacDonald before the latter presents his new disarmament plan at Geneva tomorrow.

Daladier, after several talks with the British ambassador, Lord Tyrrell, and a consultation with Foreign Minister Paul-Boncour, took the train tonight for Geneva.

His trip stirred much interest in view of Mr. MacDonald's intention to see Premier Mussolini this week-end.

Hitler May Go to Rome.

BERLIN, March 15.—(AP)—Official quarters refused tonight to confirm or deny reports that Chancellor Hitler would participate in Premier Mussolini's conference with Prime Minister MacDonald this week-end.

"Anything might happen," a government spokesman said. "We are no prophets."

274 PERUVIAN REBELS MAY BE EXECUTED

LIMA, Peru, March 15.—(AP)—Fourteen officers and 260 soldiers, who were captured after yesterday's battle ending the revolution in the north, climaxed by the suicide of former provisional President Gustavo Jiminez, went on trial today.

They are liable to execution under the military code. Under the latest legislation passed by congress they may be found guilty of high treason.

Interior Minister Cabello said the revolt served to show President Sanchez Cerro's political strength. He said the leftist elements led by Col. Jiminez, who was defeated for the presidency by Sanchez Cerro last year, "pursued no other aim than their own ambition, disregarding Peru's international situation at the present moment."

JAPAN READY TO QUIT THE LEAGUE; NOTE REVEALED

Says Geneva Fails to Recognize Facts.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, March 16.—[Thursday.]—Japan will send a formal notice of its withdrawal from the league of nations to Geneva about March 24. The substance of the notice, it is understood, will read as follows:

"There is no fundamental divergence between the objects the league is seeking to attain (in Manchuria) and those which Japan is trying to obtain. The league aims to contribute to world peace. Japan's object is to stabilize conditions in the far east so as to insure peace and tranquillity in this region and thus also contribute to world peace.

Recalls Long Membership.

"For thirteen years Japan has been a zealous supporter of the noble ideals for which the league has stood and she has been behind none in upholding these ideals. Japan, however, has held the view that if the ideals of the league are to be crowned with realization then, the stern realities of different cases, rather than theoretical interpretations, must be unflinchingly faced.

"Since the Sino-Japanese dispute Japan has taken every possible opportunity to point this out to the league and has done its level best to acquaint the league of the actual situation in the far east. It is particularly pointed out that China is not a state in the accepted sense and the complexity which marks her international relations, together with the chaos that prevails there, prevents the usages of international law from being applied as they would be were China a unified state with a central authority that commands allegiance and obedience of its provinces.

Gives Notice of Withdrawal.

"Unfortunately the league has been unable to grasp this fundamental truth and the last seventeen months have shown us that either the league powers cannot see the actualities of the situation or do not want to.

"Believing that no further room exists for worth-while cooperation, the Japanese government hereby signifies its withdrawal in accordance with article one, paragraph three (of the league covenant)."

Article one, paragraph three, provides:

"Any member of the league may, after two years' notice of its intention so to do, withdraw from the league, provided that all its international obligations and all its obligations under this covenant shall have been fulfilled at the time of its withdrawal."

Fourth Nation to Quit.

Three other nations have withdrawn from the league since its organization. They are Costa Rica, Brazil, and Argentina. Costa Rica withdrew in 1927 because it fell behind in its membership dues. Brazil quit in 1928 as the result of a dispute over permanent seats on the league council. Argentina quit in 1920 because the league refused to grant Germany equal standing.

UKRAINIANS CRY AT TYRANNY OF RULE BY POLAND

Trade Vanishes; People Fight for Liberty.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LWOW, Poland, March 15.—The treaty of Versailles and President Wilson's doctrine of the self-determination of peoples have given Poland one of the greatest political tragedies of post-war Europe.

Polish officials deny that there is a problem, but the Ukrainians, who are striving for autonomy, if not independence, declare that the status quo means the most tyrannical of suppressions and the most militant of Ukranian nationalists freely assert abroad that the situation means eventual war.

"Leopolis Semper Fidelis."

"Leopolis Semper Fidelis" is the inscription which greets every traveler arriving in Lwow. It is written on the walls of the railway terminal and it is inscribed on the city crest. The motto survived the long Austrian rule, the short period of Ukrainian independence, and now it still exists in the Polish republic.

The Ukrainians are asking, "Fidelis? But to whom?"

Lwow is an architectural gem despite its geographical position. In no other Polish city can so many examples of renaissance structures be found. There are many beautiful buildings, among them palatial dwellings modeled after the best style of the Italians. There are many wide avenues, alternating with narrow passages full of the romantic past. Parks surround and divide the city, which is dominated by high hills.

Hotels Are Empty.

The hotels of the city are empty. There are no visitors. The days are gone when a substantial bribe in dollars was required to obtain a room from reception clerks, who ruled their domains like small monarchs.

But the streets are full of people, a cosmopolitan crowd of Poles intermingled with minorities of other stock. The prevailing language is German. It seems to be the fashion to speak German in the parts of Poland formerly held by Germany and Austria, just as Russian is spoken in Vilna.

Strangely, however, in this hotbed of Ukrainain nationalism very little Ukrainian is heard, even among those who are proud of their race and who seek independence from Poland.

Another remnant of Austrian influence is the life in the cafés. There the townsmen gather and dream of former times—not for patriotic reasons, of course, for nobody wants the Hapsburgs back. But business is business and the prosperity of the region is gone.

Lwow is even harder hit than the other central European cities. Markets in the neighboring countries, Russia and Rumania, have disappeared. City and country consumption declines steadily. The Lwow fair has fewer exhibitors each year and more tax collectors.

Despite all this the people of Lwow do not seem downhearted. They have seen better times, of course, but they have also seen worse. So they live and hope, from habit. But hope does not pay taxes.

TAX REVENUES JUMP IN FRANCE; FORESEE END OF DEPRESSION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 15.—After ebbing its lowest last October, the economic condition of France shows signs of stabilization and even of improvement. Tax collections in January, according to figures just made public, fell only $5,440,000 under the budget provisions for that month. In the previous month of December the deficit was more than three times as great, $18,080,000. In November it was $23,440,000, and in October, $32,320,000.

As for the sales tax, it fell only $120,000 below the proceeds in January a year ago, indicating that the business turnover is back approximately to where it was early in 1932. The Temps, influential conservative organ, remarks that if that trend continues, "we have a right to conclude that it is a tendency toward stabilization of the crisis."

The newest unemployment statistic, too are heartening. M. Francois-Albert, minister of labor, remarked about them the other day that "we are arriving at a stabilized situation."

Pope Pius Affirms Belief U. S. Will Conquer Crisis

ROME, March 15.—(AP)—Pope Pius expressed to Father John J. Burke of Washington, D. C., general secretary of the National Catholic Welfare council, his belief that the "United States will very shortly and in a most capable way weather the financial emergency." The pope said he is "appreciative of the religious liberty characterizing the United States whereby the church is able to work in complete freedom to give its contribution to the upbuilding of the nation."

BRITAIN DEMANDS RUSSIA EXPLAIN RAID ON COMPANY

Affair May Lead to Break in Diplomatic Ties.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 15.—A serious view is taken by the British government of the arrest of six British subjects in Moscow on sabotage charges in connection with Russian electrical works, and it is quite possible that the affair may lead to a severance of diplomatic relations.

Allan Monkhouse, director; Charles Nordwell, an associate, and four other British subjects and 34 foreign employés of Metropolitan-Vickers, Ltd., have been taken into custody. Metropolitan-Vickers is a subsidiary of the huge British Associated Electrical Industries.

Envoy Ordered to Protest.

Stanley Baldwin, acting prime minister and foreign secretary, in the house of commons today announced that Sir Esmond Ovey, British ambassador to Moscow, had made the most urgent representations to the commissar of foreign affairs, inquiring what charges have been preferred against the men and what facilities provided for their defense. So far he has received no satisfactory answer, Baldwin said.

Therefore Sir Esmond has been instructed to press Foreign Commissar Litvinov for full and immediate information and, "in view of the absurdity of the charge of sabotage," to represent in strong terms the grave view of the British government on such a proceeding against British subjects of high standing and engaged in normal work for the benefit of both countries.

The ambassador is to point out the unfortunate consequences to Anglo-Soviet relations which might follow.

Similar language is to be used, Baldwin said, to I. M. Miasky, Russian ambassador to London, who was unable to call at the foreign office today.

Order Severe Punishment.

MOSCOW, March 15.—(AP)—The government today published a decree directing the secret police to deal with "special severity" with employés of state institutions guilty of subversive activities. Extraordinary powers under a ten year old law were invoked, including sentence and execution without public trial.

You'll do it better on Dated Coffee

Coffee is a recognized stimulant. You get out of it new strength, gay spirits, keener zest. But avoid stale coffee.

THE people who do things often seem to be the greatest coffee drinkers. They play a stronger game in sports, have greater endurance for their work.

They use coffee freely as a stimulant. Yes. But some folks whisper, not everybody can benefit by it. Coffee makes us nervous. Keeps us awake at night. Gives us indigestion.

Science was interested. Why this difference?

Then research workers carefully analyzed coffee. This is their answer to the whole problem.

Fresh coffee is perfectly safe to drink and enjoy, up to 5 cups a day, if you are a normal, healthy grown-up. But stale coffee contains a rancid oil, nearly half a cup to a pound. And if you are drinking stale coffee regularly, you are very likely to get indigestion, nerves, insomnia.

Because it is so important that your coffee should be fresh, Chase & Sanborn instituted Dated Coffee.

It's the only way you can be sure of getting fresh coffee, these days when coffee roasting is not done in the home.

Chase & Sanborn's Dated Coffee has an expiration date clearly printed on every pound. No can is allowed to stay on your grocer's shelf after its date has expired. You're bound to get rich, full-flavored, delicious fresh coffee when you insist on Chase & Sanborn's.

GOLDEN GLOVES FIGHTERS BEGIN ACTUAL SOCKING

Light Ring Drill for New York Bouts.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Those of the Chicago intercity Golden Gloves squad who have recovered from their final bouts last week donned the big gloves yesterday afternoon at the Illinois Athletic club and went to work in preparation for the invasion of the New York boys March 29 at the Stadium. Seven were excused from boxing by Coach Johnny Behr.

The casualty list, while large, is not serious. There is no doubt whatsoever that all the boys will be able to fight against New York if called upon. It is advisable to start slowly with those of the team who need a few days' rest or who have minor injuries.

Cuts Stop Caserio, Van Der Heyden.

Freddie Caserio, middleweight, and George Van Der Heyden, featherweight from South Bend, Ind., probably will do no boxing until next week. Each has a bad cut over the eye, and these injuries must be permitted to heal before the boys start boxing. An old campaigner like Caserio will need only a few days' boxing to sharpen his sense of distance. These boys, of course, are working out in the gymnasium each afternoon and doing the customary road work in the morning.

Henry Rothier, the welterweight champion, has a prize boil over his right temple which will keep him from active work for several days. Rothier now is nine pounds overweight, but he sheds extra fat like water. Last summer when Rothier was drilling for his international fight against the German champion he reported at Lake Wawasee 17 pounds over the lightweight limit, and although handicapped by a mild attack of flu came back to weigh in at 133½ pounds and in the best of physical condition.

Kranz Checks In.

Jack Smith, Peoria bantamweight, is about to lose a portion of a fingernail. He also was on the list of inactives yesterday. Jack Kranz, heavyweight runner-up from Gary, Ind., checked in yesterday at the I. A. C. and he was given a day of rest from boxing, although he began gymnasium drills. Bud Ginter and Leo Rodak complained of being stale and tired. Both are veterans of intercity competition, and there is no need to hurry either into their training togs.

Who will be the light heavyweight runnerup against New York is the most pressing problem for the Chicago coaches. Vernon Miller of Davenport, who lost in the finals to Max Marek after beating Marek last year for the same title, has joined the professional ranks. Harvey Diesch of Milwaukee has not reported and consequently at least one new boy will be named to the intercity squad.

Dobler Train-Weary.

Johnny Dobler of Cleveland, runnerup in the 135 pound class, who won the Cleveland championship Tuesday night, will be here tomorrow or Saturday. Johnny needs a few days rest after his series of trips between Cleveland and Chicago.

Yesterday's boxing schedule at the I. A. C. was as follows:

Johnny Blatzer vs. Walter Matthys [1]; Baitzer vs. Lennie Cohen [1]; Cohen vs. Matthys [1]; Dick Baker vs. Irving Goldstein [2]; Keith Graves vs. Eddie Ward [2]; Billy Celebron vs. King Wyatt [2]; Bill Treest vs. Adolph Walter [1]; Treest vs. John Pacek [1]; Wiater vs. Pacek [1].

BETTING HANDLE UP TWO MILLION AT HIALEAH PARK

Miami, Fla., March 15.—[Special.]—Pari-mutuel bets totaling $8,038,643 were made at Hialeah park during the 45 day race meeting just ended, track officials announced today. Last year $6,242,685 worth of betting was done during a 39 day season. Attendance was 196,353 this year. Last season it was 91,988.

Out of this year's receipts the state of Florida collected $241,159 in taxes on wagers, $50,758 in taxes on admissions, and $16,614 in occupational taxes levied against track employés.

The money is distributed among the counties, which may use it in any way seen fit.

AH, NEW RACKET! NEW YORK EYES AMATEUR BOXING

Commission Seeking to Get Control.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 15.—The proposal to extend the authority of the New York prize fight commission to amateur boxing, including intercollegiate shows for which admission is charged, is a progressive step which will receive the indorsement of all right minded sportsmen.

Under commission control the young amateur fighters will be enabled to extend their acquaintance to include many of the better known wholesale bootleggers and divekeepers, always conspicuous in the professional game, and the amateur sport will enjoy the benefit of the wise, wholesome Tammany influence which has contributed so much to the advancement of professional fighting in the last dozen years.

A Share for Everybody.

Various district leaders will soon be cut in for hunks of the West Point, Penn and other varsity teams, and it will not be long before the innocent and rather dumb college fighters, who know nothing about fighting but to go on in and fight, begin to master the subtle arts of the dry splash, the alibi and the run out.

It will be an uplifting thing for the college game also to enjoy contacts with the not-quite-bright, ne'er-do-well brothers, cousins, and police court friends of the Tammany statesmen who will receive appointments as official physicians, inspectors, and bottleholders.

That Old College Influence.

The only danger that I can see is that the college influence might be strong enough to contaminate the professional racket. In that case there might come a time when a heavyweight champion of the world, carried away by the vicious varsity spirit, would offer to fight all of his challengers on successive nights in the cellar of a fraternity house on an amateur basis.

This would be a great scandal and such a champion's license would be taken up instantly, of course. Then the champion himself undoubtedly would be committed to an institution for the feeble-minded by decree of the prize fight commission, which enjoys very wide powers.

But the very suggestion is enough to make the professional racket pause and wonder whether the benefit to amateur boxing would be worth the risk to the professional business. The possibility is only a very remote one, however, and I hope that my mentioning it will not cause any hitch in the plan.

Why Not Abolish Commission?

Reactionary elements in the legislature and in amateur boxing will be certain to oppose the proposition for selfish reasons, and some of them might even go so far as to argue that the prize fight commission, with its record of fakes, fouls, and political persecutions, ought to be abolished. A few college people might demand to see the list of those who hold various kinds of licenses from the prize fight

A CHAMPION AT WORK

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mr. Pacek Is Mighty Atom of Golden Gloves Heavies

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Johnny Pacek is a little fellow as heavyweight boxers go, but he bowls over the big boys just as though he were one of them. On the final night of fighting in the Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions, he entered the Stadium ring for his semi-final bout weighing 176 pounds and he emerged after his final encounter a couple of hours later weighing 174 pounds. Technically speaking, he had slipped out of the heavyweight class in the course of the evening. However, his reducing exercises were sufficiently violent to overthrow the two bona fide big boys who opposed him and to win him a championship.

JOHN PACEK.

No matter how heavy is the New York opponent who will face him in the intercity bouts March 29, Johnny will step into the Stadium ring thoroughly confident of his ability to cope with the situation. For in the course of the Golden Gloves tournament, he was always outweighed, yet he always emerged victorious. His first opponent in the south side sectional fights was 6 feet 4 inches in height and weighed 212 pounds. But, undismayed, Johnny floored him three times and won a decision. In the Tournament of Champions he scored one knockout and two decisions.

Johnny Has Speed.

Johnny makes up for his lack of weight by his speed, power and ranginess. He is 5 feet 11 inches in height, long armed and quick on his feet. Inasmuch as he is only 18 years old, he has plenty of time to fill out and put on enough weight to add still more power to his punches.

Johnny's boxing career began auspiciously a little less than two years ago when he won the Lindblom High school championship. Previous to that time he had done most of his boxing against his older brothers. Max Marek, who is the 175 pound champion of this year's Golden Gloves team, acted as Johnny's second during the Lindblom tournament. It was Max who suggested that Johnny continue boxing. So the two boys trained together for several months, going through most of their workouts in St. Rita's High school gymnasium.

He Loses No. 13.

A little less than a year ago Johnny began appearing on amateur fight programs in various parts of the city and, with one exception, he was always successful. The only failure occurred in his 13th bout, when he lost a decision to George Johnston. He has won 36 fights, 10 of them by knockouts. In the Illinois Athletic club's tournament held last January he won the light heavyweight championship. The first heavyweight fighting of his career was done in the Golden Gloves tournament.

In addition to boxing there are only two sports in which Johnny is interested—running and fishing. He does his running at Lindblom High school, having been a member of the team which won the City league cross-country championship in 1930. His fishing he does in Pistakee bay and in the Fox river, which flows by his father's farm at Johnsburg, Ill.

No Letup on Studies.

It is to Johnsburg that Johnny goes every time he gets a few days off from school. His father and mother have lived there for the last eight years, and there is where Johnny has most of his good times. Nearly every morning of the summer he is up at dawn to go fishing with his friends before starting on his round of daily tasks.

These tasks consist of selling the products of his father's 20 acre farm to the summer resort people of the northern Illinois lake district. Johnny has many regular customers to whom he delivers chickens, ducks, and fresh vegetables.

When in Chicago he lives at the home of his sister, Mrs. Wallace Stephany, 1362 North Lincoln street. He doesn't permit his Golden Gloves training to interfere with his school work, for every morning he is up at 6 o'clock—long before his teammates at the Illinois Athletic club are stirring. He is in school from 8 to 2 and then hustles back to the club for a workout in preparation for the New York opponent who will meet him March 29.

Leader—Debaets.

BY FRENCH LANE.

After much exciting jamming, a near fist fight, and four spills the Red Devils, Letourner and Debaets, romped into the lead in the bicycle race at the Stadium early this morning.

Five teams took part in the jam. It was the most thrilling stage of the race. The Red Devils took the track and did everything but fly around the pine saucer to pick up the lap which broke a five way deadlock.

The caravan had completed 1,100 miles on the six day journey to nowhere. Yet there was no evidence nor familiar landmarks to indicate that the boys were nearing Peach Tree street in Atlanta, the rodeo grounds on the outskirts of Cheyenne, or Montreal.

Sleep Holiday Is On.

They should have been getting into one of those places, so 6,500 spectators, almost lost in the big arena, observed another night of the sleep holiday and awaited with much anxiety for a place where they could drop off and walk the bicycles out of their legs.

There were a few cheaters in the big gathering, and when the tide of the battle reached low ebb every now and then some folks could be observed with their eyes closed snatching 20 winks. At quite frequent intervals a chorus of good old fashioned snores went up to drown out the strains of "A Bicycle Built for Two" which the giant pipe organ was pealing out.

Cheers Are All Bronx.

A slender brunette in a gray dress almost sang her heart out through the loud speaker in the infield. The song was "How Deep Is the Ocean?" The riders were loafing a bit. But the crowd wasn't. The brunette got a rousing bronx cheer for her efforts. Then a deep bass recruited from Halsted street by the old New York bantamweight, Jack Sharkey, sang or tried to sing "Asleep in the Deep." "Boo!" shrieked the spectators.

A man wandering aimlessly around in the infield fell back and cracked his head on the concrete floor. Frantic appeals went out for a doctor.

It might have been old or new six day bike race color. Anyway the color was all there, and a business man who lives in Lake Forest and another who resides in Beverly Hills mopped their brows with their carefully initialed silk handgerchiefs and decided they would stay on until somebody chased them out of the arena.

Rodak and Peden Second.

Behind the Red Devils, just a lap back in second place, was the Chicago-Canadian team of Rodak and Peden.

The near fist fight came when Letourner and Schaller tumbled down the west bank of the pine saucer. Letourner called Schaller a name of some sort or another. Schaller wanted to fight, but Harry Mendel, the conductor of the big caravan, rushed between them and not a blow was struck. The spills failed to injure anybody.

Results of the 1 o'clock sprints:

1. J. Walthour, Peden, Dempsey, Andy.

Swanson Wins Base-Running Title; Defeats Stan Hack

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 15.—Evar Swanson, the ex-Lombard college athlete, and now an outfield aspirant with the White Sox, is the champion base runner of the majors, so far as is known. He won the honors prior to today's Cubs-Sox game when he and Stanley Hack, the Cub speedster, engaged in a match for the Joe Brown silver trophy.

EVAR SWANSON.

Swanson dashed around the bases in 14.5 seconds. Hack made the trip in 14.7 seconds.

Hack held the trophy last year.

Pitcher Bud Tinning, the Cubs' leading fat man and one of the mystery invalids, has resorted to Turkish baths to correct whatever ails him. The principal ailment is about 25 pounds of excess weight. The Cub bosses are beginning to lose patience with him.

Al Simmons was greatly pleased when he received a copy of a home town newspaper which contained his own signed story on the earthquake of last Friday night.

"It's a good story," remarked Simmons, "but about all I told the fellow who called me on the long distance phone was that I wanted to shoot him for waking me up at 3 o'clock in the morning."

Señor Harry Neily, now the Cub press agent, has come up with the best earthquake story. Neily was with a friend last Friday evening and a friend of his friend was encountered. They shook hands so violently that they didn't feel the earth shimmy.

Harry Grabiner, vice president of the Sox, will leave for Chicago tomorrow to get things in shape for the opening of the season. William Veeck, the Cub president, who has similar duties, plans to head for home after the team concludes its stay in San Francisco.

Nobody is worrying about it, but there is considerable curiosity in the Sox camp as to why Joe Chamberlin, a rookie infielder, has neglected to report. Inquiry was made at San Francisco, where he lives, but word bounced back that he wasn't there. He returned his signed contract six weeks ago and that's the last heard of him.

The first releases were handed out today by the Cubs. Outfielder Mike Kreevich and Infielder Del Young were turned over to the Albany International league club, under option.

Root and Bush will appear against the Sox tomorrow. Frasier, Gaston, and either Jones or Kimsey will carry the load for the American leaguers.

Mule Haas, formerly of the Athletics, is beginning to think Pat Malone is a long lost cousin. The Mule thumped the big Cub right hander for three hits today. The last time Haas faced Malone he uncorked a home run in the ninth inning of the final 1929 world series game. That's four in a row.

Errors—Gregory, English. Runs batted in—Cuyler, 3; F. Herman, 2; Simmons, 2; Berry, 2; English, 2; Hendricks, Fonseca, 3; Warneke, 2. Two base hits—Haas, Cuyler, Appling, Jurges, Hendricks, Fonseca. Home runs—Cuyler, English. Double plays—Dykes to Hayes to Fonseca. Struck out—By Malone, 5; Gregory, 1; Wilson, 2; Warneke, 5. Bases on balls—Off Malone, 3; Gregory, 1; Kimsey, 1; Warneke, 1. Hits—Off Gregory, 8 in 3 innings; Malone, 8 in 4 innings; Wilson, 6 in 3 innings; Warneke, 5 in 5 innings; Kimsey, 3 in 2 innings. Hit by pitcher—By Malone [Dykes]. Wild pitch—Malone, Kimsey. Passed ball—Berry. Time—2:12. Umpires—Reardon and Snyder.

The Cubs didn't treat Gregory very nice in the latter half of the first inning. W. Herman didn't offer at two strikes, but knocked the next one for a single to center. On the hit and run play, English placed a single to the proper spot in right field and W. Herman set out for third. As Bill passed the shortstop position, Appling body checked him, as the hockey fellows say, and before the runner could right himself Dykes got the ball and tagged him. There was a debate when W. Herman was awarded third on the grounds of interference, but the Sox lost the argument.

When play was resumed Cuyler slashed a double through Fonseca, W. Herman scoring and English stopping at third. Babe Herman singled to right, scoring English and Cuyler, but Stephenson hit into a double play.

Sox Take Lead.

Hayes opened the third with a single to left and Haas delivered a similar smack. The runners moved up on a wild pitch. Simmons singled to center, scoring Hayes and Haas, after which Kress walked and Dykes walked, filling the bases. Berry singled to left, Simmons and Kress scoring and Dykes stopping at third. Berry and Dykes sought to accomplish a double steal, but Dykes was sunk at the plate. This gave the Sox a momentary lead.

The front end of the Cub batting order again assaulted Gregory in the third inning. W. Herman's second single was a liner to right. English's second hit was a homer over the left field wall. W. Herman trotting home with the tying run and Woody following him with the marker that enabled the Cubs to regain a 5 to 4 lead. Cuyler's second hit was a single to center. Hendrick then made up for his first inning strike out by doubling to left, scoring Cuyler. Gink took third on a passed ball and Z. Taylor walked. Jurges dribbled one which seemed an easy play for Gregory, but the big Sox pitcher let it seep through his paws, Hendrick scoring.

Cuyler Busts Homer.

The Sox started the fourth with a rush, but eventually were stopped after scoring one run. Funk batted for Wilson and walked, and the bases were full after English's fumble of Hayes' ground and Haas' infield hit. Fonseca filed to Cuyler, Funk scoring, and the bases again were full after Simmons had dropped a single in front of Stephenson. Kress fouled to Z. Taylor and Cuyler went against the right field screen to pull down Appling's drive.

Cuyler's homer, following English's single, netted the Cubs a pair of runs off Wilson in the fourth; and a single by Hendrick, a double by Jurges, and a single by Warneke were good for two more runs in the fifth.

Kimsey took over the pitching job in the seventh and gave up two more runs. Hendrick's third successive hit, a single; a walk to Z. Taylor, a wild pitch, and two infield outs did the business.

Singles by Kimsey and Hayes, a force play, and a double by Fonseca gave the Sox two runs off Warneke in the eighth. The Sox had the bases full in the ninth, but failed to count.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

TALKING WITH WINNER.

HIALEAH, Fla., March 15.—Following our usual custom of obtaining a statement from Derby winners, The Wake motored back here this morning for a chat with the Chicago owned Charley O, which Saturday placed $10,475 net to the credit of the R. M. Eastman Estate stable, now being raced by Mrs. Eastman.

As we were wandering about trying to locate the Eastman barn we heard a quavering, wheezy whinny of, "Well, if there isn't old man Wake himself. Howdy, neighbor." Looking up we saw venerable Mike Hall, once winner of that $100,000 handicap at Agua Caliente, grinning at us. His foot was shaking a bit as he placed it for us to grasp, but otherwise he did not show his age. Mike has been racing here, but will be shipped back for rest and retirement, because his old legs get "hot" now as he tries to burn up the course.

"Suppose you're looking for the kid instead of me this time," continued Mike, it seemed to us a bit regretfully. "Well, if I can't race any more, another member of the family can. He's a nice boy, too. Perhaps he'll never be as great as I was," and the old fellow muzzled over closer to our ear, "but I'm giving him good advice, telling him to save his money while he's making it, and not to chase around with any wild fillies."

"O, Chuck!" croaked old Mike, and out stepped a handsome black coated fellow, called brown in racing descriptions. His tan perhaps made him look darker than he really is. We thought he acted a bit shame muzzled as he extended his front leg in greeting. "Meet an old friend from THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE," said Mike. "Now have a little visit with him while I take a little canter. You know, Wake, I still keep up my exercise, even if not active any more, because I don't want to accumulate a bay window."

Then Charley O pulled out a pack of cigarets, offered us one, which we declined as we prefer our corncob pipe, and said, "I was stealing a fag when you came and I was afraid Mike would catch it on my breath when he called me. You see, older brothers sometimes are a nuisance, but I know Mike means well."

"I'd like to make good this spring for the sake of Mike and Mrs. Eastman," said Charley O. "Of course, you turf writing chaps say winter racers don't win Derbies, but I intend to place myself with Black Gold among the exceptions. So I'm looking forward to the Kentucky Derby, American Derby at Washington Park, and Arlington Classic.

"Now, Harve—you don't mind my calling you Harve? I've heard of you from Mike for so long—it's less than two months until the Kentucky Derby. That race is only a furlong farther, and did you see me come at the finish yesterday and win by three lengths from the favorite, Jungle King, Mrs. Whitney's colt? Pretty good time, too, with six furlongs in 1:11 3-5, mile in 1:37, and mile and an eighth in 1:49 3-5, just off the track record. I was just romping at the finish.

"Now, I'm ready now and you know my condition. Perhaps Ladysman, present winter book choice, will be ready and perhaps he won't. I'll take him sure, anyway. Nothing personal against him, but I don't like eastern chaps, and, besides, what a sissy name, Ladysman!

Then Mike Hall cantered up and began walking around for his cool out.

We bade our adieus and as we were walking away Charley O called out, "I'll be seeing you in Louisville the morning after the Kentucky Derby and you'll be asking me how I beat those eastern dudes so easily. Then the night after the Arlington Classic in Chicago I'll throw a party for you and French Lane and the other members of the Itwas [Illinois Turf Writers' association] at Charlie's Turf and Field club. Good luck."

BRUINS HAMMER WILSON, KIMSEY, AND GREGORY

Malone, Warneke Stop Hose.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 15.—The Cubs were victors in the first game of Chicago's transplanted city series this afternoon, accomplishing a 13 to 7 triumph over the White Sox. The first third of the game was very interesting.

Manager Charley Grimm of the Cubs remained true to his promise to use his best pitching against the Sox in the two game series, the first all-Chicago spring meeting since 1903. Today he used Malone and Warneke. Pat allowed eight hits and was bearing down during the four innings he worked. Lon allowed six, but was under wraps, seeing as he had a big lead during his entire tenancy.

Cuyler Leads Parade.

Manager Lew Fonseca did not ask his first string pitchers to jeopardize their prestige. Three second stringers got blistered for 17 hits, including homers by Woody English and Kiki Cuyler. Ki had a perfect day with the homer, a double and two singles in four times at bat. Woody hit safely his first three times up. Bill Herman and Gink Hendrick each turned in three hits, Gink's string including a double. Haas led the Sox offensive with three hits in a row off his old cousin, Malone, but Warneke stopped him.

The most greatly ballyhooed performers in the entertainment, Babe Herman and Al Simmons, both made good early in the game. Babe drove in the second and third Cub runs with a single in the first inning and Al drove in the first of the four runs which the Sox made in the third to take the lead. Al made another single in the next inning, but Babe couldn't connect again after his first inning heroics.

Gregory Is First Victim.

TOPPINO BEATS METCALFE IN 60 YARD K. OF C. DASH

Leads Marquette Star by Foot in 6.3 Seconds.

New York, March 15.—(AP)—Emmett Toppino, New Orleans sprinter, staged a comeback tonight, defeating Ralph Metcalfe of Marquette, Negro holder of the National championship in the final of the 60 yard dash in the Knights of Columbus track and field carnival. Toppino won by a foot in 6.3 seconds.

EMMETT TOPPINO.

Al Kelly of Georgetown, who had beaten Toppino in the semi-finals, was third, and Frank Wykoff of Southern California fourth. Wykoff, after being eliminated because of a bad start in the semifinals, was given a place in the final at the request of the other competitors.

Brown Sets Vault Record.

A few moments after Toppino's triumph, Keith Brown of Yale cleared 14 feet 1⅛ inches for a new world indoor record. This surpassed the mark of 14 feet 1 inch, held for several years by another Yale star, Sabin Carr of Dubuque, Ia. Brown's record vault broke a deadlock with his teammate, Wirt Thompson, which had included 14 feet.

In a spectacular finish, Glenn Cunningham of the University of Kansas won the Columbian mile, defeating Gene Venzke of the University of Pennsylvania, decisively. Venzke faded on the last lap and finished fourth as Cunningham broke the tape in 4 minutes 12 seconds.

In the stretch Cunningham withstood all challenges easily and broke the tape three yards in front of Glen Dawson of the Tulsa A. C., who passed Venzke and Carl Coan, Pennsylvania, to capture second place. Dawson, Coan, and Venzke were strides apart.

Warner Wins Casey 600.

The Casey 600, one of the features of the meet, for the Cardinal Hayes trophy, was won by Karl Warner, Yale star, in 1 minute 12.4 seconds. Bernie McCafferty of the Newark A. C. finished second, two yards behind. Eddie Blake of the Boston A. A. was third, and Arnold Adams of Bates, fourth.

Earl McDonald of the New York A. C. was credited with equaling the world indoor record of 7.4 seconds for the 60 yard high hurdles in his semi-final heat, but fell and failed to finish in the final, which went to John Collier of the Boston A. A. in 7.5 seconds.

Berlinger Takes Septathlon.

Barney Berlinger topped the best previous performance in the septathlon by scoring a total of 6,174.78 points. This surpassed the highest previous mark, 5,885.3 points, collected by Charles Hoff of Norway in 1926. Berlinger broad jumped 22 feet 11 inches, heaved the shot more than 48 feet, high jumped 5 feet 11 inches, and turned in his best performance b pole vaulting 13 feet 4 inches. Jim Ba...ch's total for five events was 4,054 points.

Florida Nights Made Sweet by Mocking Bird

BY BOB BECKER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Punta Gorda, Fla., March 15.—The brown thrasher, the bird which floods our northern states with melodies during the spring season, has a national ranking as a songster. But when you go to Florida you realize that the mocking bird stands supreme among feathered vocalists.

Since coming out of the swamps of southern Florida, where at night one hears only the mournful hoot of the owls and the occasional squall of a wildcat, into a town which is dominated by mocking birds singing not only by day but also in the middle of the night, we have become mocking bird conscious.

Gives Evening Concerts.

Their notes, their many different kinds of singing, rise above the calls of all other birds, especially at this season when their ardor is unsubdued.

On recent nights, clear and with a moon in the sky, one bird has been carrying on his musical concerts at all hours after sundown. The other night we were awakened by the singing of a bird which was perched in a live oak tree about 150 feet from our window. For nearly thirty minutes we listened to this mocking bird and tried to keep count of the variations in the notes.

There appeared to be no end to the combination of trills, sustained songs, and musical tricks which this bird was executing. Finally, we left the bed and seated ourself in an open window to concentrate on the bird's repertoire. Two interesting features of the mocker's moonlight concert were noted.

Repeats Melody Three Times.

First, the mocking bird repeated one melody or group of notes about three times as a rule. Rarely did the repetition continue four times. Sometimes the bird picked up the last trill or musical combination of his singing and started something new with it.

National Guardsmen Hold Annual Meet Sunday

The Illinois National Guard will hold its third annual indoor track and field championships Sunday afternoon at the 131st Infantry armory, 16th street and Michigan avenue. The events will include the 50 yard dash, 600 yard run, 50 yard low hurdles, standing broad jump, running high jump, 440 yard relay, 880 yard medley relay, tug of war, service relay, and equipment race.

TWO TEN ROUND BOUTS SUPPORT PETROLLE MATCH

Five bouts, three at 10 rounds and two at six, will comprise the card at the Chicago Stadium next Wednesday night. It follows: Barney Ross vs. Billy Petrolle [10]; Johnny Pena vs. Varias Milling [10]; Charley Retzlaff vs. Walter Cobb [10]; Nick Scalba vs. Kid Irish [6], and Billy Gladstone vs. Don Messina [6].

Ross completed his seventh straight day of drills yesterday by boxing five rounds, three with Young Walker and two with Milling. He weighed 13⅞ pounds after the workout, one less than the stipulated poundage against Petrolle and two more than he scaled for his victory over Tommy Grogan at the Washington arena on Feb. 22. Barney will rest today, but will resume training tomorrow.

Retzlaff, Leonard, N. D., heavyweight, sparred three rounds with Pete Wistort yesterday for his match with Cobb. In two bouts this year Cobb held Hans Birkie to a draw at New York on Jan. 16 and lost to Tommy Loughran at Philadelphia on Feb. 13. His best accomplishments last year were victories over George Godfrey and Napoleon Jack Dorval.

An eight round bout between Puggy Weinert, Brighton Park welterweight, and Bill Connell of Monmouth, Ill., is being arranged to replace the 10 rounder scheduled between Buck Everett and Patsy Perroni at Loyola university gymnasium Monday. The Everett-Ferroni contest was canceled yesterday after it was learned that Buck injured his left arm during a workout.

Guy Schriver and Jack Delaney, Chicago middleweights, will clash in a six round bout at Loyola. Four round matches are: Steve Selgrat vs. Jack Robinson, Oscar O'Hanion vs. Jackie Collins, Stanley Neal vs. Ernie Johnson, and Art Donovan vs. Ed Taghart. Von Raolewcz will wrestle Zack Malkov on the bill.

Harry Schuman will retire if he is beaten decisively by Johnny Phagan at the Cicero stadium tomorrow night, his brother, Solly Schuman, former featherweight, said yesterday. Phagan knocked out Harry in a round at the Cicero arena on Jan. 15, and Harry believes it was an accident. The loss was only Schuman's third in 37 bouts. Rufus Miles stopping him at Charleston, S. C., last year, and Solly Dukelsky beating him at the Washington Boulevard arena recently.

Otto Von Porat, Norwegian heavyweight, yesterday drilled several rounds with Seal Harris for a contest against Pete Wistort at Eau Claire, Wis., on March 24. Danny Neenan, Chicago lightweight, and Wally McElwan are to meet in the semi-final. . . . Prince Saunders, south side junior welterweight, will face Willard Brown at Indianapolis next Thursday. . . . An eight round contest between Paul Dazzo and Jackie Stewart is being arranged for White City Monday. . . . Nick Scialaba will arrive Sunday for his match with Kid Irish at the Stadium.

Jerry Heffernan, Loyola university boxing coach, last night issued a challenge to meet Northwestern's champions in an intercollegiate tournament. . . . Joe Triner, Illinois athletic commission chairman, and Commissioner Packey McFarland will return from Springfield this morning after conferring with representatives since Monday regarding the delay in passing the 15 round law permitting non-championship encounters in Illinois.

Boxers from Mount Carmel High school will clash with boys representing St. Philip at St. Philip gymnasium, 3149 Jackson boulevard, tonight. Ten contests will be presented. The tournament will be the first of a series of interscholastic meets between Chicago Catholic high schools to determine a champion before the present school term ends.

An amateur tournament will be offered tonight at the Belle Plaine Athletic club, 3943 Lincoln avenue. Ernie Newgart, Harry Swanson, Joe Pyzak, and John and Matty Planovitch have entered the meet. Clarence Smith will wrestle Jim Evans.

LAKE VIEW WINS IN CHURCH GIRLS' TOURNEY, 21 TO 19

The Lake View Presbyterian team defeated St. Hilary, 21 to 19, in two overtime periods last night in the Cook county church girls' basketball tournament at Trinity parish house, Barry avenue and Osgood street. Ruth Curtis scored the winning points. Other scores:

St. Clement's Aces, 30; Broadway M. E., 5.
Visitation, 2; Help of Christian, 0 (forfeit).
Lamon Avenue M. E., 19; Trinity Lutheran 10.
St. Clara, 1932 champion, will play St. Teresa in one of the three games tonight.

Thornton Fractional Beats Waukegan Heavies, 45-35

Waukegan's heavyweight quintet lost its first game in 21 starts last night when it was defeated, 45 to 35, by Thornton Fractional of Harvey in the Joliet sectional tournament.

New Peril for Ring Amateurs in New York

commission, together with their police records, if any, and decide to drop boxing altogether or carry it on strictly in private rather than let their names appear on the same roster.

However, once the law has been passed, William Muldoon could put down any such rebellious or seditious conduct single handed. All Mr. Muldoon would have to do would be to issue an order in triplicate and the disturbing elements would find themselves barred for life.

Mr. Carnera Knows.

It is a serious thing to be barred for life by Mr. Muldoon, as Primo Carnera can attest. Primo was barred for life because one of his seconds was alleged to have pushed a pistol into the ribs of one of his opponents to make the opponent behave. It took Primo nearly three months, or until James J. Johnston, a friend of many illustrious Tammany statesmen, wished to use him in an open air show, to serve out his life sentence.

However, Primo's offense was a trivial one as compared with a direct affront to the dignity of Mr. Muldoon and the prize fight commission. For such a crime the athletic director of the United States Military academy might really be barred for life and thereby forbidden to enjoy official association with any of the police characters who hold credentials from the prize fight commission in the professional game.

One of the worst faults of the college boxers at present is that the boxers do not know what it is all about and consequently hold the wrong mental attitude. In association with the professional racket in its present state of purity wrought by Mr. Muldoon through years of conscientious supervision the amateur fighters would observe practical examples in fouling, stalling, and dry-diving, and their mental attitude toward the sport would be corrected by personal contacts with some of the most artistic fakers that the racket has ever produced.

Let's Have New Trophies.

Up to the present time the squad rooms and corridors of the college boxing arenas are adorned by such meaningless trophies as plaques and cups which have no inspirational character whatever. Under commission rule these naturally would be taken down and replaced by facsimiles of the voting slips whereby Jack Sharkey received the decisions over Max Schmeling last summer, one of the masterpieces of the prize fight commission's long reign, by replicas of the glove with which Sharkey fouled Schmeling in their first fight, and by tinted photographs, autographed by Mr. Muldoon, of all the more successful faking fighters and managers and stalling champions who have held his credentials since 1920.

Fair play and clean sport demand that intercollegiate and all other amateur boxing should be given over to the control of the New York prize fight commission.

Riverside Beats Glenbard, 18-15, in Wheaton Tourney

Riverside, defending champion and holder of the West Suburban league title, last night defeated Glenbard, 18 to 15, in the opening round of the Wheaton invitational lightweight basketball tournament. York defeated Downers Grove, 27 to 16, and La Grange won from De Kalb, 22 to 11, in other first round games. Tonight's tournament schedule will bring together West Chicago and Maine, Wheaton and Riverside, and Hinsdale and York.

Jackson Beats Reiselt, 25-18, in Billiard Match

Clarence Jackson defeated Otto Reiselt at Kieckhefer's Recreation in a three cushion billiard match last night, 25 to 18, in 33 innings. Yesterday afternoon Johnny Layton beat Arthur Thurnblad, 25 to 15, in 24 innings. Willie Hoppe will play Augie Kieckhefer today at 12:30. Hoppe is leading the tournament with 11 victories in 15 engagements in the round robin billiard meet.

Blessed Event Wins Tropical Park Feature

Miami, Fla., March 15.—[Special.]—E. R. Bradley's Blessed Event, by Happy Argo from Soul Mate, set a new seven furlong track record of 1:25 at Tropical Park today when he won by three-quarters of a length at the end of the featured Granada handicap. Terrier was second, a neck before Golden Fate.

The old mark, set by Prince Tokalon, was cut by a fifth of a second by Blessed Event, which was scoring his first victory in ten Florida starts. He was ridden out to win today at $9.20 for $2.

Favorites again had a bad time, six meeting defeat in succession after the public choice had won the curtain raiser. Blessed Event was the second choice in the Granada and was away smartly when the barrier was sprung. Golden Fate was equally quick to begin and rushed up to assume the lead. Blessed Event was rated along second.

The Sir Galahad III.-Fairy Wand colt Caerleon, which was considered the best two year old prospect in the string of the late Gifford A. Cochran, was winner by a nose at 4 to 1 in the test that was fifth on the program.

CALDER DELAYS ACTION IN HAWKS' BOSTON WALKOUT

Game with Detroit Sunday to Be in Afternoon.

MONTREAL, Que., March 15.—[Special.]—Frank Calder, president of the National Hockey league, today refused to comment on the Chicago Blackhawks-Boston Bruins game at Boston last night which ended when Manager Tommy Gorman of the Blackhawks led his team off the ice after a fight with Referee Bill Stewart.

Calder said he would take no action until he received the reports of officials and had heard Gorman's version.

The trouble came in the overtime period when Boston scored a goal to go into the lead. Gorman claimed that the red light indicating a goal flashed before the puck was hit.

After Gorman's altercation with the referee, police were called to eject the Chicago manager from the arena, and when Gorman left, he took the Blackhawks with him. The game then was forfeited to Boston.

On only one occasion in league history has a team left the ice and forfeited the game. That was Jan. 26, 1921, when Ottawa forfeited to the Canadiens of Montreal after a dispute over a goal. The Ottawa club was fined $500.

PLAY SUNDAY AFTERNOON.

The final game of the Chicago hockey season between the Blackhawks and the Detroit Red Wings will be played Sunday afternoon at the Stadium. The game will start at 3:30 o'clock.

The playing of the game in the afternoon will be in the nature of an experiment and both Maj. Frederic McLaughlin and James Norris Sr., owners of the two teams, and other National Hockey league executives will watch the outcome.

CORD WINS FULL CONTROL OVER AVIATION CORP.

Offices to Be Moved to Chicago.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 15.—As a result of additional purchases of stock since the proxy contest a few weeks ago the group headed by E. L. Cord today took complete command of the Aviation corporation.

L. B. MANNING.
[Grignon Photo.]

Eight of the seventeen directors, including President Richard F. Hoyt, resigned. Mr. Cord intends to become chairman of the board and to move the company's offices to Chicago.

The retiring members of the board include Robert Lehman and W. A. Harriman, two of the bankers who were in the original group of sponsors for the corporation; Lamotte T. Cohu, former president; George R. Hann, Charles L. Lawrence, Lindley C. Morton, and Matthew S. Sloan.

Manning New President.

Later it was announced that L. B. Manning had been elected president to succeed Mr. Hoyt. Raymond S. Pruitt was elected secretary and general counsel. L. L. Young was appointed vice president and T. J. Dunnion treasurer.

Directors who continue in office with Mr. Cord include Frank A. Vanderlip, L. B. Manning, L. L. Young, and R. S. Pruitt, who were identified with Cord in the December contest; G. C. Conway, M. C. Meigs, A. G. Carter, and C. C. Darling.

Hoyt's Explanation.

Announcing the changes today, Mr. Hoyt issued the following explanation:

"E. L. Cord has advised directors of the Aviation corporation that he and his associated interests have greatly increased their holdings of stock of the company and now have effective control, and that he therefore desired to take full responsibility and direction of the corporation's affairs, become chairman of the board, select a majority of the directors, and move the corporation's offices to Chicago.

"Under these circumstances Messrs. Cohu, Hann, Harriman, Lawrence, Lehman, Morton, Sloan, and myself believe that it would serve no useful purpose to us to continue as directors, and I am accordingly resigning as president and director and the above named gentlemen are resigning as directors."

The office of chairman of the board has been vacant. Mr. Lehman was chairman until the December elections.

ALWARD RESIGNS AS FURNITURE MART PRESIDENT

Resignation of V. L. Alward as president of the American Furniture Mart Building corporation was announced yesterday. Lawrence H. Whiting, chairman, succeeds to the presidency and the active management of the corporation.

Mr. Alward became president of the Mart in 1925 after service of many years with the Simmons company as executive vice president in charge of sales. He leaves the Mart to become the head of a furniture group whose plans have not yet been announced. He will remain on the Mart's board of directors. Mr. Whiting, the new president, founded and built the Furniture Mart and has been chairman of the board since its inception.

Masonite Corp. to Reopen Plant, Add 250 Workers

Laurel, Miss., March 15.—(AP)—Officials of the Masonite corporation announced today that operation of the plant would be resumed next Monday at 60 per cent of capacity, employing 200 men on the day and night shifts, an increase of 250 over recent weeks.

U. S. Develops Money System by Experience

BY REUBEN CAHN.

The United States has had to learn the principles of sound finance in the school of hard knocks. The history of money in older countries has not been convincing to those who have had the direction of our finances. Even our own earlier experience has frequently failed to impress those later in authority.

ALEXANDER HAMILTON.

An early step in American financial self-education was the attempt to operate on a bimetallic standard. Since Rome's ox and sheep system, nations have been endeavoring to have two commodities serve at the same time as standards of value. Naturally, the United States started out the same way.

Alexander Hamilton, the equal of whom each succeeding secretary of the treasury is said to be by his flatterers, formulated our system of money, with the decimal scheme of the penny, dime, dollar, and eagle together with the fractions, half-dime, quarter, and half dollar and quarter and half eagle.

Bimetallism Adopted in 1792.

Hamilton's report of Jan. 21, 1791, adopted the next year, also provided for a double standard of gold and silver. A ratio of 15 to 1 was established between them. Any one could bring all the silver to the mint he wanted and get as much silver money or gold or gold money as he was entitled to on the established basis between the metals.

But though the United States might proclaim that gold was worth only 15 times as much as silver, in international metal markets gold was worth more than 15 times as much as silver. As a consequence, gold disappeared from circulation. At that time, the government even had difficulty in making silver circulate, for the reason that our silver dollar, though lighter than the Spanish dollar, was readily passed for it among the natives of the West Indies.

Our money changers made a neat profit for themselves by exporting our silver dollar, bringing back the Spanish dollar, taking it to the mint, where it was exchanged by weight for the American dollar and repeating the process. Some of our silver money circulated, however, and that together with mutilated foreign coins provided the medium for exchange.

Gold Discoveries Cause Changes.

In 1834, gold having been discovered in North Carolina, an influential congressman from that state was able to get a law passed raising the mint ratio from 15 to 1 to 16 to 1. But gold was worth in the metal market only 15.6 times as much as silver. Being now less valuable as metal than as money, gold was used as money, while silver was exported to be sold in the international metal markets.

The discovery of gold in California in 1848 further increased the value of silver with reference to gold and the white metal was exported. To keep fractional currency circulating, their weight was made lighter than the fraction of the dollar which they represented would suggest, and the free coinage was taken away from them.

Having tried unsuccessfully for 80 years to have both metals serve as our standard of value, only to find that we never had more than one of the metals actually serving as money for any considerable period of time, a single standard of gold was adopted in 1873.

Silver Is Demonetized.

The demonetization of silver led to a steady decline in its price. By 1896, the ratio between the metals was 31 to 1. What the politicians from the silver producing states at that time were saying need not here be detailed. It was not remarkable, therefore, that in 1896, less than 25 years after the demonetization of silver, William Jennings Bryan should be able to win the nomination of a major political party on a 16 to 1 double standard platform.

But much less comprehensible is a recent incident. On Jan. 24, 1933, with silver now selling for 1-70th of the price of gold, the proposal to re-establish the free coinage of both gold and silver in the fixed ratio of 16 to 1 was seriously considered in the upper house of congress and actually received the affirmative votes of 18 United States senators.

Congress Hotel Orders $150,000 in Equipment

Stating that he believes now is the time for everyone in the business world to buy supplies and merchandise at what he calls the low point in the market, H. L. Kaufman, president of the Congress hotel, yesterday placed orders for $150,000 in hotel equipment. Before the month is up he states his total expenditures will be $200,000. Among supplies being bought are carpets, linens, mattresses, glasswear, draperies, cotton goods, and a large amount of rejuvenation work.

GRAIN MARKETS REOPEN TODAY; RISE EXPECTED

Chicago Board Fixes Range in Prices.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

The grain trade was poised last night for the reopening of the leading exchanges this morning, and trade sentiment generally indicated a higher level of prices would be witnessed.

Limitations on advances or declines which may occur in grain prices as compared with that of the previous business day will be imposed on the Chicago and St. Louis exchanges, it was announced. Limits on fluctuations will remain in force on the Chicago Board of Trade until the directors deem that such restrictions are unnecessary. No restrictions will be imposed on price fluctuations at Kansas City, it was announced late yesterday.

Fix Range of Prices.

Acting under the provisions of rule 81 of the exchange, the market report committee of the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday announced the limits of high and low prices on grain futures for today as follows[in cents]:

	High.	Low.
WHEAT.
May	53¾	43¾
July	53¾	43¾
September	55	44¾
CORN.
May	27⅝	21⅝
July	29⅝	23⅝
September	31	24⅝
OATS.
May	18¼	14
July	18¼	14⅝
September	19	15
RYE.
May	39	31
July	38⅝	30⅝
BARLEY.
May	29⅝	23⅝

Maximum price changes which will be permitted either up or down from the close of the previous business day will be 5 cents per bushel on wheat, 3 cents on corn, 2 cents on oats, 4 cents on rye, and 3 cents on barley, while on provisions fluctuations are limited to $1 per 100 pounds.

Many operators expressed the belief there was a possibility of the high prices at which grain futures could be sold being touched today. Sharp advances in prices in other commodities, including sugar, silver and hides, trading in which was resumed yesterday, had some effect on traders' views, as did the violent upturn in stocks.

Proposed farm relief legislation at Washington is also regarded as a major market influence.

Foreign Markets Higher.

During the last 10 days, when American grain exchanges were closed, the price of May wheat in Winnipeg, reduced to United States funds at rates of exchange prevailing when that market closed has advanced 2½ cents per bushel. Liverpool futures were up ⅝ cents per bushel during the same period, while Rotterdam March wheat was ¼ cent per bushel lower.

Selling of wheat futures in the Winnipeg wheat market by American interests yesterday failed to prevent a sharp upturn, with the close within a fraction of the top. Net gains were 1½ to 1⅝ cents, with May at 52¼ to 52⅝ cents, July 53½ cents, and October 54⅞ to 55 cents in Canadian funds. Strength in stocks and in other commodities was reported as having considerable influence on the market.

Other grains in the Winnipeg market were sharply higher, with barley up 1¼ cents, which was regarded as reflecting the passage of the beer bill by the house of representatives at Washington. Oats gained ⅝ to ¾ cents; rye, 1½ to 1⅝ cents, and flaxseed, 2⅛ cents for the day in Canadian funds.

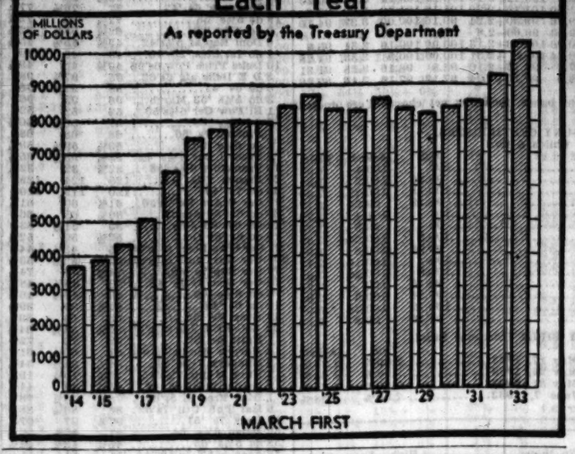
Stock Exchange Seat Sells for $100,000; Up $10,000

New York, March 15.—Further reflection of the buoyant sentiment in the financial community today was found in a report by the New York Stock exchange that arrangements had been completed for the sale of two memberships at $100,000 each. The last previous sale was on March 1, when one membership changed hands at $90,000. The high price this year was $115,000.

Firestone Rubber Company to Increase Output 50 Pct.

Akron, O., March 15.—(AP)—J. W. Palmer, president of the Firestone Tire and Rubber company, announced the plants would increase production 50 per cent, effective immediately. In making the announcement, Palmer said, the step was taken because of the President's "courageous action" in placing the national financial structure on a sound basis.

Stock of Money in the United States on March 1 of Each Year



Dollar Resists Selling Drive; Loss Is Small

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 15.—The dollar slipped sharply and then rallied in the foreign exchange market today, closing lower in terms of nearly all other currencies but still above the levels quoted on the last day of business before the gold embargo was laid down.

On the whole, the behavior of dollar exchange was considered satisfactory by bankers.

At its weakest, the United States unit was lower than it had been for over a year. But the foreign currencies were not able to retain their ascendency and net changes at the close of the day were of moderate size. Two of the European gold standard currencies, those of Belgium and Switzerland, actually showed a net loss in dollar valuation.

What appeared for a time like a rout for the dollar was quickly turned, however, but whether through the natural play of the market or by concerted efforts of the banks under the generalship of Fred I. Kent, the federal reserve's dictator of foreign exchange, was not clear. The foreign currencies cheapened again almost as quickly as they had advanced.

At the close sterling was up ¾ cent to $3.45¾, which was the same as its closing price on March 3, the day before the nation-wide closing of banks. Francs finished at 3.95⅞ cents, up 1¼ point, against 3.96½ cents on March 3; guilders closed up 7 points at 40.47 cents, compared with 40.60 cents on March 3; belgas at 14.02½ cents, down ½ point, compared with 14.11 cents on March 3, and Swiss francs at 19.46 cents, down 2 points, compared with 19.69 cents on March 3.

The closing quotation on the German mark was 23.99 cents, up 9 points on the day and 11 points above the last price on the Friday before the banking holiday.

N. Y. CITY MUST PAY 6% ON NEW 3 MONTH NOTES

New York, March 15.—(AP)—Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of the Chase National bank, announced this afternoon that a banking group would take care of the city's $27,000,000 obligations falling due today.

Aldrich said the bank was made up of the clearing house banks, the Fulton Trust company, the Empire Trust company, the Brooklyn Trust company and the Kings County Trust company.

The interest rate will be six per cent. The notes will be dated March 15, due June 15.

WHO COULDN'T BE SENTIMENTAL FOR $8,000 GOLD?

Persons owning small amounts of gold which they treasure for sentimental reasons are not affected by the treasury anti-hoarding regulations.

When a collection ceases to be sentimental and becomes a hoard is one of the fine points which authorities at the Chicago Reserve bank are called upon daily to decide.

One portly gentleman yesterday presented himself at the gold teller's window.

"I own some gold to which I attach a great deal of sentimental value," he said. "Do I have to turn it in?"

"How much have you," the teller inquired.

"About $8,000," replied the sentimentalist.

"I appreciate your sentiment but think that you will have to sacrifice it for the time being," the teller informed him.

Dozens of persons, mostly women, who brought in $5 and $10 gold pieces were told that they could keep their coins if they wished to do so.

The former executive office of the Utility Securities company, Insull stock selling organization, located in the Federal Reserve Bank building, has been turned into a temporary pressroom for the reporters covering activities at the bank.

The large portrait of Samuel Insull which formerly hung in the office has been removed, but an imposing picture of the Civic Opera building, an Insull promotion, still adorns the room.

In the conference room where salesmen and others were formerly lectured on the worth of Insull Utility gold debentures and Middle West common there now goes on a modest card game. Phone slugs are accepted at a slight discount.

J. R. THOMPSON FIRES NEW SHOT IN FIGHT FOR CHAIN

Another salvo in the battle for control of the John R. Thompson company, national restaurant chain, was fired yesterday. John R. Thompson Jr. sent out a second letter to stockholders replying to charges made on the previous day by William M. Collins, president. Thompson again asked for proxies to be voted at the impending annual meeting.

Taking up one of Mr. Collins' accusations, Mr. Thompson's latest letter says:

"He says that in 1930 he pointed out my inefficiency to certain directors. Inasmuch as the company's net earnings for that year were $1,126,585, or $3.75 per share of stock [an amount nearly as much as earnings for the two years 1931 and 1932], my management of the company's affairs couldn't have been quite as inefficient as Mr. Collins would like to have you believe. Mr. Collins says that the welfare of the company demanded my removal as president in December, 1932. Inasmuch as from March, 1931, the office of president carried with it no authority in the company's affairs, it is difficult to understand how in any manner I was retarding the company's welfare."

Thompson then defends certain interlated transactions of the John R. Thompson Securities corporation and the restaurant company. He says that much of Collins' letter to stockholders was an "attempt to divert the attention of stockholders from the paramount issue—namely: the lack of efficiency of the present management."

ROOSEVELT AID HEARS PLAN FOR RAIL MERGERS

Hint of Law Forcing Consolidations.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 15.—A revision of the transportation act of 1920 to provide for a greater measure of railroad consolidation and for a coördination of all forms of transportation has been under discussions at meetings here of railroad officials, bankers and advisers to President Roosevelt. The extent to which the proposed measure would deal with consolidation is understood to depend on what progress the managements may make on this problem within the next few months under the present laws.

FREDERICK H. PRINCE.
[Assoc. Press Photo.]

The meetings have brought representation from such investment houses as J. P. Morgan & Co. and Kuhn, Loeb & Co., besides the railroads, savings banks and insurance companies. These interests are contributing their views to A. A. Berle, one of President Roosevelt's consultants. Mr. Berle, who was active in drawing up the amendment to the bankruptcy bill passed at the last session of congress, is expected to draft the transportation act revision.

Might Enforce Merger.

In respect to consolidation it is the understanding of railroad officials that the Washington administration believes that if the railroads have not been able to realize the benefits from unification in the thirteen years since the transportation act was passed there should be changes made in the law to bring about these benefits. Consolidation is voluntary under the present law, but, it is argued by some railroad officials, this feature may be changed in new legislation. Consequently they argue that action under the present law might forestall consolidation legislation which might prove to be more drastic.

Bankers have contended that securi-

Urges Rail Men Mix Optimism with Caution

While optimism as to the business outlook generally was expressed at the closing session yesterday of the thirty-fourth annual meeting of the American Railway Engineering association, a note of caution was sounded by F. E. Williamson, president of the New York Central lines. In addressing the convention he said in part:

"It is apparent to many that, for the time being, at least, the horizon discloses no great construction projects for the railroads. For the immediate present we have a surplus of plant and capacity. We have, therefore, an opportunity to concentrate on the maintenance problem.

"The railroads are under competitive pressure, not acutely felt until this depression, but which probably has been quietly generating itself for the last fifteen years. Prior to that time the railroads as a whole had a seller's market. This is no longer true.

Main Lines Do Best.

"The rapid decline in business in the last three years has brought out the contrast between important main routes and lateral and branch lines. It seems as though the lateral and branch lines have shown the effects of the change more sharply than the main lines. We find our main lines today still performing the general range of service that has been customary. It is true it has diminished in volume, but there seems no good reason for believing that to be a permanent change.

"The future volume of business for a considerable quantity of lateral and branch lines is, however, not so clear. The local business, which once largely contributed to earning power, has been the subject of serious inroads from motor competition, operating on improved highways. It seems essential that the railway mileage that is eligible for an unrestricted variety of traffic ought to be confined to such parts of the mileage as are obviously now performing such service and likely so to continue.

Urges Adapting Service.

"It seems patently desirable to work toward an end in which the yield per invested dollar shall increase. Let us assume that the outlook of today requires increased service adaptation; that it invites careful classification of service in order to foster the available business.

"I do not believe in miracles in the sense of any radical change of standards or methods. I would like to leave you with these suggestions:

"1. We must shape our transportation product to our market.

"2. We must shape our plant investment and the care of it to our means.

"3. We must shape our physical standards to conform with such objectives."

STOCK MARKET SPURTS UPWARD WITH REOPENING

Entire List Climbs in Buying Flood.

New York, March 15.—[Special.]—Led by the New York Stock exchange, most of the security and commodity markets in the country reopened today for the first time since March 3, and investors and traders promptly showed their approval of the reconstruction program of President Roosevelt by the most emphatic buying movement in many months.

The average gain of stocks was approximately 15 per cent the largest one day advance, from the standpoint of percentage, within Wall street's memory. In indicated market value, stocks showed an appreciation of 3 billion dollars. Representative issues advanced from 2 to 12 points. All groups participated in the upswing.

Over 3 Million Shares.

Trading on the stock exchange totaled 3,065,000 shares, the heaviest turnover since last Sept. 22. Buying orders poured in over the wires from all parts of the country, and on several occasions the stock ticker fell two or three minutes behind the trading on the floor of the exchange.

The bond market participated in the advance under the leadership of United States government issues, which scored gains of 1 to 3 points.

In the commodity markets sugar, hides, rubber, silk, and silver all moved sharply higher on heavy trading.

Brokers declared that just as bank depositors had shown their confidence in financial institutions by returning their money to them when they reopened this week, so investors were demonstrating their faith in the recovery program of President Roosevelt by buying stocks and bonds. Some brokers immediately termed the advance a "Roosevelt market," since it was the first session since the administration took office.

Market Opens Much Higher.

Opening prices of leading stocks were from 1 to 6 points higher than on March 3. The opening blocks, ranging from 1,000 to 5,000 shares, were not unusually large, in the light of the initial gains. In many cases, however, a scarcity of stock, caused by widespread cancellation of selling orders during the last twelve days, necessitated sharp advances even on small buying orders.

HISTORY AND BUSINESS—The Berghoff Brewery is one of the oldest, largest and most favorably known in the Middle West and Chicago area. It has been in continuous operation since 1887 and is the largest licensed operating brewery in Indiana. The company has always enjoyed a national reputation for brewing fine quality German brews of various types. These brews brought a high premium for their quality and gave the enterprise a distinctive position in the brewing industry. Since Prohibition the plant has been kept in a high state of operating efficiency, producing a fine quality of near beer. It is the intention of the management to maintain the company's dominant position as a brewer of the extra quality types of beer for which it has always enjoyed an outstanding preeminence.

EARNINGS RECORD—Berghoff Brewing Corporation has a present capacity in excess of 200,000 barrels, or 62,000,000 bottles per annum, which capacity can be greatly increased when conditions warrant. Figures taken from an examination made by Messrs. Ernst & Ernst, Certified Public Accountants, discloses the following record of net earnings, after all charges except depreciation, for the five-year period prior to Prohibition.

Year	Earnings	Barrels Sold
1913	$322,945.60	149,192
1914	308,553.94	144,626
1915	245,988.10	136,440
1916	374,635.95	172,218
1917	354,430.54	174,777

The above figures total $1,606,554.13 for the five-year period, or an average of $321,310.82 per annum.

FINANCIAL CONDITION—Pro forma balance sheet as of February 1, 1933, after giving effect to present financing, viz., the sale of 60,000 shares of the company's capital stock, indicates the following position: Cash on Hand, $255,000.00; Materials and Supplies (as certified to by the management), $119,961.08; Land, Buildings, Machinery and Equipment (sound values after depreciation), as appraised by The Lloyd-Thomas Co., $777,825.73; or Total Assets (exclusive of good will, trade-marks, formulas, carried at the nominal sum of $1.00) of $1,152,786.81. The company has no liabilities other than capital stock.

CAPITALIZATION—The company is conservatively capitalized, there being no funded debt or preferred stock, all one class of stock—270,000 shares common stock authorized, to be presently outstanding after the sale of the 60,000 shares.

PURPOSE OF THIS ISSUE—Like most of the country's leading breweries, Berghoff has heretofore been a close corporation. The purpose of this financing (sale of 60,000 shares of common stock) is to provide the company with funds to increase its capacity and for additional working capital.

FUTURE OUTLOOK—The Berghoff Brewery is advantageously located for widespread distribution throughout the states of Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, West Virginia, northern Kentucky, Iowa, Illinois, including the city of Chicago, where the company's popular brands were long a favorite among the beer drinking public. It is one of the few old time breweries with an outstanding name now in position to operate on a large scale and with an organization intact.

RECOMMENDATION—We recommend immediate purchase of Berghoff Brewing Corporation Common shares at current price levels as a most inviting speculation; first, because the company's products, widely advertised, enjoy a reputation for quality second to none; second, the company is in excellent financial condition, with modest capital structure; third, the company is now operating under Government license and will be among the first to profit from an assured enormous consumer demand; fourth, with the legalization of beer, the Berghoff Brewing Corporation should again become one of the country's largest and most profitable enterprises in this industry.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 15.—The sharpest rally in months signalized the resumption of trading in the bond market today.

The complete absence of offerings, coupled with the operation of a considerable short interest, resulted in a steady price advance in all groups, which at times ranged up to 5 points. While volume was not unusually large, the spirited rally indicated a genuine revival of confidence.

Greatest attention among traders was attracted to the soaring United States government issues, which have benefited most directly from the turnabout of the financial situation. United States government securities rallied as much as 3 points in some issues.

Corporation Issues Rise.

Other high grade bonds in the corporation division of the market staged sensational rallies, amounting to as high as 5 points in such an issue as Norfolk and Western 4s. Public utility bonds, which dropped steadily in value just before the banking holiday, rose sharply, with issues of Consolidated Gas of New York leading.

Speculative bonds, particularly in the railroad group, rose from 3 to 5 points in most instances. Revival of speculative activity in such issues was in keeping with the uprush of stock prices on the exchange.

Gains in speculative bonds ranged from 3 to 5 points.

Foreign Liens Advance.

Foreign dollar bonds shared fully in the advance, with German and Japanese issues gaining from 3 to 5 points. Argentines, Belgians, and Danish issues were strong spots.

Genuine restoration of confidence in fixed income bearing securities was mainly the most conspicuous cause for the wide markup of prices. The inflation threat is believed in most quarters to have been removed; forced liquidation henceforth will be confined chiefly to banks in the hands of conservators, and finally there is widespread hope that reviving business may bring considerable aid to prices.

STOCK MARKET SPURTS UPWARD WITH REOPENING

Entire List Advances in Buying Flood.

higher at 28¾, while the preferred opened 4¾ points higher at 60¼. At first there were no offers of the latter issue at less than 66. Both stocks more than doubled their initial gains in the subsequent trading. Other representative stocks opened with similar gains.

The opening gains, brokers said, were caused by a scattering of small buying orders from all parts of the country.

Starts Rush to Buy.

As soon as the initial transactions had been printed on the tape a determined rush to buy appeared in all sections of the list. Beer stocks, food stocks, merchandising shares, steels, utilities—all rose rapidly and steadily. Shorts started a frantic rush to cover their commitments, only to find themselves competing for stocks with eager bulls and the advance was accelerated.

In the last hour rail shares, which had advanced only moderately, joined in the upswing under the leadership of Union Pacific, New York Central, and Santa Fé. Gains in this group for the hour were from 1 to 4 points and for the entire session from 1 to 16 points, the latter advance being registered by Norfolk and Western, a relatively inactive issue.

Closing prices of leading stocks were generally at the best levels of the day. The final quotations, as measured by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S index of fifty stocks, were the highest since Feb. 1. In one day the decline of the entire month of February had been canceled.

Sets Percentage Record.

The index also showed that the 15 per cent advance scored today was the largest for any single session since the index was started in 1911. Previously the largest gain for one day was on Oct. 6, 1931, when the index advanced 9.35 points, or 11.7 per cent. Today's gain averaged only 7.66 points, but since the advance started from a lower level the percentage gain was larger than on Oct. 6, 1931.

New York bank stocks were lower in the over the counter market at the opening, reflecting the passing or reduction of dividends by several banks since March 3. Later, however, most of the losses were canceled and closing prices were from 4½ points lower to 40 points higher, the latter gain being scored by First National.

The advance in stocks and bonds and the swelling volume of trading was reflected in the sale of two stock exchange memberships at $100,000 each, an advance of $10,000 compared with the preceding sale.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, March 15.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was quiet today, but the undertone was firmer, with holders asking higher levels, encouraged by sharp upturn in futures. Buyers were inclined to be cautious, but after a sale late yesterday of 18,000 bags of Philippines for March-April shipment at 2.91c, which was 4 points below the previous sale, the market firmed up, with 25,000 bags of Cuban selling today for prompt shipment at 3.90c. Trading in the futures market was resumed today and after showing some hesitation at the start, prices advanced sharply on active Wall street and commission house buying, with final levels showing net advances of 8 to 10 points. May contracts sold from .95c to 1.02c and December from 1.02c to 1.10c. Final prices were at the best of the session.

The strength in the spot market and a compilation by a trade commission house estimating supplies over requirements in the United States at only 202,000 tons at the end of this year were factors in the upturn. Trading was the most for many months, aggregating 75,400 tons. Prices follow:

ALL LIVE STOCK PRICES MOVE UP ON LOW SUPPLY

Outside Yards Still Hold Back Shipments.

Cattle and lamb markets advanced yesterday, while hogs rallied after a shade lower opening, under the influence of continued light receipts. That supplies in the producing areas are commencing to loosen up, however, is evidenced in reports from the small scattered concentrating yards throughout the corn belt.

Some of these yards are doing business now for the first time since the national bank holiday was declared. Others have been shut down for more than two weeks, owing to local financial difficulties. Both county and state banking holidays also tied up many of these small yards for more than two weeks, and some are not planning to open again until next Monday.

Larger Receipts Expected.

Unless a break in prices curbs the movement, there is likely to be a gradual increase in receipts for the next few days. All new developments at Chicago and in the country at large helped to bring operations in the live stock industry nearer to normal. Twenty-five concentrating yards in the corn belt and seven interior packing plants in the west received a combined total of 25,700 hogs yesterday, the largest for a Wednesday in four weeks.

The financial crisis of the last three weeks curbed the movement of supplies through the smaller yards more effectively than at the larger points. Supplies at the leading market centers still are running light. The combined total at the 20 public stockyards for the first three days of this week, for instance, at 445,000 cattle, hogs, and sheep, showed a decrease of 88,000 head, or 16 per cent, compared with a week ago.

Cattle at Year's Top Price.

Cattle prices equaled the highest levels of the year in yesterday's buoyant trade. Top sales of 1,033 pound yearling steers to United Dressed Beef of New York reached $7.50. Only one other day this year is credited with cattle sales that high. Advances of 15 to 25 cents were general in beef steers. Cows ruled to slightly higher and heifers advanced 15 to 25 cents, closing at the high point of the session. Reports that markets for other food products were higher stimulated the demand for live stock.

Hogs swung about and headed upward in a mild rally after opening weak to 10 cents lower. The general average for the day held steady at $3.95, but the top grades were bought mostly during the forenoon at $4.05 and $4.10, showing 5 cents loss. Word from the wholesale pork trade was also more encouraging.

An advance of 15 to 25 cents in slaughter lambs brought top grades to $5.75, the highest price since Wednesday, last week. All interests bought aggressively at this figure after the lished."

MEN.

WE WILL START LIMITED FEW ADDITIONAL MEN IN OUR ORGANIZATION IMMEDIATELY. IF YOU WOULD LIKE TO JOIN THIS COMPANY AT THIS MOST OPPORTUNE TIME COME IN THURSDAY FOR AN INTERVIEW.

If you are adaptable to this work, if you have good reputation and the will to succeed, we will employ you and back you in permanent work that is regularly paying qualified men in all parts of this country and throughout the world. $4,000, $5,000, $6,000, $7,500 per year and higher. These incomes are cash—not just as stable and permanent as any business or professional positions possibly could be. Such earnings represent success, and they are available to men who can think and work successfully.

This company is now in the greatest success of its history. This has been its most prosperous year, and its men throughout the nation have consistently grown stronger, happier and more and more prosperous.

Those who are inexperienced in specialty sales work must make the necessary time to learn and to acquire skill. During this time they must be willing and satisfied to get along on nominal earnings of $125 to $150 per month if necessary. We cannot tell you how long it will take you to do this—whether one month or six months—but we do know that if you have the qualifications to satisfy our requirements, you can, with reasonable study, practice, good character and diligence, be genuinely assured of making a success which will afford you the higher incomes.

While, as above stated, we do not encourage men to come to us unless they are content at nominal earnings, nevertheless, many do get started splendidly. For instance, a former tea salesman, R. Sands, earned over $20 his first 2 days here and over $45 the following week. A former auto salesman, I. Chase, made over $60 his first 9 days in our south side branch, and $110 the following week. W. Grimm, previously a sewing machine man, started here Feb. 16th, and by March 1st, he had earned $100, and he followed this in turn by earning $113. She same week Mr. Grimm made $110. We recently employed another group of 5 men and each of these men earned money his first 10 hours in this business.

We have found that many men possess the qualifications for outstanding success in this kind of work without ever realizing it until they get started.

And what is of greatest importance is that when a man once learns our work, he can absolutely guarantee continuous and enlarging income for himself and family in return for consistently successful application. If you feel you can qualify, and if you really would like to learn how to do this work and to make the kind of money successful men in this economy make—call for personal interview Thursday morning, 9:30 to 1:30, at 430 Hyde Park Bank Bldg., 53d and Lake Park-av.

Meet and talk with these men and also others here if you are qualified for these positions as above stated.

IF YOU ARE REALLY WILLING TO WORK 8 hours a day and can start immediately, apply Room 818, 203 N. Wabash. About $18 per week.

PROCESS OF BEER MAKING SHOWN BY SERIES OF PHOTOGRAPHS AT CHICAGO BREWERY WHICH IS TURNING OUT BEVERAGE IN ANTICIPATION OF FINAL ACTION BY CONGRESS WHICH WILL MAKE IT LEGAL DRINK. Beer in the process of manufacture at brewery at 2107 Blue Island avenue yesterday. No. 1 shows barley being unloaded from box car onto conveyor which lifts it to grinding mills. No. 2 is the mixture of malt and processed water simmering in copper kettles for three hours. No. 3 is the steel, glass lined tanks in which fermentation takes place. The beer stands here for three weeks after the yeast culture is added. In picture No. 4 Brewmaster Charles Ellman is testing the fluid in his laboratory before it goes into oaken casks for ageing, and in picture No. 5 the finished product is being barreled for shipment to customers. The only important process not shown in this series is that of cooling after the beer leaves the coolers. (Story on page 5.)
